An amendment to the bill creating the Cape Hatteras National Seashore park that would protect the rights of citizens to hunt migratory wildfowl in the area was proposed in congress this week by Congressman Lindsay C. Warren of the first district, father of the Eastern North Carolina national park. The bill introduced by Congressman Warren was drafted after frequent conferences during the past eighteen months between Representa. tive Warren, Secretary of the Interior Harold Ickes, National Park Service Director Arno B. Cammerer and Chief of the Biological Survey Ira N. Gabrielson.

Without the amendment offered this week all hunting of every description would have been perpetually ended once the property were transfrred to the National Park Service under existing legislation. Congressman Warren, stressing the great hardship that would have resulted to the people of this area, declared that he would have introduced a bill to repeal the act establishing the national seashore rather than permit the ban to remain. He expressed great satisfaction that an agreement with all governmental agencies concerned Senator Lee Gravely of Rocky a county in its true sense, for when
