

News As Reported In The Enterprise Forty Years Ago

NOVEMBER 11, 1910

Several young men on election night collected a few hand instruments and serenaded on Main Street. Their enthusiasm over the results was as refreshing as "Has Anybody Here Seen Kelly." Martin County showed its true spirit by voting the Democratic ticket.

The Farmers and Merchants Bank has just been notified by State Treasurer, Lacy, that it has been designated a State Depository. This means that a portion of the State Funds collected as Taxes will be deposited here in Williamston and checked out by the State Treasurer Lacy is quite a compliment to Martin County and should be appreciated by our citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. Asa T. Crawford entertained on Tuesday in honor of Mr. Crawford's fortieth birthday. The occasion was a delightful one and each guest present wished for Mr. Crawford many happy returns of the days. The guests present were: Mrs. W. T. Crawford, Mrs. Fannie Kellinger, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Crawford, Mr. and Mrs. Wheeler Martin, Dr. and Mrs. John D. Biggs, Miss Anna Crawford, and Mr. Harry A. Biggs.

The honor roll of the Williamston Graded School for the month of October is as follows: Fifth Grade: Fannie Biggs Martin, Crinne M. Smith and Walter Stubbs. Sixth Grade: Clyde Anderson, Fitzhugh Lee Roberson, Frank Weaver. Tenth Grade: Vada Wynne, Sallie Hadly, Hilda Crawford, Lila Wynne, Penelope Biggs.

Mrs. J. B. Williams of Hamilton, is spending some time with her sister in Plymouth.

Quite a number of young people were happily entertained by Misses Fannie Matthews and Delia Lanier at the home of the former in Hamilton Friday night. The "bunch" assembled about nine o'clock and after a time of pleasant chatting, delicious refreshments were served.

Last Monday about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, the Angel of Death entered the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Peel, of Hamilton, and took away their beloved Flower of Youth, Maggie, a loving and beautiful character of fifteen summers.

The town of Robersonville was greatly and agreeably surprised Friday morning, when the news went flying around that Mr. Will Ross and Miss Hester Mooring had been united in marriage. Miss Mooring is one of the most sweetly disposed girls that the writer has ever known, and Mr. Ross is one of the most devout young men of the town.

Misses Pearl, Blanche and Mollie Robertson, of Robersonville, went

"I'll Get By" Has Many Stars

Nine stars, dozens of famous songs and production numbers and fully 52 lavish settings are just a few of the inducements offered by the Watts Theatre's forthcoming attraction, "I'll Get By." Twentieth Century-Fox musical to Hamilton Tuesday to attend the funeral of Miss Maggie Peel.

Miss Lessie Ovc'ton, of Oak Grove, spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. W. A. Ross at her home in Robersonville.

Miss Line James has returned to her home in Robersonville after visiting in Scotland Neck.

J. J. Stroud, of Everetts, spent Sunday in Ayden.

J. P. Boyle, of Hamilton, went to Everetts Friday.

Miss Mamie Taylor, of Everetts, went to Robersonville Saturday.

Misses Bessie Casper and Oma Rogerson, of Bear Grass, spent Saturday in Everetts.

Dr. Williams and C. B. Riddick, of Everetts, were in town Sunday night.

sical in color by Technicolor arriving Sunday, November 12.

June Haver, William Lundigan, Gloria De Haven, Dennis Day and Harry James constitute the top echelon of stars gracing "I'll Get By" with their presence. Thelma Ritter and Steve Allen head the featured complement, which further lists Danny Davenport and Harry Antrim. For extra measure there is to be a quartet of famous guest stars on hand. Those pitching in to give "I'll Get By" its added luster are Jeanne Crain, Dan Dailey, Victor Mature and Reginald Gardiner.

For Miss Haver "I'll Get By," amiable musical comedy about up-and-coming song writers and their girls, is the first modern dress musical in a dozen nostalgic shows, though "I'll Get By" has its own share of nostalgia in the two dozen song hits of the late nineteen thirties and early forties which are reprised in this film about that era. Though Lundigan's talent is non-musical, he has the top romantic spot and leaves the dancing to June Haver and Gloria De Haven, playing a sister act, the singing to Dennis Day and the trumpeting to Harry James.

Studio Discovers Theme At Home

Pasadena's world-famous New Year's Day Parade . . . The Tournament of Roses, had been in existence a mere 61 years before Hollywood decided it had been overlooking a red-hot film theme right in its own backyard.

As a result of Universal-International's decision to film "Peggy," the Technicolor story of a Rose Queen, this fabulous spectacle is finally captured on the screen in all its glory. In years past, Pasadena has been a favorite locale for film studios but always in a stand-in capacity for other American cities.

"Peggy," starring Diana Lynn, Charles Coburn, Charlotte Greenwood and Barbara Lawrence, opens Sunday at the Viccar Theatre.

Producer Ralph Dietrich obtained the full co-operation of the Tournament of Roses officials with the result that "Peggy" includes unparalleled accuracy in its treatment of subject material from the time co-eds of Pasadena Junior College and John Muir Junior College enter the early eliminations until the lucky girl is selected as Rose Queen in the New Year's Day parade.

The screen prototype of Marion Brown, the 1950 Rose Queen, is played by glamorous Barbara Lawrence.

Although the Rose Parade appears annually in theatres throughout the world via newsreels, "Peggy" will mark the first appearance of the pageant in all its beauty in a feature motion picture. Three Technicolor camera crews exposed thousands of feet of film while recording the 1950 extravaganza, including scenes of the sixty flower-bedded floats, twenty marching bands, 1500 paraders, 200 horsemen and, of course, the 1,500,000 spectators who watched the top New Year's Day show of America.

The film reaches its thrilling climax with the kick-off between Ohio State and the gridiron players of the University of California, a thrilling Rose Bowl game which was won by the in-

Interesting Bits Of Business in U. S.

The first strong hints that economic controls may be with us for some time to come are coming out of Washington . . . An anti-inflation program, not for four years, but for the duration of the emergency is hinted. More than ever, a definition of what are normal times and what constitutes an emergency is needed . . . Food prices headed higher again, judging from price trends in primary markets . . . Discussion of rearming Japan means more additions to expenditures for military equipment in this country . . . Steel is getting scarcer daily. Railroads are in need of larger tonnages to move traffic, and equipment manufacturers are bidding more actively for the metal.

"Peggy" was directed by Frederick de Cordova. Charles Drake, Rock Hudson and Jerome Cowan are featured.
