

Panthers Come Here Tonight To Play Green Wave For Title

Visiting Team Has A High Point Total

Green Wave Will Take Nothing for Granted Tonight

Warren, Ward, Davis And Edwards Did Not Face Plymouth Last Year

About 8 o'clock tonight the talk about who is going to win the championship game between Williamston and Plymouth will be transformed into action for at least 22 youngsters as 11 in green and 11 in blue face each other on the Williamston gridiron.

While there has been and will be until the issue is decided, a lot of forecasting by supporters of the teams, there is no great evidence apparent to impartial observers to indicate that there is any one-sided victory in prospect for either team.

In meeting mutual opponents, Williamston has an edge in points scored but does not have an edge in victories. In winning all four games in the conference Plymouth's margin was 29 points higher than that for Williamston but comparative scores don't always tell too much. Outside the conference, Plymouth can not be said to have played any strong teams, certainly it has not met anything of a class with Washington and Wenden.

Although some Plymouth fans claim their line is not as good this year as last, evidence appears to point the other way. They have mostly the same backfield they

REGULAR GATE

While Bus Fund Tags which have a ticket attached to them are being sold for the Williamston-Plymouth game tonight at $2.00 each, the report that that game will cost all spectators $2.00 is erroneous. A regular admission gate will be operated and the usual prices will prevail there. No tickets at regular prices are being sold, however, until the usual hour before game time. Those holding tags can go directly into the park without having to stand in line at the ticket window.

had last year while Williamston has considerable more depth than was the case last year when the Panthers defeated the Green Wave on a pass interception deep in Williamston territory.

Rival coaches have declared the Williamston end run with Russell Rogers or Wallace Warren carrying is about the best they have seen this year while some have said that Plymouth's reverse is faster with Tuten and Barnhill carrying. Tuten's strongest play is a spinner and the 170-pounder is a hard runner at any spot. In reverses Williamston can call on Jack Edwards or Billy Spruill and Lindelle Ward usually can get a bit of yardage at almost any given time through the middle. C. Smith is the fullback for Plymouth but Tuten is still the most dependable ground gainer.

Both teams may be expected to have uted the Korean war as an ao win Manchuria. He said he is stay on the ground for the most part although Plymouth has scored several touchdowns on passes from Tuten or Barnhill to Leroy Singleton their pass catching end. Wallace Warren and Jack Edwards can throw the ball for Williamston but receivers for their tosses are another thing. So far Coltraine has been the best in that department but the pass has been used very little by Coach Stuart Maynard's boys this year.

Plymouth has a big, hard charging line and the team's blocking this season has been consistently good. The team has been very dangerous on kick returns with Tuten having returned several for touchdowns during the season. A fake hand-off is also another specialty of the visitors.

Williamston's line play and its blocking have been spotty at times this season but has been improving in recent games. David Davis and Jack Edwards are two of the team's better blockers in the backfield. If Williamston's blocking is sharp tonight, the Green Wave is going to be hard to hold. Four men in the backfield of Williamston will be hard to hold if they ever get a good head start, Jack Edwards, Russell Rogers, Lindelle Ward and Wallace Warren. Billy Spruill is another capable runner but has been handicapped all year by a wide assortment of injuries. Billy loves the game and is a hard blocker and tackler as well as a determined runner.

In the line Williamston has the stalwart Jimmy Myers at right tackle, one of the leaders in the conference the past several years. He is a senior and may be expected to give a good account of himself. Joe Robertson at left tackle is another stocky fellow who gave Ahsokie trouble last Friday night as he and Myers played every minute of the contest. Harrell Everett is due to start at left guard. He is a hard worker who has been handicapped by injuries this year but is reported in good shape now. One of the dependable men in the line is Norwood Keel who plays alongside of Myers at right guard. Keel is not too heavy but makes up a lot with courage. One of its weak points all season, Williamston still has to go with ends that have not had too much experience. Gloyd Stewart is playing his first full year at right end and at left end is a youth who is playing his first year of football, Reginald Coltraine. Another first time out boy is Buddy Fussell who is a substitute at right end. Buddy shows promise at that spot.

Jewell Hardison is the really big boy in the Plymouth line. Brown, brother of Wayne who graduated last year, is another strong man in the forward wall. Pierce graduated last year but the line is strong this year, just the same. It was Pierce who broke up most of Williamston's play last year. It could be that one team or the other will win by several touchdowns but there is nothing in the records of the teams to date, this year or in years past to indicate that more than one touchdown will be the margin.

While Plymouth fans and some of the players have indicated their firm belief, and the papers appear to agree with them, that they can take Williamston handily, the local boys are taking nothing for granted and are ready to settle the matter on the field of play. The stand they made against the Ahsokie Indians last year is an indication of what they think of odds.

DELAYED

The regular weekly meeting of the local National Guard unit, scheduled for this evening, will be held Friday at 8:00 o'clock p. m., the commanding officer announces.

The delay was planned to avoid a conflict with the Plymouth-Williamston football game here this evening at 8:00 o'clock.

Hero To Many His Noisy Fans

If Director William A. Wellman had his way, all schoolboys would wear hobnail boots, judging from the footwear he selected for Gary Gray, young actor in "The Next Voice You Hear."

For a typical family scene in the new M-G-M picture, now showing at the Viccar Theatre, young Gary comes running into his home to greet his screen parents, James Whitmore and Nancy Davis. The sound recorder suggested that a piece of carpet be laid down to subdue the teenage actor's footsteps. Wellman, demurred.
