

Martins Win At Jamesville 58-44

The Williamston Martins, local semi-pro outfit outscored the All-Stars of Jamesville last night in every quarter to take a 58 to 44 decision and go 1-up in the current series.

Cecil Batts, former Robersonville High star who is now living in Williamston, paced the Martins with 20 points and Jerry Forehand was second with 17. Bobby Martin, the Jamesville sharpshooter was high man for the contest with 23 points.

The game was reported as being without any bickering or arguing and the two boys who called it for the older fellows had no trouble with them.

The Martins meet Woodland in the local gym tonight at 8:00. The Woodland team is built around James and Jesse Parker and Paul Sharpe, veterans of the semi-pro game in this section.

Scoring for Jamesville last evening, besides E. L. Martin were: Albert Martin and Bobby Styons 6 each, Brown 4, Gardner 3, and Mizelle 2.

For Williamston, besides Batts and Forehand, Williamston was helped by Raymond Davis with 15, C. T. Roberson and Nathan Roberson 2 each, Roebuck and Keel 1 each.

Represent County At Farm Meeting

Martin County is to be well represented at the annual State convention of the North Carolina Farm Bureau to be held in Raleigh during the four days beginning Sunday.

The meeting is to discuss vital farm problems, and the organization is expected to go on record as favoring the farm program as it is now constituted.

Completes Radio Operator's Course

Private First Class George C. Moore of Williamston, N. C., recently completed the Intermediate Speed Radio Operators course conducted by the 23rd AAA AW Battalion of the 8th Infantry Division's Specialist Training Regiment at Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

Pfc. Moore is the son of Mrs. George C. Moore of Williamston. During twelve weeks of training students learned to install and operate a temporary radio and

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Mayo Hardison, and Messrs. VanNoy Smith, Jack Smith, C. L. Daniel, president of the Martin County Farm Bureau, and S. T. Everett are planning to represent this county at the meeting.

MASSACRE EVIDENCE AT HEARING

THIS PHOTO, made in 1943 in Katyn Forest, Russia, was introduced at the House probe in Washington into the wartime massacre of 10,000 Polish soldiers. It shows a mass grave being inspected by (l. to r.) a German interpreter, an unidentified Nazi information official, Capt. Gilder of the British Army, Lt. Col. Stevenson of the South African Army and a German officer. At the hearing, Lt. Col. John Van Vliet, Jr. said he believed the Reds slaughtered the Poles. (International)

In addition to the Morse code, trainees were taught basic coding for radio messages and the use of flags for visual communication.

An antibiotic, streptomycin sulfate, has been found effective in controlling a bacterial disease of bean seedlings. This finding opens up a new approach to the control of plant diseases caused by bacteria, fungi, and viruses.

A Happy Ending

Scouts Observing 42nd Anniversary

Boy Scouting is celebrating its 42nd birthday in the United States this week. North Carolina will herald Scouting with a special statewide broadcast, the first of its kind, Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock over a special volunteer hookup of the State's radio stations.

Taking part in the special 15 minute broadcast will be Dr. Clyde A. Erwin of Raleigh, State Superintendent of Education; Bishop Edwin A. Penick, for the Protestant churches; Bishop Vincent S. Waters of Raleigh, for the Catholic churches; and Louis Parker, State Commander of the American Legion.

Others taking part will be John L. Stickley, international director of Lions International; and

Diphtheria Rate Highest In State

Raleigh.—According to the recently released 1950 diphtheria rates for the various states, North Carolina has the highest rate in the Union. This is true in spite of the fact that North Carolina was the first state to adopt a compulsory diphtheria vaccination law, so states an article in the current (December) North Carolina Medical Journal.

Unfortunately, just passing a law does not always remedy a situation. This law requires infants to be vaccinated within the first year of life and is most difficult to enforce. The answer to the problem, according to the article, "is one of public education to the danger of diphtheria and the effectiveness of vaccination against it."

The responsibility for such an educational program lies with the public health officials and the private physicians, especially pediatricians and family doctors, as well as with parents.

The North Carolina State Health Officer states, in a letter to the North Carolina Medical Journal, "The developments prompting the outlook are: the decline of the gray market, a sure sign of adequate supply; the drop in demand for high-priced steel ingots, indicating buyers can get enough of the type of steel they need and at regular prices; the continued record high steel production, and the reduced civilian output at the smaller plants because of increasing defense production.

Some feel the signs are so strong that they are already pushing for a normal pattern of distribution can be set up—free of government interference.

During the past 25 years, some 859 new varieties of field crops have been developed and made available to American farmers by State and Federal agricultural scientists.

Signs point increasingly to weakened demand in relation to supply this year, yet, even more Journal, that "Health departments have been requested to expand their health education programs relative to immunization and to establish a follow-up service in cooperation with local physicians so that parents of all infants reaching three months of age can be notified to have their children immunized, and can be renotified if necessary.

and more new facilities are still being built.

Supply Of Steel Is Catching Up

New York.—After months of intense effort to get steel supply up to estimated demands, many officials, both in government and industry, now fear they may have succeeded too well.
