JAMES MONTROSE

Was a very successful tobacco grower. By his Will he left his property in Trust with a friend as Trustee. The Principal was to be safely held, the farm kept clear of debt, and the income to be paid to his wife. This Trustee misapplied the funds, mismanaged the real estate, and the widow in old age was left without income. A MAN acting as Executor may lose the Estate and have no money of his own to make good. Putting him in jail won't bring back the money. Where we are named Trustee your Estate cannot be lost, misapplied, or impaired, because Trust Funds are kept separate, under the eye of the Banking Department of this State—while back of your Estate stands our entire resources of over $1,000,000.00.
