Just Claims
While it is generally admitted that North Carolina has an able man in Jeff Johnson for the State Supreme Court, there is little agreement on the political implications back of the recent developments on the court front.

Kerr Scott's old enemies have exploited every angle in an effort to picture him as suffering a defeat in the judiciary committee week before last.
Whether Scott won or lost, frankly we do not know. But if the anti-Scott forces have anything to crow about, one would have to use a microscope to find it. The fact that the old anti-gang sat up most of Friday night before the committee meeting on Saturday and could only garner about 60 votes for their man went by unnoticed.

Everything Is Going To Be All Right?
Those who fell for the old line of the political candidate with the calm assurance that with the election of so and so there everything is going to be all right, are, we are afraid, going to encounter some disappointment.
With the Republicans almost firmly in the saddle, they will have to work hard to explain away their shortcomings in the face of the glorious promises made during the campaigns.
There were those candidates who talked about balancing the budget. There are those who talked about foreign policy, about domestic issues.
They told the voters that with their election everything would be all right. The question is: Will everything be all right?

Cause For Unrest
While it is impossible that human life is held cheap in many lands, fighting and killing and general unrest are not to be traced to temperament alone.
The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization reports that half the world's population is hanging on with an average annual income of less than $100 a year. Where the average life expectancy in advanced countries is 70 years, it is only 33 years in many lands. Illiteracy comes to climax a pitiful condition in which the unfortunate are unable to distinguish between their enemies and their friends.

Coincident
Surely, the drop in peanut prices a few days ago was just a coincident with the Republican gains having nothing to do with it.
However, it is indeed singular that stock market prices should advance, allegedly as a result of the Republican gains in the election, and that peanut prices should weaken at the same time.
It is fairly certain that an advantageous farm program is doubtful with the new lineup in Congress, but one would not have expected the skids to be placed under the farmer so soon after the election.

The test of an oak or of a man is: How sound is he at the heart.-VanDyke.

Demand
Peanut growers, meeting in Scotland Neck a few days ago, agreed to demand congressional legislation favorable to the Virginia type peanut.
Possibly the group had not heard the results of the election the day before.
The present farm program was made possible when Vice President Barkley broke a tie vote. Given five more seats in the U. S. Senate, the Republicans can be expected to question the farm program from one end to the other with the possibility that peanuts will have a struggle all the way and that there'll have to be more pleading than demanding. The day for the farmer and little man, we are afraid, is fast spending itself.

Over Estimated
Cry after cry has been heard, warning the unsuspecting that labor is about to wreck the country. It would appear that someone is yelling about something to divert attention from the real danger.
If labor, organized or unorganized, is so powerful as the Nation Association of Manufacturers would have us believe, then why did it take such a walloping at the polls on November 7?
Labor's power has been over estimated when it comes to running the country, but the exploiters have done a miraculous job in setting the working man up as a class and bringing others into the picture to create class antagonism.

A Little Courtesy Will Help
There were a dozen or more motor vehicle accidents on the highways and streets in this county in a recent week. A hurried study of the causes underlying the accidents shows that just a little courtesy shown on the part of the operators would have possibly eliminated several of the crashes.
Too often, drivers do not dim their lights because they overlook a simple courtesy. In just about every respect most of them are good folks, but, unfortunately, they are potential killers. Possibly a bright light held in the eyes of the approaching motorist is not as insulting as the act of spitting in one's eye would be, but a bright light confronting a motorist is far more dangerous.
In towns, dim lights are in order at all times.

Have'n't Hit the Spot Yet
Much is being said about the costly toll accidents are taking in human life, limb and property on the highways and streets in our State. During a recent three-day period, 21 lives were lost and 195 persons were injured. Through the sixth of this month, 805 persons had been killed and 10,200 others injured.
It would seem too much is being said and not enough being done to check the killing and maiming. In other words, safety promoters and too many motorists have not yet hit the safety spot.

Works, Not Words
Canadian Foreign Minister Lester B. Pearson came forward with something in an address to the United Nations General Assembly's Political Committee at Lake Success a few days ago. He said:
"A two-year moratorium on bellicose and violent speeches about peace at the United Nations, and a two-year attempt to do something effective about peace."
What's The Motive?
The French are retreating in Indo-China, but it is not yet clear whether they are retreating for their own safety or to pave the way for American aid.
It seems that the isms have been worked as a means of getting one's hands into Uncle Sam's pocket.

Therefore, come what may, hold fast to love. Though men should read your heart, let them not embitter or harden it. We win by tenderness; we conquer by forgiveness. -W. Robertson.

Exciting Story Of A Marine Hero
Ripped from the pages of one of the most exciting chapters in Marine Corps history, Paramount's explosive action drama "Tripoli" arrives Sunday at the Watts Theatre. In color by Technicolor and starring Maureen O'Hara, John Payne and Howard da Silva, this lusty tale of fighting leathernecks is the most elaborate production yet filmed by producers William Pine and William Thomas.
"Tripoli" is based on the amazing true story of Marine Lieutenant Presley O'Bannon, played by Payne, who organized and led an army across the Libyan Desert to storm the fortress city of the Barbary pirates with whom the United States was at war. This daring exploit marked the first time that the American flag was raised on foreign soil.
Filmed on location in the desert sections around Palm Springs, California, "Tripoli" is said to capture all the color and flavor of the swashbuckling era in which the story is set.

"Don't stall—let's graze!" is the slogan being used by farmers of Lee County in their Green Pastures campaign this fall. An effort is being made to seed 1,000 acres of pasture in the county this year, according to Farm Agent K. S. Harmon. Goals for the next two years are even larger—1,200 acres in 1951 and 1,500 acres in 1952.
Collect for Sunday: "O Lord, we beseech thee, absolve thy people from their offenses; that through thy bountiful goodness we may all be delivered from the bands of those sins, which by our frailty we have committed. Grant this, O heavenly Father, for the sake of Jesus Christ, our blessed Lord and Saviour."

THE RECORD SPEAKS . . .
Motorists on highways and streets in this county last week piled up the ugliest accident record in the history of motor vehicle travel. The only redeeming feature about the whole nefarious business was the intentional or unintentional consideration shown for human life.
The following tabulations offer a comparison of the accident trend: first, by corresponding weeks in this year and last and for each year to the present time.
