YOUNG DEMOCRATS STAGE PRE-ELECTION RALLY NOV. 1

Plans Call For Gala Get-Together Rally All Party Members in Auditorium of Agriculture Building; Music, Speeches, and Refreshments to Be Featured

As a final bid for Democratic victory, the Young Democratic Club of Tyrrell County announced plans this week for a gala rally to be staged in the auditorium of the Agriculture building in Columbia on the night of November 1.

Meeting in special session this week to draw up plans for the get-together, the group appointed committees to handle the various phases of work necessary for the proposed occasion.

With a feed promised to all good party members attending the final pre-election gathering, the group appointed a group composed of Miss Lillian Brickhouse, Mrs. Lem A. Cohoon, D. M. Pledger, Jr., Miss Edna Ray Yerby and Miss Virginia Brickhouse as a committee responsible for the refreshments to be served.

The building will be decorated for the occasion and will be under the direction of a committee composed of Mrs. W. A. Yerby, E. L. Mosely, and Clarence Chaplin.

The program will be arranged by Paul Liverman, president of the Tyrrell unit of the State organization.

Music and Speeches

Tentative plans call for the program to begin with band music furnished by the Columbia high school band, songs by the entire group, and solos by H. T. Davenport.

Several speakers, including Thad Eure, secretary of state, have been asked to attend the meeting. Replies from the various speakers invited had not been received at press time.

As a climax to the year's activities new members will be sought during the next few days and a drive to increase the active membership list will be culminated at the rally. At present the organization is relatively young in this county but has already received words of praise from state officials who credit it for the liveliness and spirit which it has maintained from the start.

The spirit of the rally will not be for the young democrats only. At this time, with the auditorium decorated to fit the mood of the occasion, the old party members and young party members will join in a gala rejuvenation of the final spirit in the spring to victory.

AVON LOSES A GOOD CITIZEN, O. J. GRAY

Was Retired Boatswain of the Coast Guard, and Man of Public Spirit

Oliver J. Gray, 65, one of the best known citizens of Avon, a retired boatswain of the Coast Guard and former commanding officer of Little Kinneket station, died at eight o'clock, Thursday morning of last week, following a stroke of paralysis that struck him early in the morning.

The funeral was conducted Friday by Rev. M. E. Cotton of the Methodist church. Mr. Gray had been a lifelong Methodist leader. Interment was in the old family cemetery. He was the son of the late R. W. and Hulda Gray of Avon. Beside his wife, who was Miss Mary Midgett of Avon, he is survived by the following children: Willard Gray of Norfolk, Oliver J. Gray, Jr., of the Coast Guard in New Jersey, Mrs. Bate Miller of New Jersey, Watson Gray, Ellis Gray, Mrs. Burgess Gray, Mrs. Eugene Gray, and a grandson, Jack Gray of Avon.

Mr. Gray was a popular citizen, a man loyal to his family and his community. A few days before his death, he had presented each of his children at Avon with a ton of coal. He shared of his substance with his neighbors, and he liked to do good deeds.

Avon has lost many of its best known citizens during the past year. Among them are Mrs. Landy Midgett, and her brother, Amalek T. Price, William Andrew Gray, and Howard Meekins. The community greatly feels the loss of these people whose presence had become a landmark, and whose worth to the community inestimable.

Norfolk Shoppers

Mrs. Thomas S. Spruill, Mrs. J. F. Schlez, and Richard Knight spent Friday in Norfolk shopping.

Visiting

Misses Mary Lee Swain and Doris Jones, and Armstead Swain, or Anora, spent Sunday in Columbia visiting Mrs. Sallie Swain.

NUMBER DRAWING TO TAKE PLACE MONDAY MORNING

Drafts Will Know Who Will Be Called Next Week

The President of the United States has set October 29, as the fateful day when numbers will be drawn to see which men are to be called to the colors, now that the draft registration has been completed.

With 633 men in Tyrrell County listed and registered in the national offices, the drawing of the numbers from the same gold-fish bowl used to draw draft numbers during the last year, will be monumental in that some of that number will be affected by the result.

In the county, Columbia led with 345 registrations, Gum Neck was second with 112 and other precincts reported as follows: Alligator, 65, Scuppernon, 67, Kilkenny, 19, South Fork, 16, and Frying Pan with nine on the list.

Your Number Counts

Now that the registration is over, the county draft board is preparing to list the names, give them numbers, and await the drawing of the numbers in Washington. The first number drawn will be a call to all those with like numbers to report for military examination and possible service.

An example of this would be if number 426 were drawn by the officials in Washington, all who have the number 426 would be notified at once and would be called to appear for examination. There will be approximately 5,000 numbers drawn, and those drawn first will be called first.

LACK OF VOTER CIGARS FAIL TO HIDE POLITICAL ACTIVITY

In spite of the prevalent or marked lack of the famous political cigar, Tyrrell County aspirants for posts by way of the ballot swung into the home stretch this week as election day looms with all its stark potentialities around the proverbial corner.

The wiry Republican elephant began its usual stampede, and the Democratic mule heard the "gid up" order and began the pull to the last weary mile, which offer—to the victor—another term under the critical eye of the public.

Paramount in interest is the red-hot bid by both parties for the representative's seat in the State Legislature. With C. Earl Cohoon holding down the Democratic side of the ballot and Floyd E. Cohoon perched on the Republican side, the appeal for votes has been strong by both men who are covering the county like the dew to be sure that all know what each stand for, in what State officials call the most important election of the century.

Methods

With county rallies being held as a prelude to the campaign music, and with such speakers as Governor-elect Broughton, and Herbert Bonner who is to take the place of Lindsay Warren, the County Democrats have entered the fray with heart and soul.

The Republicans, however, have never called for a party rally, but did manage to horn in on the Democratic proceedings at Gum Neck. Only after Herbert Bonner had finished his appeal to party members and the meeting was about to be adjourned, did the proceedings be-

FINEST TRIBUTE FOR WARREN FROM BONNER

No matter what eulogies are poured upon the head of Lindsay Warren today, when the first district honors him in Washington, N. C., no finer tribute will be paid than that given by Herbert C. Bonner, our next Representative in Congress and for 16 years Secretary and co-worker with Mr. Warren. In a recent address, at Hertford and also Manns Harbor, Mr. Bonner said:

"Sixteen years ago our sovereign democracy of the historic First District placed its banner in the hands of as brilliant, gallant, steadfast and worthy son of North Carolina as has ever stood as the representative of a free constituency in the National House of Representatives. With a distinguished background, noble son of a noble father, equipped by education and training, experienced in both branches of the State Legislature, wise in council, brilliant in debate and with mental equipment and temperament, character and courage, of the kind needed for leadership in a parliamentary body, Lindsay Warren entered national political life as the possessor of those attributes of leadership and statesmanship, that pointed unerringly to a position of eminence in the councils of the party and the nation. The dream of his most ardent admirers and enthusiastic partisans have been more than fulfilled in sixteen years of diligent and faithful service in a crucial period of American history. His devotion to North Carolina is such that every fibre of his being thrills at the mention of her name. It was as natural for him to devote his talents, his energy and wisdom to the service of his native state and district as it was for him to breathe.

EDITORS AND AGENTS COMPRISE FARM TEAM

Weekly newspaper editors and county farm and home agents make up a team that has been one of the most potent forces in the improvement of farming and rural living in the past 25 years. Those are the sentiments of M. L. Wilson, director of extension for the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Director L. O. Schaub of the State College extension service says he heartily concurs in the views expressed by the Federal leader.

Of the beginning of this period of team work, Director Wilson says, "The United States was nearing the end of the row as far as new land was concerned. In the more carefully cultivated sections, farming methods lagged behind experimental advances in agricultural science. Into this picture stepped the county agent and traveled from farm to farm on foot, on horseback, and in buggies.

"On the country editor the agent leaned heavily from the earliest days. Usually the work of the county agent made good newspaper copy. Frequently he would write a column of his own in the weekly paper and his writings were compact with good sense.

"Judged solely as a job in practical, popular education, the achievement of the county agent ranks high in American social history. The county agent is now equipped with an automobile and a clerical force in his office, but is most frequently to be found at some farm talking about crops and rural improvements. The weekly editor is still one of his most highly valued allies."

To this Director Schaub of the North Carolina extension service adds: "Agricultural extension work simply is giving information about better ways of farm living and one of the best methods of reaching a farm audience is through the columns of local papers whose editors the farm people know and trust.

"Since the summer of 1914 exclusive copy for weekly papers has been mailed each week from the office of Frank H. Jeter, State College editor.

TRIBUNE EDITOR TO SPEAK SUNDAY ON LIFE IN CHINA

George M. Kelley, Jr., editor of The Tyrrell Tribune, will be the guest speaker at the regular evening services to be held at the Saint Andrews Episcopal church in Columbia Sunday night at 7:30 o'clock. His topic will be "Sixteen Years in China."

Sponsored by the Women's Club which has approved the action of the American Committee of One Thousand seeking aid for refugees of the present Chinese-Japanese struggle, the talk will serve to localize interest in the Far Eastern turmoil and the problems it will inevitably mean to this civilization.

Kelley was born in China, and has been in the United States only five years. He was in Canton during the first communist uprising which turned to be one of the great causes or starters for the gradual uniting of the great country. Later, in 1932, he saw the first air raids on Shanghai when the Japanese first attempted to invade the country.

His home having been in the interior where the first tinges of civilization, as the modern American knows it, was still unknown, the speaker will be able to give first hand information on the customs, the religion, and the general characteristics of the people. He will tell you of bandits and war-lords, mysterious temples and the problems of a strange people who still huddle behind the great walls which surround the larger villages.

The service will be no longer than the usual Sunday evening worship, and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD SUNDAY FOR J. D. FURLOUGH

Funeral services for Joe D. Furlough, 75, well known citizen of Tyrrell County, who died Saturday afternoon in the Columbia hospital, were conducted Sunday at the Albemarle Christian church.

A special church choir sang "I Love to Tell the Story," "Have Thine Own Way" and "Where We'll Never Grow Old." The Rev. L. B. Bennett, assisted by Dr. G. A. Martin, had charge of the service.

Burial was made in the church cemetery. Pallbearers included M. K. Armstrong, J. L. Walker, E. L. Godwin, W. T. Norman, Felton White, and Willie Ward.

Mr. Furlough, who was of the Travis section and was known as a prominent farmer of the county, had been ill for some time. He was active in church work and was a deacon of the Albemarle Christian church.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Emilee Walker Furlough; two sons, J. F. Furlough and E. M. Furlough; two grandsons, J. F. Furlough, Jr., and Melvin Furlough, and two granddaughters, Misses Augusta and Matilda Furlough.

BROUGHTON TO BE 2ND SUNDAY SCH'L TEACHING GOV'N

James Melville Broughton, who will be North Carolina's next governor unless there is a major, unpredictable upset in this solidly Democratic state, will be the second consecutive Sunday-school-teaching chief executive.

Broughton, heavy-jowled, self-described "lawyer and Baptist," received a majority of more than 45,000 votes in the Democratic primary last May. His election this November is considered certain, as few people can remember when North Carolina had a Republican governor.

He admits that, although his duties as governor will mean one speech after another, the first public speech he ever tried to make was a fiasco and attempts to win a speaking medal when a freshman at Wake Forest college were futile.

But that does not mean that Broughton is not an accomplished public speaker. Soon after he took a special course in law in Boston in 1913-14, young Broughton campaigned for Woodrow Wilson—and Massachusetts went Democratic for the first time since the civil war. He admits it may have been a coincidence.

Broughton also has served as a high school principal and has worked as a newspaper reporter. In the latter capacity he reported the 1912 Democratic national convention for the Winston-Salem Journal.

Since then, however, Broughton has devoted most of his efforts to law. He served as state senator in 1927 and 1929, where he helped work out the Australian ballot law and the workmen's compensation act. He also has been chairman of the Democratic executive committee.

These duties have kept him busy, but he has found time to manage a 250-acre farm, and one of the principal planks in his platform calls for continued improvement in farm methods, diversification of crops and new marketing facilities.

Broughton was born in Raleigh in 1888. Between then and the time he completed college, he studied at a country school and the Raleigh city schools, was guard on the Wake Forest football team, worked in a grocery, edited a school paper and labored in western wheat fields during the summer.—United Press.

Tyrrell County will be well represented at the Lindsay Warren Day which will be held tomorrow in Washington, and will serve as a tribute to the popular congressman who has represented this district for the past sixteen years.

Joining in the program will be other counties of the First District, Tyrrell will be there with band music, banners, and praise for Warren.

Under the chairmanship of Bob Knight, former representative from Tyrrell, committees in each section of the county have worked out all the plans for the participation of this county in the tribute to be made to the resigned congressman.

All Ready
Mrs. E. J. Brickhouse, W. S. Carawan, and Paul Liverman, who are members of the committee which has organized the plans in the Town of Columbia; Lem Cohoon, Mrs. Lillie Liverman, and B. B. Combs, committee for Gum Neck; Joseph G. Brickhouse, Jr., Miss Eloise Gibbs, and C. J. Cohoon, committee for the Scuppernon section; W. A. Howett, Mrs. A. B. Hopkins, Jr., and D. M. Pledger, committee for Alligator; Gordon Blanchette, and Will Barnes, organizers in South Fork; and R. Bruce Cohoon and S. H. Cartwright, committee for Kilkenny, reported early this week that everything is in readiness.

The group appeared earlier in the week before the Board of County Commissioners and asked for, and received funds to pay for advertising in the Washington paper which will be a written token of the appreciation this county has for Mr. Warren's service. The advertisement is to cover a half of a page.

Collected
An appropriation of $85 assigned to Tyrrell County as its share to be contributed towards all the counties in the district buying Mr. Warren a new car, has been received in the form of donations by friends of the congressman in this county. The money will be turned over to officials of the day in Washington.

A motorcade, made up of all those going to Washington to participate in the gala festival, will meet in front of the County court house at 10 o'clock in the morning, and in one body will descend upon the Congressman's home town.

W. S. Carawan and Paul Liverman, who have been in charge of arrangements to see that a great banner representing Tyrrell is made, have everything in readiness, and as the parade moves off the banner will mark the group for all to see and know.

The Columbia high school band will be there in full force, and will join the bands of other schools in the district in the great parade to be staged during the day.

Picnic Lunch
Those who attend the festival will carry lunch baskets, and when meal time draws close, the crowd will spread their luncheons and the well known "feasts," so popular at reunions and other like functions, will take place.

Important speakers from all sections of the state will be in Washington for the day. These include Governor Clyde Hoey, Governor-elect J. M. Broughton, if possible the senators of North Carolina, and Democratic party officials from all sections of the state. Feature address is to be made by a member of the president's cabinet, and Lindsay Warren will be there to hear and see it all.

All who wish to attend the meet, should bring their lunches, and join the motorcade in front of the court house at the allotted time.

TYRRELL HARDWARE CO. CELEBRATES ANNIVERSARY

The Tyrrell County Hardware Co., located in Columbia, this week celebrated its first anniversary. Delbert M. Sawyer, who hails from Belhaven, and is the man who took the initiative and opened a hardware store in Tyrrell County, states that the first year has been successful in every way.

Tyrrell County and the Town of Columbia had been in need of a hardware store for many years, and the community is justly proud that the new enterprise is a success.
