Lum 'N' Abner In Hi-jinks Here

Thrill seekers get their fulfillment in "The Bashful Bachelor" for its stars, Lum and Abner, engage in a series of spine tickling episodes that keep audiences on the edge of their seats.

For example, there is Abner tied to the railroad tracks with a fast express hurtling at him; Lum dodging bullets as he rescues Abner from kidnappers; an exciting horse race which Abner wins from the field by a nose; a runaway fire engine; and other fast moving action to excite the theatergoer that is coupled with the funniest comedy produced in Hollywood in years.

Jack Votion produced the film, showing at the Viccar Theatre Tuesday and Wednesday.

Week-end With Water for Jane

Jane Powell claims that her latest M-G-M musical, "Two Weeks With Love," might just as easily have been called "One Weekend With Water."

The singing star arrived at the studio on a Saturday morning considerably dampened from an unusually heavy concentration of California dew. She spent all but two hours of the day doing a crying scene for the new Technicolor tuner. The remaining two hours were devoted to a sequence in which she is dumped into a lake by Ricardo Montalban. Then, for a publicity shot, a prop man drenched her to the skin with a pail of water.

Came Sunday, Jane and her husband, Geary Steffen, went water skiing!

Coming Soon to the Viccar Theatre.
