Looking After the Individuals

There has been a noticeable back-turning on the masses of "little" State employees, but the 1951 General Assembly has played the part of a contortionist in leaning over backwards when it came to individuals.

There was $555 Hamilton handout, and more recently Senator Carruthers came forward with a proposal to increase the salaries of the Council of State. The senator would add $4,380 to the attorney general's $10,080 salary and increase the pay of the members of the Council of State from $9,000 to $12,000.

We do not say that Mr. McMullan isn't worth $14,400 annually or more, and if he is worth that much then the State employees are worth a great deal more than they are receiving.

Money is hard to find, but it is indeed certain that it could be found much easier by the Legislature than the underpaid State workers are finding a way to keep body and soul together.

While India Starves

President Truman has nudged Congress again about sending wheat to India, his earlier request for two million tons having been caught in the legislative maze for more than three months now.

The Senate has approved the grant, but the rules committee in the House has proved a stumbling block.

Meanwhile, the food situation in India grows worse. A combination of drought, floods, and locusts has destroyed food crops in virtually all parts of the country. Real famine will sweep India between now and next fall. Observers in southern India report families are already mixing sawdust with their millet, in a pathetic attempt to avert starvation.

The aid we can give India will provide no long-range answer to her food problem. The two million ton wheat grant is strictly an emergency measure. But with Congress dilly-dallying, the peak of the emergency may be reached before we provide any effective assistance.—Des Moines Register

Martin County, generally holding to a point about half way in many fields among the 100 counties in the State, can well be proud of its low rating in the number of persons killed on the highways and streets within its borders during the past year.

Only twenty-seven counties had fewer highway-street fatalities. Good fortune smiled on our motorists, for the record shows more of them were involved in more vehicle accidents last year than in any other period. The current year is more than one-fourth gone, and there hasn't been a highway fatality in the county. Let's not gamble with fate. We can't maintain the wreck pace without running into death, sooner or later.

Let's cut down our speed a little more. Let's keep our vehicles in good repair. Let's remember the other fellow is entitled to half the road. Let's dim our lights for the approaching motorist at night. Let's not forget that a little courtesy on our part could save lives, including our own.

Bad Business

Highway accidents cost North Carolinians right at sixty-four million dollars last year. Few, if any, businesses in the State deal in such large figures. It's big business and, at the same time, bad business.

Despite the astounding loss in dollars, not to mention human life and limb involved, North Carolina's 1951 General Assembly passed it by virtually unnoticed. Maybe, the proposed remedies were out of order, but it is well remembered that those who opposed the proposed remedies offered none of their own. Their stand is tantamount to approval of the $64 million carnage.

Patience is bitter, but its fruit is sweet.
