The Ax Handlers

Arming themselves with a budget cutting ax back during the campaign, the Republicans are still looking for wood to cut.

Those trees, representing private dining rooms for the new cabinet members and special services, continue to flourish in a big way.

Maybe, the ax handlers, giving up on finding budgets to chop, will turn on each other and start a scalping game.

The Moral Law And Confusion

Masonic Journal of South Africa. The pages of history disclose that in every crisis the moral law has always prevailed.

In due course of time, somewhere along the road of humanity the high attainment of living life guided by love, truth and peace will prevail.

Adjustment—Upward

The steel industry a few days ago adjusted its prices, the announcement reading, "While a few items have been reduced, the over-all effect of these revisions is an upward adjustment."

Neither did the steel folks say anything about falling farm prices, or about the farmer paying more and getting less.

Anything To Gain An End

The Marine base at Cherry Point apparently believes it is all right to do anything, foul or fair, to achieve an end.

A plan, centered around gambling, was advanced to raise money for Navy relief.

Too often more harm is done trying to achieve a certain goal than the goal is worth.

TEXT: "Prejudice is the reason of fools." —Voltaire.

There was a forthright old lady who met a neighbor at a political rally.

"Why," said the surprised neighbor, "I always thought you were a staunch member of the other party. What are you doing at this meeting?"

"Well," sniffed the old lady, "I came with a perfectly open and unbiased mind to listen to what I am convinced is pure rubbish."

Unfortunately prejudice does not confine itself to politics. We are prejudiced for and against every action of our fellow men.
