

Laugh - Filled Comedy Coming

The troubles of a man who suddenly discovers he is the owner of a bankrupt circus full of hungry lions from the hilarious theme of "Mad Wednesday," RKO Radio's new comedy hit starring Harold Lloyd will show at the Vicar theatre Thursday and Friday.

The famous laugh-getter enacted a scene Lloyd never acted before. He fired from his job, starts off on a wild spree with a new-found bookie friend, and wakes up two days later dazed and suddenly aware that he is the owner of a circus.

His frenzied efforts to get rid of the embarrassing acquisition result in a one-man riot that panics the entire city and provides sparkling entertainment for theatre-goers. Frances Ramsden makes her screen debut as the heroine, and Jimmy Conlin as the bookie heads the supporting cast of the gay offering which was written and directed by Preston Sturges. Raymond Walburn, Edgar Kennedy, Franklin Pangborn and other noted comics are featured.

PRESENTS INTERESTING FACTS ABOUT NORTH CAROLINA

TOBACCO The tobacco industry marked the beginning of growth for Durham. Robert F. Morris was manufacturing tobacco as early as 1865. Washington Duke, after being mustered out of the Confederate Army, walked over a hundred miles to his old farm and began grinding tobacco and packaging it. This was the forerunner of the American Tobacco Co., which established Durham as the world's tobacco Capitol.

BROADWAY AND MAIN STREET Moe's Biggest East River Catch Found Rose Hanging on Line

By BILLY ROSE

Among the doodads on my desk is an old piece of string wrapped around a wooden spool, and people who come to my office often quiz me about it. My rough, ready and routine answer is: I'm a fisherman. I caught it on the East River. It was a mackerel. But let me crank the reel back 44 years and give it to you—as my Aunt Frieda would put it—"in English."

There was another day when this same Terry decided it was time I learned how to swim, and when I tried to wade him off with the wily dialectics of a seven-year-old he began calling me "sissy" and "yella belly." Finally, realizing there was no way to dodge the dunking, I stripped down to my shorts. Terry and another kid grabbed hold of me, gave me a couple of backslaps and pitched me into the river. I landed ker-splash under a grapefruit rind and a floating bottle, and water began rushing into me from every opening.

AS I WAS GOING down for the second time I somehow got tangled up in a bit of string, and when my head broke water I saw Crazy Moe standing on the dock hauling in his second fish—me, and I was darned near as dead as the first one. The line, of course, wasn't strong enough to do more than keep me afloat, but it gave Terry a chance to dive in and pull me over to the ladder.

After I had recovered breath and bravado, I asked Crazy Moe to let me have his fishing line for a keepsake, and when he demurred I bribed it away from him with what was an important piece of money in those days—a new Liberty Head nickel.

Today, many decades and eons later, the piece of string occupies a prominent place among the mementos on my desk—sort of a mute reminder of the time when my life hung by a hair. And my favorite mermaid who, of course, knows this story says it explains why I married her.

"You wanted a swimmer in the family," says Eleanor, "because the next time they throw you in, there may not be a Crazy Moe hanging around."

Disney Characters Have Real Touch

Much of Walt Disney's success in personalizing animal characters in his productions is due, in large part, to the ability of his animators to endow creatures with human attributes, so delightfully demonstrated in his comedy "Dumbo," which is now being shown at the Vicar Theatre Saturday.

In "Dumbo," Disney and his animators have shown that animals as several elephants, including the baby hero, Dumbo, and the Five Black Crows, but also a sturdy locomotive, appropriately named Casey Junior, will show at the Vicar Theatre Saturday.

Cincinnati, O.—In a suit involving a one-foot-wide, 100-foot-long strip of land, which, due to a title defect, had been included in a city street, the jury fixed the value of the land at $10. Forty plaintiffs were awarded 25 cents each.
