

CLOSE YOUR DOORS AND LOCK CARS

The Automobile Thief Is In The Land. Dr. Frank Gorham's Car Taken From The Street in Front of Jenkins' Garage Yesterday Afternoon.

6 STOLEN IN GREENVILLE

An Attempt Made Saturday Night To Steal a Car In Front of R. H. Parker's Store.

The Southerner's advice to all owners of automobiles is to keep a close watch on them on the streets and also to see that they are locked either with a chain or with some other safety device.

It will be remembered that on last Saturday night a large Studebaker was stolen in Greenville and the thieves were arrested here Sunday morning. During the Fair week at Greenville it is reported that six cars had been stolen on the grounds and on the streets of that town.

During the Fair week here a Ford was taken from the outside of the grounds and whirled away and no one has ever been able to locate it.

Saturday night of last week, a man from the country stopped his car in front of Mr. R. H. Parkers store on Main street and he was hardly in the store before some one tried to steal it.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. Frank Gorham brought his car to the Jenkins Garage for some work to be done on it. After it had been repaired, it rolled out of the garage, and placed near the sidewalk near the building, waiting for Mr. Gorham to take it when he was ready to leave for his home in the country.

But when his son called for the car, it was not to be found. It had mysteriously disappeared and no one could account for it. Some thief had slipped up and cranked it away.

The morning reports at the City hall that are made every morning by the policemen show that hardly night passes that there is not an attempt to steal something.

Just who these night marauders are the police have as yet been unable to tell. But from the indications these thieves are not only small boys around town but they are experienced thieves.

If this night stealing cannot be stopped, it would be well for the commissioners to double up the night force for a while, and add extra men in the day time as well.

Thieves Break In Simmons' Store Early Last Night

Last night between the hours of nine and twelve o'clock the store of W. L. and J. E. Simmons was broken into, but fortunately not much of any value was taken therefrom.

A barrel on the concrete step to the rear of the store excited the suspicion on the night policeman and he at once phoned to Mr. J. E. Simmons who came to the store at once.

The light to the window of the office was broken out, but the thief finding that this window was securely secured by several iron strips across the outside, abandoned any further attempt here.

On the concrete step of the back door was a barrel and on this barrel the thief broke the top glass of the door and reached his hand through and took from the inside, the brace that was used to hold the door in place. Across the door on the inside was a large iron pipe and this pipe was double braced by two more iron pieces.

After this had been discovered, Mr. J. E. Simmons began a thorough search all over the store. He found that the cash register had been tampered with, but the party who tried to open the register knew nothing about the mechanism of it, and instead of breaking it open, locked it so tight that they could not get into it. There were several dollars in the register, but not a cent was missed from the register when it was opened.

Nothing was missed from the store and there is no clue as to who the thief was.

Cancer Treated At Hospital By Dr. J. M. Baker

It will be a source of great pleasure to Tarboro people to learn that the treatment of cancer at the Hospital by Dr. J. M. Baker is meeting with great success.

A short time ago Dr. Baker purchased a very expensive outfit for the treatment of this dread disease, and other than at Tarboro there is but one of these Radium Therapy outfits in the entire South. This machine is very expensive and none but an expert can operate it to any advantage.

The early part of this year, Dr. Baker took a special course in the treatment of cancer with this machine, and since that time he has treated in Tarboro, more than two hundred cases, and many a hopeless man and woman has been sent home rejoicing to be delivered from the results of the dreaded cancer.

This week there have been at the Hospital twelve patients, from eight counties in the state, Edgemont, Martin, Pitt, Halifax, Jones, Lenoir, Duplin, Wake and Bertie.

CAROLINAS SUCCESS IN FOOTBALL IS DUE TO HIGH SCHOOLS

(Special Correspondence) Chapel Hill, Nov. 14.—One of the consequences of the Tar Heel victory over V. M. in Richmond on Armistice Day is the realization by the University Community, of what the development of school football is contributing to Carolina success.

The schools are pouring into Chapel Hill every year an increasing number of competent school players. Ineligible for the varsity until they have been here for a year, they go out for the freshman eleven, the following year they are ready for real varsity training.

In North Carolina the spirited competition among the high schools every fall is creating a small army of players ambitious for collegiate honors. The graduate into the colleges, with the University naturally getting more of them than any other, since it is part of the public school system. This tends to counteract the advantage that the University has had because of its preparatory schools; and perhaps more than counteracts it, because the high schools are more numerous here than the Virginia "feeders" are.

There has not yet been developed in the Old Dominion such a high school league as exists here.

Furthermore, the Virginia schools themselves are feeding players into North Carolina, Roy Morris and Fred Morris of Gastonia, Lineberger of Belmont, and "Red" Johnston and McDonald of Charlotte all played at the Fishburne Military Academy. McDonald also played on the Charlotte high school eleven.

Melver Merritt, Tenney and Sparrow and Pendergraft are all products of Chapel Hill high school football. Captain Pritchard is a Chapel Hill school alumnus, too, and played on the school grounds before they had an organized team as they have now. Cochran, the varsity right end, started his football career in Charlotte.

Fordham is from Greensboro, Blanton from Shelby, Shepard from Edenton. Poindexter from far-off Macon county, is one varsity player who knew nothing of the game before he came to the University.

A well-known reformer plans to go around the world. We wish him success on the first half of his trip.

Every word that Mr. McCabe said about the picture "Manslaughter" is true. He has never had a more thrilling and appealing picture in his Theatre.

Co-op Cotton Is Pouring Into The Co-op Houses

Only About Five Per Cent of The Cotton Received So Far Has Been Sold By The Association. North Carolina Banks Have Loaned More Than Four Million Dollars.

ENGLISH MILLS FRIENDLY No Organized Plan To Fight The Cooperative Cotton Association.

(Special Correspondence) Raleigh, Nov. 14.—Cotton continues to pour in a steady stream into the warehouses of the North Carolina Cooperatives and it is announced today by the management that more than three thousand bales were delivered by members Saturday despite the fact that it was a holiday in many of the towns.

Warehousing the cotton received by the cooperatives has proven to be a serious problem, owing to the placing of embargoes by the railroads on Greensboro and Charlotte to relieve the congestion but the embargo on the former point was removed the past week, and cotton is once more moving into the Gate City, which has storage facilities for at least 50,000 bales of cotton.

During the congestion that tied up shipments at the interior concentration points the cotton was diverted by the cooperatives to Norfolk and Wilmington.

Only about five per cent of the cotton received from members has been sold, according to Sales manager Lawrence MacRae, who states that it will be the policy to adhere strictly to orderly marketing. English mills are reported as offering serious opposition to the plan to prevent dumping all of the southern cotton in the market during October but there has been no organized plan to fight the cooperative movement, so far as can be learned by the officers of the North Carolina Cooperative.

It is announced that North Carolina banks have loaned more than four million dollars for advances on cotton, and this loyal cooperation by Tar Heel bankers has brought offers to make loans from banks as far south as Jacksonville, Florida.

LAST NIGHT A RECORD-BREAKER

Mr. McCabe says that last night was a record breaker for attendance at the Colonial Theatre. He had the biggest crowd he has ever had since he first opened this theatre.

If there is any one thing that Mr. McCabe knows how to do, it is to advertise. For this picture he put forth special efforts in the way of advertising and he got the results.

Good judicious advertising always pays, but there are some folks who do not believe this.
