DR. GLAZEBROOK SPEAKS TO MEN'S CLUB AT CONETOE

Not many months ago Rev. L. L. Smith, pastor of the Conetoe Methodist church, assisted by Mr. L. P. Spencer, Mr. Payton Ellis and others organized a Methodist Men's Club.

Since its first organization this club has done good work in the Conetoe section, and it has the sympathy and support not only of the members of the church but those who were not members.

Several weeks ago Mr. Spencer, the president of the club, conceived the idea of having a big neighborhood rally and invited the men of the community to a session of this club.

After much work he at last secured a promise from Dr. W. L. Glazebrook of Washington City to come to Conetoe and make a speech.

Mr. Spencer had read of the work of Dr. Glazebrook in the News and Observer and so Dr. Glazebrook came to Conetoe yesterday.

Notwithstanding the very inclement weather, the school building was well filled and there were more than 100 men and women present to hear the address.

At one o'clock there was served in the wings of the Conetoe school one of those Conetoe dinners that nobody else in the world can serve like them.

Three large tables were set in the east-wing of the building and on the tables were barbecue, slaw, biscuits, cornbread, pickles and Brunswick stew. After dinner the crowd was invited to the auditorium of the high school.

The meeting of the club was called to order by Mr. Spencer, who asked Mr. Smith to present to the audience Mr. Bertram Brown, who would introduce the speaker.

No man could have said any more beautiful or kinder things about another than did Mr. Smith say about Mr. Brown. He spoke of Mr. Brown's great work in this country and of his beautiful Christian character. He said he was the most beloved minister in the country today.

Mr. Brown's introduction of Dr. Glazebrook was very unique and interesting. He told the audience about the last time he was in Conetoe was at a service in the upstairs of a building on the main street and his audience consisted of women altogether, and when he asked where the men were, they said the men folks were off that morning at a gypsy camp having their fortunes told. Mr. Brown congratulated the community upon its great improvement in educational and other ways and stated it was a ready pleasure to be with them.

He introduced Dr. Glazebrook as a physician of the body as well of the soul and told of the great work the doctor was at this time doing all over the country. He is chief surgeon of the Washington City Street Railway Co. He is a very busy man at home, but takes time off to work for his Master.

The editor of the Southerner can truthfully say that Dr. Glazebrook is the only man he has ever heard that could talk about himself for one hour and still hold the strict attention of his audience from the beginning till the last word. But Dr. Glazebrook did this yesterday at Conetoe.

What he said was not a discussion of religion or a dissertation on any theological subject or creed. He told the story of his life, plainly and simply so that every one could understand everything he said. And even with this personal story he was not egotistical. It was not the doctor who was speaking but His Master through him, and in his life that made the earnest appeal to his hearers.

The main thought around which he wove his story was the indifference of the average man to the churches of the living God. He told how he was brought up in a Christian family, of his present home life. He told how he became indifferent to

GOOD WORK DONE BY SANITARY DEPT.

Our people as a general thing are not familiar with the splendid work that is being done by the sanitary department of the Edgecombe county health office. A report of L. G. Whitely, chief sanitary inspector for the state, shows that this work is being well handled and much improvement is being made in the way of sanitation in this country. This report, in part, shows the following:

Sanitary rating September 13, '21, 64.2 per cent.

Sanitary rating April 20, '22, 75.8 per cent.

This indicates that improvement in sanitary conditions throughout the county improved nearly 12 percent from September, 1921, to April, this year. With this work still going on, Edgecombe county will be as near perfect in this respect as any county in the state. This is one of the reasons that sickness and especially typhoid and malaria have been so greatly reduced by the county health department. Our people should work in cooperation with the health department thereby making it easier for them to reduce diseases which are preventable. Both the department as a whole and Mr. Walker deserve much credit for this splendid show.

The church and grew from year to year cold and thoughtless of the vows he once took at the altar of church.

But there came a time in his life when he became a changed man and after that time he told of the work he was trying to do for his Master and his presence at Conetoe yesterday proved all his words true, as he is doing telling work all over the country.

Though Dr. Glazebrook is a very busy physician at home, yet he finds time now and then to leave his business and go out in the world and tell the men of his country about the Master and try to lead them to a better and higher life of service and happiness.

The Methodist Men's Club wish publicly to thank Dr. Glazebrook for his splendid address, for they realize it will do great good in their community.

The membership of the club consists of the following: J. P. Ellis, president; L. P. Spencer, secretary and treasurer; Rev. L. L. Smith, R. L. Moore, E. C. Jones, Job Holland, W. L. Staton, J. C. Walston, F. W. Bullock, W. A. Thigpen, F. F. Mayo, J. C. Davenport, Rufus Parker, H. G. Brown, Robert Walston, N. B. Dawson, Sr., N. B. Dawson, Jr., W. K. Davenport, W. E. Whitehurst, J. L. Cobb, Robert Scrapps, W. H. Watson, C. E. Cobb, H. T. Barnhill, J. S. Davenport, R. A. Stanell, Paul Warren, Jack Warren, Bennie Whitehurst, Julian Bullock, C. C. Dawson, J. R. Warren, F. L. Castex, Herbert Howard, Capt. Paul Jones, W. O. Howard, J. P. Keech, J. B. Aiken, J. C. Liles and Dr. R. S. Bailey.

TOMORROW FIREMEN'S MEMORIAL DAY HERE

Mr. P. L. McCabe, chief of the fire department, informs the Southerner that tomorrow is the Firemen's Memorial Day.

This day is observed by every fire company in the state. The firemen will attend the Presbyterian church in a body. The observance of this day is obligatory and every fireman is urged to attend the services.

The Tarboro fire company during the last year has not lost a member by death.

FINDS NEEDLE HIDDEN IN CITY, WITHOUT CLUE OR GUIDANCE

LONDON, June 3.—To find a needle in a haystack is popularly supposed to be a feat so difficult that the odds against its successful accomplishment would be something like a million to one. Yet a feat that to the ordinary man would appear, if anything, still more difficult, has recently been accomplished in Jerusalem according to newspapers published there. It was nothing less than the finding of a needle hidden in Jerusalem, and with no clue to its whereabouts of which the five senses could take cognizance, except that it was hidden "somewhere" in the city.

This was done by Dr. Hanosson, who claims to be possessed of something more than the usual five senses and to be endowed with a mysterious "psychic" faculty by means of which he can read thoughts and find out things that cannot be discovered by means of mere sight or hearing. The finding of the needle was accepted as the proof of his claim and he was awarded 100 pounds sterling. He found the needle within 25 minutes, excluding the time taken to reach the place of concealment.

A committee was appointed to supervise the test and to see that there was nothing of a "put up job" about it. The committee consisted of several journalists, some policemen and an expert in nervous diseases. Dr. Hanosson was secured in a house and a guard placed over him. Then the members of the committee set forth in motor cars, one of them carrying the needle.

Several streets of Jerusalem were traversed. Cars and drivers were changed on the way and then, by a circuitous route, the lunatic asylum was reached. There behind a portrait of Sir Herbert Samuel, the needle was hidden. Then the committee returned to the house in which Dr. Hanosson had been left and released him.

In a motor car, accompanied by the committee he started out to find the needle. In the course taken the driver followed his directions. After passing through many streets Dr. Hanosson left the car and proceeded on foot to the asylum. Arriver there, with hardly a moment's hesitation, he made for the portrait and found the needle.

The proceedings aroused enormous interest in Jerusalem. A crowd of several thousand persons awaited the result of the test and cheered when Dr. Hanosson's success was announced.

BAPTIST MEN ENTERTAIN WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY

On Friday night the Baptist Men's Club were hosts to the Ladies Missionary Society of the church. Since the organization of the club several months ago, the ladies of the church have served the dinner for the club at each of its meetings and this entertainment arranged for to show the appreciation of their efforts and service and loyalty to the club.

About 50 ladies were present and a sumptuous dinner was served in the club room at beautifully appointed tables. It seemed a little unusual for the ladies to be the guests of the men, who arranged every detail and also served the dinner, and was an event that will long be remembered by all present.

After dinner the ladies discussed in detail the new phases of the missionary work that has recently been undertaken by them and several good talks were made by the members. At a late hour they adjourned, loathe to separate from the happy occasion of the evening and voting the club ideal hosts.

Col. Fred Olds Here Today.

Col. Fred Olds of Raleigh was in town for a few hours this morning, on his way from Plymouth. Colonel Olds told the Southerner he was preparing an article for the Orphan's Friend to be entitled "The Tarboro Southerner 100 Years Ago." This article will also be published in the Southerner soon.

COOPERATION NOW PRACTICED IN THE HOMES OF EUROPE

STOCKHOLM, June 3.—Cooperation and scientific management have reached the kitchen in Scandinavia. The calorific contents of the market basket are no longer dependent on chance or the persuasive eloquence of the grocer and butcher, but regulated by culinary science.

The annual congress of Northern Housewives' Union, attended by delegates representing some 50,000 Scandinavian and Finnish members of the National League of Swedish Housewives, the Danish Housewives' Association, the Norwegian Home Welfare Association and the Martha Union of Finland, has just adjourned in Stockholm after a successful session where most of the modern problems of the modern housewife were deliberated and discussed at length. There were no theoretic or revolutionary measures on the agenda, only practical problems such as face any housewife any day of the week.

These housewives' unions have exerted considerable influence in dealing with servant questions and regulating market prices on necessities. Thus the Swedish League during the war and during the hard times following established cooperative stores and formed buying associations that exercised a strong regulating effect on the price level of household necessities, especially foodstuffs.

The congress just closed adopted resolutions to arrange for a vacation course of instruction in domestic science and other matters affecting the home at the Aas Agricultural School in Norway, where students will receive instruction in various household duties under capable instructors and will witness demonstrations of the latest methods of running a modern home.

Mrs. Agnes Ingelman, president of the National League of Swedish Housewives, said in an address to the delegates that women nowadays have to keep in touch with politics, public administration and legislation affecting the home. They must get together, she said, and work for the safeguarding of the home, as for instance in its building and fitting up, in arranging home exhibitions and stimulating public instruction in domestic sciences and in establishing employment bureaus, libraries and day nurseries.

ESKIMOS TO MINE COAL FOR HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, June 3.—Coal at $76 a ton is to have the price cut in half by native cooperation at the northern-most hospital in the world, according to announcement made today by the Presbyterian board of home missions.

The Presbyterian board operates this hospital at Point Barrow, Alaska, and completed it recently under great difficulties.

"The Eskimos, already appreciating the worth of the institution, have volunteered to reciprocate by cutting the operation costs," the statement said. "The first step will be to mine 200 tons of coal for next winter's use at the hospital, using the native Eskimo labor at the mine set aside for the natives at Wright, 100 miles distant. The natives will freely transport this coal themselves by dog sledges, and expect to deliver it at $38 a ton less than former supplies brought from Seattle.

The Presbyterian Board today announced a long list of native Eskimo contributions to the hospital. The list shows that while the natives retain their aboriginal names they supplement them with Christian association. Some of the contributions are: Kuzuskik, 15 pounds reindeer; Ma-bel Kerook, 16 pounds reindeer; Ned Naungingya, 115 pounds reindeer; Amos Ekosek, 4 1-2 pounds reindeer; Jim Semigloak, 125 pounds reindeer; Nellie Taketak, 7 pounds reindeer; Philip Paneowo and son Shirley, 9 pounds reindeer; Paul Kaveoluk, 15 pounds fish; Bruce Nakapigak, 14 pounds fish; Helen Kagoaluk, 1 pair slippers.

The harbor at Point Barrow is open only two and a half months a year.

HAIR DRESSERS TO TAKE UP SANITATION

CHICAGO, June 3.—The hair-dressing parlors where the same old comb and brush encountered many heads each day without even the formality of submission to soap and water, is a thing of the past, according to Mrs. M. F. Baird of Chicago, a prominent member of the American Cosmeticians' Association.

Today sanitation is the rule in an occupation to which 15 years ago it was a word without meaning, she asserted, and clean white aprons have supplanted dubious black ones.

Improvement in safeguards of patrons' health has accompanied an increase in the number of hair-dressing and beauty parlors during the last ten years, she added, of from 2,500 to approximately 10,000, exclusive of residential work done by 20,000 women, and the number is constantly increasing.

Organizations of persons engaged in hair-dressing and related work include, besides the American Cosmeticians' Association, the National Hairdressers' Association, which will convene at St. Louis, Mo., July 31-August 2.

"Fifteen years ago," said Mrs. Baird, "the operators in hair-dressing had never heard of sanitation, and did not know the meaning of the word sanitation. Women leaned forward over bowls to have their heads washed and perched up in barber chairs when they had a massage. The use of electricity was limited. Today sterilizers are found conspicuously displayed in every booth, antiseptics are used generously, and massage chairs that are suited for the work have been designed, while in shampooing many innovations have made it a comfort rather than a torture.

School girls giving scientific training have been established and today in many states in the union there are efforts being made to have state laws passed that will put this work on even a higher standard.

"To this end the American Cosmeticians' Association was formed. The founders designed to promote uniform legislation for the profession of cosmeticians, to provide methods of carrying on and systematizing the business of the membership, and to promote the development of the occupation."

The National Hairdressers' Association, according to its secretary, Mrs. A. F. Cosgrove of San Francisco, is organized to create styles in America in artistic and becoming hair dresses; to see that the best wigs, toupees, and the like, are made; to have milliners see the size of head dresses before making head sizes in hats; and in other ways to promote and elevate the business of hair-dressing and hair work.

THE CHURCHES ARE NOT EXEMPT FROM ST. ASSESSMENTS

Since the assessments for the paving of the streets in front of the different churches of the town have been sent to these congregations for payment and, too, since advertisements have appeared in the paper for the sale of the property for the assessments, the question has been raised whether the church property was exempt from a assessment for street improvements.

In order to get the true status of the exemption matter as to churches the mayor instructed the city attorney to write the attorney general for an opinion. Below is published a letter from the mayor to the Southern, also the letter received by Mr. Gilliam from the attorney general:

"Editor Southerner: I understand that there has been some criticism of the town authorities in advertising certain church property in the town of Tarboro for unpaid street assessments. The board of commissioners, on advice of the city attorney, decided that they had no legal right to exempt this property and asked their attorney to get a ruling from the attorney general of North Carolina in the matter.

"I am herewith enclosing copy of letter received from the attorney general which I will thank you to publish. You will note under this ruling the board has no discretion in the matter but must proceed as with all other property owners when the assessment is unpaid.

"H. P. Foxhall, Mayor."

"Mr. Don Gilliam: Your letter of May 29th is received. This office has not rendered the opinion which is referred to in your letter. On the contrary, we have advised that church property was not exempt from assessments for public improvements unless the act of the legislature authorizing municipalities to make these public improvements contains the exemption from the assessments. The exemption from taxation contained in the state constitution and within the legislative discretion does not, in my opinion, extend to assessments for local improvements.

TEA AND TOPICS CLUB DELIGHTFULLY ENTERTAINED

The Tea and Topics Club was delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. H. B. Whitlark, the occasion being the last meeting of the club for the summer and a surprise shower for Miss Mary Wooten, whose marriage to Mr. R. Brookes Peters, Jr., takes place on June 8.

After a splendid musical and literary program, to the strains of the wedding march, little Mary Edith and Ralph Whitlark came into the living rooms dressed as a miniature bride and groom and conducted Miss Wooten to the dining room, where a load of presents showered the bride from a pink parasol. After untying the presents and reading the advice given to the bride by the club members the hostess served an ice course.

THE SOUTHERNER'S SATURDAY SERMON BY REV. B. E. BROWN

When the day of Pentecost was fully come, they were all together with one accord in one place. Acts 2:1.

Tomorrow is Whitsunday, or Pentecost, the fiftieth day after Easter, the anniversary of the day the Ten Commandments were given to Moses on Mt. Sinai, and after that, the day the Holy Ghost came down on the heads of the Apostles. That was the beginning of the church. You will notice that they were all together in one place with one accord. The reason why the Holy Ghost does not descend now in the same abundant measure on the church is because instead of being all in one place with one accord, they are separated with a great deal of discord in many places.

This sermon shall be about various weaknesses of the church, due to the fallibility of its human agents.

1. The church suffers from the inconsistent lives of so many of its members. It has always done so. Before it was a month old, Ananias and Sapphira and Simon Magus, and no telling how many more, went wrong. But nothing can be done about it in the way of preventing it. From time to time efforts have been made by various branches of the church to keep pure by turning out unworthy members, but without exception they all after a few years abandon the practice. For one thing, it is too hard to tell a sinner from a saint, and in pulling up the tares men are apt to pull up good wheat also, as Jesus said in His parable. And then again, turning people out of the church is a weapon that can cut both ways. If the sinners happen to be in the majority, they can turn out the saints, as has actually occurred many times in church history. The better plan is to consider the church as a hospital for sick souls, where a sinner may be nursed and cured. That idea may have its drawbacks, but it is the best from a practical standpoint yet tried.

2. The church suffers from divisions and antagonisms between different branches of itself. That is due in a great measure to the natural differences between one man and another. The truth is the same, different minds apprehend it differently. Unless all Christians can find wisdom to agree to disagree, there is no remedy for disunion. But as our wisdom increases with the passage of the centuries, it is reasonable to hope that we may at last attain such unity.

3. The church has various enemies, the claims of worldly wealth and pride; the attacks of scientific discovery, which is forever thinking a new truth must contradict an old one; conservatism which clings to worn out methods; radicalism which grasps at untried and foolish methods; the state, which either refuses to give the church the help it ought to give, or gives it help it ought not to give.

But it is still the church, founded by the Holy Ghost of God; the church for which Jesus died; the bank in which God has put the truth man needs for his eternal peace; the one permanent and God ordained institution for the lifting up of the souls of men from earth to heaven; the mother of civilization; the bride of Christ the Lord. All men who love it are blessed by their love, and all who hate are cursed by their hate.

114TH BIRTHDAY OF JEFFERSON DAVIS OBSERVED

ATLANTA, Ga., June 3.—The South today observed the anniversary of the 114th birthday of Jefferson Davis, Confederate president. Exercises were held in all states of the old South, legal holiday being declared in eight states.

"BORROWED MONEY" AT THE COLONIAL THEATRE

While the regular picture at the Colonial last night was enjoyed, yet the Pinetops high school boys and girls came in for their share of the praise in their presentation of the play, "Borrowed Money."

The play was filled with plenty of humor and pathos to make it interesting. The players showed good training and they all did themselves proud. The Southerner hopes to see these pupils have a return date to our town.
