Kiwanians Hear Football Coach

The Kiwanis Club of Williamston held its regular meeting in the Methodist Church Hall last Thursday evening.

During the meeting Ernest Taylor was recognized as the first winner of the Forensic Cup to be awarded annually to the most outstanding high school speaker. The Kiwanis Club of Williamston selects a high school boy each month, during the school term, to be the local Kiwanian of the month and Ernest was chosen for this honor for the month of October.

Bruce Wynne introduced Carroll Blackerby, coach of the Williamston Green Wave Football team as speaker of the evening. Coach Blackerby explained 1951 football rule changes as they affect spectator interests. Continuing his talk, Coach Blackerby stated that the Athletic Code calls for fair play and depends upon the players and the rules they go by. He said that the townspeople are falling down when they demand a winning team at the expense of sportsmanship. Instead the townspeople should encourage the players to play the fair game regardless of the outcome and in so doing they will not only be helping to build better physical bodies but also to mould strong characters for the future.

New Quarters For Regional Library

"B H M Regional Library Headquarters" These words appear on a freshly painted sign on the front of a Life-size at 117 West Second Street in Williamston.

Since its inception in 1941, the Regional Library has been housed with the Brown Library which is in the city of Washington. At the Regional Library Board meeting September 12, a letter was received from the Brown Library Board requesting the space of the two rooms as early as possible.

Through the efforts of Mr. W. A. Blount, Beaufort County Accountant, the present location was secured. It is a county owned building and is being made available to the Regional Library rent free.

The inside has been renovated with fresh paint, lights, plumbing fixtures and other repair work. Mr. Blount personally supervised the work. The Regional Library is now able to spread over three rooms with an extra one for storage.

The Regional Library owns 24,000 books and during the past fiscal year which ended June 30, as many as 224,000 books were circulated among the white people of the three counties alone. Additional books are made available for Negroes. The Regional Library is supported by appropriations from both the state and the counties.

Training Meeting Held for Farmers

A one day training meeting of County Committeemen for the farmers Home Administration was held here Friday of last week. There were committeemen here from nine eastern Carolina counties. The meeting was conducted by Marion C. Holland, State field representative, from Goldsboro, assisted by Vance E. Swift, associate State director, in charge of farm ownership, and D. G. Modlin, appraiser-engineer, from Williamston.

Some time was spent in outlining to committeemen the FHA policy for another year, and what it is authorized to do. It was explained that FHA is authorized to make loans to eligible farmers for needed adjustments such as more livestock, land improvement, etc. Also FHA can make real estate loans to farmers for the purchase of land, developing land now owned, and to purchase additional land for farm enlargement, as well as loans for farm housing.

The committeemen were called on one at a time to give the main problems of farmers in general in their county. Without exception, every man from the east Carolina section listed drainage as a problem. Other suggestions were more livestock along with row crops, more and better pastures, fencing, better buildings, land clearing, and basic land treatment.

A committeeman from one county said of his county, "today we are infants in the dairy business, but I confidently believe in 20 years we will be one of the leading dairy counties in North Carolina. This has come about through the county agent and the county supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration. Not all farmers engaging in the dairy enterprise will need the assistance offered by the FHA, but many will need this help. And it is encouraging to all of us to know that the assistance is available if needed."

It was a further opinion of all committeemen that at least one third of all farms are not producing to full capacity due to lack of development work, and that if farmers knew the benefits received from bringing a farm up to full production, more would take advantage of the development assistance. One county present pointed out that since the inception of the program in that county 186 farmers had received assistance, and 84 had repaid the loan in full even though it was a 40 year loan, and that the other 102 still indebted were well on their way to repaying their loans. This is a 4 per cent loan and is broken down in 40 equal annual installments, but may be repaid at any time the borrower is able to do so. Interest is charged only for the time the money is used.
