$284,357.55 levy for 1948. All but $3,575.62 of the $235,185.59 levy for 1947 has been collected.

A request was received asking that the Dailey Road in Jamesville Township be added to the State system. The road, sixtenths of a mile long, serves five families.

A petition, carrying town of Jamesville official signature, asked for the installation of warning lights at a railroad crossing on Highway 171 in Jamesville. The same group supported a petition for wider and improved shoulders on the highway route.

Requests were received for widening and stabilizing the following roads:

Thoroughfare Road in Griffins Township from J. R. P. Griffin's to Joshua Hardison's on Highway 171, a distance of about 3.8 miles.

The Jim Roebuck new road in Cross Roads Township, serving four families.

Crush Andrews road in Robersonville Township, a distance of 1.4 miles and serving eight families.

The road in Robersonville Township from Highway 64, 1.73 miles east of Robersonville to old Greenville and Robersonville Road at Flat Swamp, a distance of 1.9 miles and serving ten families.

Robersonville's town officials submitted requests for paying on five projects, offering their highway allotment to help finance the work. They asked that the projects be handled in the following order:

No. 1 Coburn Road from No. 11 to Parmele and on to Pitt County line at "Big Oak".

No. 2 Old Everetts-Robersonville Road from railroad crossing on Highway 64 to point of surfacing.

No. 3 Claude Green Road.

No. 4 Callie Roberson Road.

No. 5 Eli Everett Road.

Tobacco Growers To Get Dividend In Early January

ceived under loan—at 90 percent of parity—more than 580,000,000 pounds of flue-cured leaf grown in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

The operations of the corporation have been financed largely through funds advanced through Commodity Credit Corporation which was made possible through agricultural legislation, enabling the corporation to advance 90 percent of parity support price for members' tobacco on the auction warehouse floor. The loan program of Commodity Credit Corporation is administered through the Tobacco Branch of the Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Early Chicks Are More Profitable

Tar Heel poultrymen can earn extra money by starting chicks in December, January, or February, rather than later in the season, believes T. B. Morris, poultry specialist for the State College Extension Service.

Early-hatched chicks, says Morris, will be in production in the early summer when the old hens in the flock are slowing down in production. The young pullets production. The young pullets will have good egg size by the time egg prices start rising, since prices are usually highest from June 1 to December 31.

Producing both early and late broods also will enable the poultryman to make better use of his buildings, equipment, and range, Morris points out. This will lower the cost per pullet. In addition, two broods a year will insure a more even supply of eggs to furnish the markets throughout the year.

One question often asked about early-hatched pullets is: Don't they have a tendency to go into a molt during the fall? Morris says this is to be expected, but if extra care is given the pullets in the fall this problem should be overcome or reduced to a minimum. This extra care usually includes the use of electric lights to increase the working day to about 13 hours and feeding wet mash or pellets to help control the molt.

Early-hatched chicks can be profitably, insists Morris.

The specialist adds that before placing orders for next year's layers, the poultryman should give some thought to the breeding behind the chicks. These future pullets should be from production-bred stock with a pulorum-clean or pulorum-passed rating. Orders should be placed early so the poultryman will be sure to get these better-bred chicks.

Three Accidents On County Roads During Week-end

control and the machine climbed an embankment and turned over, catching fire and burning up a short time later. The loss was estimated at $700 by Patrolman J. T. Rowe who made the investigation.

About five hours later at 9:00 o'clock Sunday morning, Henry E. Everett of Mackeys was driving west on U. S. 64 and lost control of his 1941 Chevrolet coupe on "Dead Man's Curve" at Dardens. The machine, equipped with a slick tire, skidded and turned over, stopping about 65 feet away from the spot where it left the concrete. Everett and his three companions were not hurt. Investigating the accident, Patrolman M. F. Powers said the damage would amount to about $350.

County Officials Accept Oaths At Monday Meetings

then subscribed to the oath of office and immediately repaired to the courtroom to enter upon his new duties.

Later in the morning after Clerk Wynne had reported for duty in the county court, Deputy Clerk Mary K. Davenport administered the oath of office to Willey Craft, deputy sheriff; W. W. Biggs, coroner; C. E. Jones, Sr., deputy at the pulp mill and H. Ernest Leggett, Hamilton Township constable. Early afternoon, Treasurer R. H. Smith reported and subscribed to the oath of office before the deputy clerk, leaving only a few to qualify.

One or two deputy sheriffs, handling special assignments at the pulp mill, are to be sworn in later.

O. B. Roberson, newly elected county surveyor, was not present for the ceremonies, and did not qualify for the office.

Make Soil Tests Every Five Years

Soil should be tested about every four or five years. This is frequent enough to keep the soil at the proper lime level and allows the farmer to determine if his fertilization program is adequate for his crop rotation.

The supply of lime, phosphorus, or potash in the soil does not change rapidly. Hence soil testing should be considered on a long-time basis. For example, if a soil is low in potash the crops will need a high potash fertilizer for a few years.

Complete directions for taking soil samples may be obtained from any county farm agent.
