A Tribute to the Mosquito.

Representative Hughes of New Jersey is proud of his native state and needs no opportunity to voice his pride. One day a friend met him in the street in Washington and said: "Bully, I know you're proud of New Jersey. I like to see such home pride. I want to boost your cause. Use this in your next speech: 'The hum of Jersey's mosquitoes reaches to the Alaskan hills, runs down the Pacific coast, reaches through the Rocky mountains, drenches the Florida Everglades and titillates the shores of Europe.'"—Washington Star.

Rambrandt's "Mill."

A new theory concerning the origin of the famous landscape known as Rambrandt's "Mill" is put forward in Paris, where the authenticity of the picture continues to be discussed. To put it briefly, the suggestion is that the landscape was originally by the hand of Hierkules Seghers, the artist whose signature was discovered when the picture was cleaned, and that Rembrandt beautified and improved it with his own brush work before passing it as his own.

The Cobbler in the Library.

One of the rooms in the New York Public Library is a cobbler shop. The trustees have ordered that all the employees in the new library must wear rubber heeled shoes, and since there is a small army of these employees it was decided to establish a shoe repairing shop in the building. The proprietor of this shop says he has plenty to do, for when there are no rubber heels to be renewed he is given odd jobs, principally on leather, in the library.

MISS BAILEY BECOMES MRS WILLIAM F. DOWDY

In a simple, yet very impressive and beautiful home wedding last Wednesday at noon.

In a simple, though beautiful and impressive home wedding, Miss Hattie Bailey became the bride of Mr. William F. Dowdy, of Newbern, N. C., last Wednesday at noon at the home of the bride's mother in White street.

An altar, banked with a mass of golden rod and potted plants, presenting a color scheme of yellow and green, in which gleamed numerous candles, had been improvised in the parlor, and here in the presence of a few intimate friends of the families their thoth was plighted. Rev. E. W. Stone, pastor of the First Baptist church performed the ceremony in a most impressive manner.

Immediately after the ceremony, the bridal party escorted Mr. and Mrs. Dowdy to the Norfolk Southern depot, where they boarded a south-bound train for a trip in the South.

Mrs. Dowdy is a very charming young lady. She has a host of friends in this city among whom she is greatly admired. Mr. Dowdy is a prominent young business man, and is well known and held in high esteem.

FEDERAL COURT IN SESSION

(Continued from page one) conceive how such vile thoughts could emanate from any human mind, save from those who are inmates of that institution (insane asylum) whose subjects are to be pitied rather than to be condemned. Continuing he said that he hoped that the people of this community would not called upon to endure a repetition of such outrages against public decency.

The indictments were secured in Federal Court against Saunders upon three counts, the articles appearing in his paper on different dates. These articles were indecent, vulgar, and were held a violation of section 3893 of the Revised statutes of the United States.

Wednesday afternoon session and pretty much all day yesterday was consumed in hearing the case of J. R. Lassiter, administrator, against the Norfolk Southern railroad, in which the plaintiff, as administrator was suing to recover damages for the death of Miss Mattie Taylor, of Gates county.

Attorneys Col. W. B. Rodman and W. D. Pruden represented the defendant and Attorneys E. F. Ayldett and H. S. Ward represented the plaintiff.

This suit grew out of the death of Miss Taylor, a young lady of Gates county, more than a year ago, which was caused by a Norfolk Southern Railway train. She had been to Suffolk to make purchases to prepare for her wedding on her return home. She left the train at Chesapeake and started for her home in a buggy. The train ran over her at the crossing killing her outright. The railroad company claimed that death was due to her own negligence. This case was non-suited and this term of court adjourned yesterday afternoon.

C., and Miss Kate Lee of Moyock, N. C., representing the proverbial, "From Murphy to Manteo" breadth of operation.

Mr. Palmer and his prospective bride came here from Moyock Wednesday armed with the written consent of the young lady's mother, and it was not long before they had required th marriage papers an were united by marriage by Register of Deeds J. W. Munden.
