PRINCE PROVIDES NEW VERNACULAR FOR GOLFERS
(By The Associated Press)

London, Oct. 6.—The Prince of Wales established another great bond of sympathy with thousands of his countrymen recently when he duffed a shot that was heard around the golfer's word. This happened the latter part of September at St. Andrews as he was "playing himself in" as captain of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club.

Today thousands of duffers at golf are rejoicing at the enrichment of the golfing vernacular by a phrase used on a course near London, shortly after the news had been received of the prince's ordeal at St. Andrews.

A player scuffed his shot and remarked, "Ah! that was a Prince of Wales." This phrase is likely to be generally applied to a drive which moves a considerable amount of turf as well as the golf ball.

IN A TIGHT PLACE

A man was one day hunting in a forest. A terrible storm came up. He looked about for shelter. But there was none. So he crawled into a hollow log.

The water soaked through the wood. The log began to swell. When the store was over, the hunter could not get out.

He strained to free himself with all his might. But the log held tight. Exhausted, he gave up.

Like a drowning man, he saw his whole life flash before him, especially his mistakes. He remembered that he had never started a bank account.

This thought made him feel so small that he was able to crawl out of the log without difficulty.—The Balance Sheet.
