

MACHINE TROUBLE CAUSES SHORTAGE OF ICE IN TARBORO

Impossible To Secure Engineer. Demand Is Twice As Large As Heretofore.

BUT ONE SMALL MACHINE WORKING OVERTIME NOW

Mr. M. S. Brown, president of the Edgecombe Chamber of Commerce, today paid a visit to the local ice plant for the purpose of determining if in any way the Chamber of Commerce might be of aid to Mr. Wood in relieving the local shortage of ice.

Yesterday, Mr. Wood stated, "there was twice as much ice used in Tarboro as was used on any previous Monday to date." He did his best to supply the demand, but his machines will give but a certain output, and beyond that he is unable to go.

Society in Tarboro is responsible for some of the shortage, according to Mr. Wood. Too many parties are being given, and the demand for ice is beyond his ability to supply.

At present he has one small machine running which has a capacity of 14 tons only, while the demand is 40 tons.

Mr. Brown offered his services in any way possible, and it was agreed to should try Kinston, Rocky Mount and other cities in an endeavor to secure ice for Tarboro.

Mr. Wood also stated that he was unable to get ammonia and oil, and had been held up on coal until this morning by the railroad company being unable to shift a carload into his yards.

The manager of the local plant asks that the citizens do their part in aiding him in his trouble, and that he will do his best to have the local plant running full force as soon as it is possible to do so.

NORTH CAROLINA FARMER KNOWS COTTON GRADES

Norfolk Cotton Brokers Abide By Judgment Of Old North State Farmer.

CALLS GRADING BLUFF AND GETS GOOD CHECK

A Bertie county farmer is up on cotton grades to such an extent that even the cotton brokers in Norfolk abide by his judgment.

Some months ago he sent to one of these brokers three bales of cotton of such good quality that he knew it could not grade less than middling. At the same time he instructed him to sell this cotton for him as soon as the spot market, on middling reached 37 1/2 cents.

This farmer then wrote the broker asking for an explanation. The reply that came advised him that his cotton didn't grade middling and that it would not be possible to get the price which he had set.

"Please return me my three bales of cotton at once, I want to see what has happened to it that it does not now grade middling, for it surely was all of that when it left my shipping point."

That farmer has not seen his cotton since and never will, for instead of the broker shipping it back to him he replied as follows:

"Enclosed please find my check in full payment on the net proceeds of three bales of middling cotton as per the attached statement."

TODAY'S NEWS OF TARBORO 20 YEARS AGO

The Tarboro ice factories are selling ice cheaper in Tarboro than they are in Rocky Mount, where it is being made. At the prices given here by the dealers, no one need complain of not being able to keep cool.

Misses Lena Demuth and Lizzie Howell received diplomas in stenography in the commercial department at State Normal school this week.

The public reception which Mrs. W. S. Clark will give to Almon Hart and bride will be on Tuesday evening from 9 to 12, instead of Monday, as announced yesterday.

A mule belonging to R. M. Brown, which a colored girl was plowing yesterday, began to kick and back. An unusual well with curbing all gone was near, and eventually the long-eared animal in making too strong a retrograde movement went down into it.

When Mr. Brown beheld the disaster that had befallen his automobile, he seriously contemplated interring the son of a Jerusalem then and there. Sheriff Stallings happened along and he suggested pulling it out. Ropes and pulleys were obtained and a derrick erected.

With very little difficulty his mule-ship was elevated to the surface again. Both expected to find it more or less injured, but it was not. As soon as it was released it showed no signs of any distress whatever, and in a short time began braying.

Whether it has been cured of its inclination to retreat does not appear, but it is a live and hearty mule to this day.

GOOD AS FURNITURE POLISH, BUT NOT AS A REMEDY FOR T. B.

"Addiline" Advertised Remedy For White Plague, Is Petroleum-Turpentine.

OHIO DRUGGIST FINDS FAKE HOME TREATMENT

With photographs showing the different stages of gain in weight, the advertisement of the Addiline Company, No. 32 Arcade Bldg. Columbus, Ohio, tells the story of John H. Miller, Ohio druggist, who began experimenting on himself and discovered the home treatment known as "Addiline." According to the advertisement it was not until the physicians said it was impossible for him to survive the ravages of tuberculosis that Miller plunged into the depths of research.

He emerged from this deep study in a short while with a concoction composed of kerosene in large proportions with a smaller amount of turpentine. The only other ingredient being a small amount of aromatic oil.

It is absolutely preposterous to suggest that a remedy of this kind can be of any benefit in the treatment of tuberculosis. In fact, it is the opinion of the bureau of tuberculosis of the North Carolina state board of health, that the effect, if taken internally, may be decidedly dangerous. Used externally it would be of no more value than ordinary turpentine and could be purchased at the drug store for 35 cents, whereas the Addiline Co. charged $5.50 for it.

So sanguine and ever-optimistic of cure are the victims of tuberculosis that any treatment whatever acts with strong suggestive force upon them for a time. For this reason, it is the duty of the press and every other medium of public information, to protect the people from exploitations of this kind. In fact, few publications will accept advertising of this type as they fully realize that advertising of this kind is confidence-destroying.

Tuberculosis is curable—and better still, it is preventable. But the only known cure for tuberculosis at this time is rest, fresh air and nourishing food, the greatest of these being rest. A competent physician is indispensable.

DISASTROUS STORM RAGES IN WAYNE CO.

One Death And Crop Damage Approximated At Half Million Is Reported.

Goldensboro, June 22.—Crops in all sections of this county were seriously damaged late yesterday afternoon by a severe rain and electrical storm which swept over the county about 5 o'clock. It is estimated by farmers visiting Goldensboro that the damage wrought will reach upward to a half million dollars.

Reports reaching here at noon are to the effect that hundreds of tobacco barns, houses and churches were demolished by the storm, and that crops in several sections of the county are completely destroyed.

One death was reported, this being a negro farmer residing near Seven Springs, who is said to have been killed when lightning struck a tree under which he was taking shelter.

Joe Coward, a planter residing five miles east of the city, is a patient at a local hospital suffering with broken leg, and his left eye was knocked out when a tree under which he was standing was demolished by a stroke of lightning.

VIRGINIA FARMERS FORM AN EXCHANGE

To Pool Interests For Purpose Of Collective Selling And Buying.

Suffolk, Va., June 22.—Farmers of the southern part of Norfolk county formed an incorporated stock company at a recent meeting held at Fentress, Va., which was largely attended. That section of the county between the Dismal Swamp and the Princess Anne line and Great Bridge and the North Carolina line was represented.

For some time, the farmers in the Hickory and Fentress sections of Norfolk county have had two organizations operating as associations for the purpose of purchasing supplies collectively and to advance the interests of members in a general way. The idea now with a chartered stock company is to pool the interests of all the farmers identified with the company and engage in collective selling as well as buying. The local organizations will be continued and will be fostered by the members of the major body. An effort will be made to build up the local organizations, the directors in the chartered company looking particularly after their formation in order that the interests of the company be strengthened.

The Fentress meeting subscribed the amount of stock necessary and elected a board of directors for the new company which will be known as the Tidewater Farmers Exchange.

FRISCO GRADUALLY TAKES ON NATIONAL CONVENTION AIR

San Francisco, June 22.—While hotel lobbies here began today to resemble a national convention, only a few of the Democratic chieftains had arrived. Direct developments of the day were confined to the preparation of the municipal auditorium for the convention.

Out of the meagre talk came an increasing rumble of wet and dry maneuvers. No definite statements have come from the leaders already here, but it was clearly indicated they expected a hot fight on the floor of the convention over efforts to make the platform which advocates modification of the prohibition enforcement law through a beer plank.

ADVOCATE CENTRAL OFFICE TO CARE FOR ALL FOREIGN TRADE

Consul General Robertson Applauded At Luncheon Held In Buenos Aires.

SAYS BUSINESS FIRMS OFTEN EMBARRASSED

Buenos Aires, June 22.—Consul General Robertson was applauded by the United States Exporters Association of Buenos Aires when at a recent luncheon, he declared that there should be but one authority in foreign countries to represent the United States in foreign trade relations.

The luncheon was given in honor of Dr. Julius Klean, United States commercial attaché, who is retiring from the service. He was asked by Mr. Robertson to urge on his return to the United States the necessity of placing the commercial and financial functions of consuls and commercial attaches under one head. The consul general declared that "they overlapped and were the cause of confusion and a detriment to efficient service."

"Business firms are frequently embarrassed by not knowing the functions of each official," he said, after paying tribute to Dr. Klean. "They do not know when to go to. You cannot conceive of a great American business concern sending two representatives down here to perform the same duties. It would be a waste of effort and expense. The United States government should have a central organization for the performance of all duties in connection with foreign trade. I do not care whether the functions are taken away from the consulate and given to the commercial attaché or whether the commercial attaché is placed under the authority of the consulate. My only interest in this is that the work be done by a single authority and not two."

A CORRECTION.

Chapel Hill, June 22.—I wish to apologize for a regrettable mistake in a story sent you by the University News Service under release date of June 16, concerning the commencement at the University of North Carolina, and to explain to you how it occurred.

The story, sent in advance so that you would have it in time, reported that the commencement address was made by Secretary of State Colby. Mr. Colby had promised to come but was detained in Washington by urgent business, and Roland S. Morris, American Ambassador to Japan, was here in his place and made the address. No one at the university knew that Mr. Colby was not coming until approximately 30 minutes before the commencement exercises began.

I endeavored to inform the press associations of the change, but it was then impossible to catch individual newspapers. I am exceedingly sorry that this mistake was made. Lenoir Chambers, director university news bureau.
