

News As Reported In The Enterprise Forty Years Ago

DECEMBER 23, 1910

The little son of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Griffin, of Gold Point has been quite sick with pneumonia the past few days, but is improving now.

The residence of J. J. R. Whitfield, near Gold Point, was burned about sunset last Thursday evening. Very little was saved except nine beds, a trunk containing $150.00 was lost.

Clyde Griffin, son of Simon D. and Margaret Griffin, died at the home of his parents in Griffins Township, Wednesday morning after several weeks of suffering from typhoid fever.

The Roberson Guano Co., at Robersonville, is now ready for business, as the machinery and the bulk of material have been placed in the building.

Grover Godwin came home from Oak Ridge Institute last week to spend the holidays.

Haywood and Edwin Ward came home from Chapel Hill Tuesday for the holidays.

Wheeler Martin, Jr., and Luke Lamb are at home for the holidays.

Tense, Thrilling Action, "Furies"

One of the most exciting outdoor epics ever filmed, Paramount's "The Furies" literally opened at the Marco Theatre Tuesday. Crammed with pulse-pounding action from start to finish, this Hal Wallis production, directed by Anthony Mann, has enough spine-tingling entertainment for two feature pictures.

Starring Barbara Stanwyck, Wendell Corey and the late Walter Huston, in his last screen appearance, "The Furies" is a roaring saga of the turbulent South.

Mrs. Lucy Andrews announces the marriage of her daughter, Emma, to Mr. Barsill Daniel, on December the twenty-ninth at 8:30 o'clock at Holly Spring M. E. Church near Williamston. The bride-elect is a young woman of charming personality and is a favorite among a host of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Daniel is the oldest son of W. E. Daniel and a young man of industrious habits, who has the esteem of those who know him.

Mr. R. D. Jones will wed Miss Martha Perry on December the twenty-eighth, 1910, at Fair View Disciple Church, Martin County.

west just before the turn of the century. It is the story of a ruthless cattle king, Huston, whose ranch empire was born in violence and nurtured on treachery. It is the story also of his beautiful but self-willed daughter, Barbara Stanwyck, who precipitates a bitter family struggle when she marries a handsome gambler, played by Corey.

Comedy, Music In Bowery Boys Hit

There is an excellent blending of comedy and gay music in Monogram's "Blues Busters," newest in the Bowery Boys series, which opens at the Marco theatre Sunday.

The fast-moving, sparkling picture, starring Leo Gorcey with Huntz Hall, Adele Jergens and Gabriel Dell in the top supporting roles, unfolds against the fascinating backdrop of a dazzling night club.

In this comedy, the 20th which Jan Grippo has produced for Monogram, Huntz is the focal character, from whom many a laugh stems.

The point of the story centers directly on Hall, as Sach Debussy Jones, and his tonsils — or to be more exact, where his tonsils once were.

A tonsilectomy leaves Sach with an ineffable voice, a voice which puts him into the million-dollar-a-year class, and Gorcey, as Slip Mahoney, and others of the Bowery Boys are quick to commercialize their pal's new, and pleasing, vocal chords.

"Pirates Of High Seas" at Viccar

Modern buccaneers operating from a submarine, a vast treasure hoard of diamonds cached away by a ruthless war criminal and the fighting exploits, on land and sea, of Buster Crabbe, are but some of the action elements serial fans can anticipate with relish when Columbia Pictures' "Pirates of the High Seas" gets under way at the Viccar Theatre Saturday. Subsequent episodes of the serial thriller will be played every Saturday thereafter.

Crabbe, famous Olympic swimming champion who scored so impressively in "The Sea Hound," returns to the serial screen in another remarkable demonstration of his athletic prowess. Crabbe swims like a fish and dives through the air like the proverbial man on the flying trapeze in what is reported to be an awesome display pyrotechnics. Besides, he engages in numerous hand-to-hand combats and has many narrow escapes from disaster before the final defeat of his antagonists.

The story of "Pirates of the High Seas," brought to the serial screen by the same company that gave you "Superman," is replete with lusty action as Crabbe, dashing commander of the schooner Viking, sets sail for the South Seas with a mixed complement of passengers. On board his ship are a war criminal masquerading as a solid citizen; a prosperous adventurer who secretly operates the pirate submarine which continually plagues Crabbe; and Lois Hall, beautiful blonde sister of Tommy Farrell, operator of a small Pacific freight line who has asked Crabbe to come to help him fight off modern-day buccaneers.

Crabbe eventually discovers the prize at stake is a priceless collection of jewels stowed away by the war criminal. Harrowing dangers are many and hairbreadth escapes frequent as Crabbe roars into action to overcome seemingly insuperable odds!

North Carolina's foresters have found that farmers make more money by having their timber marked than if the timber is sold on a diameter limit or clear cut basis.
