The "Greatest Mother" concept which was visualized in the famous art poster used by the American Red Cross in its second war fund campaign has had its symbolism adapted to the Red Cross-works of the post-war era and will illuminate the main poster to be used in the Fourth Roll Call November 11-25. This adaptation will bear the title "Still the Greatest Mother in the World." Everyone is familiar with the original "The Greatest Mother in the World," the effectiveness of which has been shown in part by the fact that it has furnished a synonym for Red Cross that has come to almost a household term. More than any other symbol, except the red cross itself, the public has made it the trademark of the American Red Cross.

The critics have been very kind to Allen McQuhae, the young Irish-American tenor who makes his appearance at the opera house on Oct. 1. Wilson G. Smith, one of America's best known composers and writers on musical subjects is not easily betrayed into enthusiasm so that praise from his pen is praise indeed. He wrote of McQuhae: "His singing was not only of the best, but highly creditable and admirable. His voice is of pleasing quality and his use of it both in recitative and arias was unusually refined and expressive."

"A.B." who writes for the Musical America in a review a year and a half ago said: "It is a satisfaction to watch the development of such voice as that of Allen McQuhae, whose robust tenor has a warmth and ringing clarity of tone usually observed in the experienced concert singer, but not so often found in younger ones. His dramatic sense and emotional temperament give life to his interpretations. Flattering predictions for the future were heard on all sides after his singing of the Arioso from 'Pagliacci' on Monday evening," and later of another concert, "No lovelier work has been heard in a long time than his rendering of Rachmaninoff's 'Lilacs,' a rarely heard song of exotic charm.—Press Agent.
