ELIZABETH CITY, NORTH CAROLINA, MONDAY EVENING AUGUST 7, 1916

NO. 59

MANY ATTENDED THE DEDICATION

Historic "St. Andrews By-The-Sea" Again Open For Worship At Nags Head

Nestling in the hollow between the rows of sanddunes of the ocean and the sound sides of Nags Head, about midway, is St. Andrews-by-the-sea, the new Episcopal Chapel which replaces the building destroyed during the Civil War.

On Sunday morning the little chapel was filled and overflowed at the dedicatory service conducted by Bishop Darst.

Bishop Darst used a special service for the occasion, somewhat different from the regular consecration service of the prayer book and set apart for religious use the chancel and its furniture, leaving the body of the chapel for use in the interest of social improvement in the community, for both moral and educational uplift. In furtherance of this object a curtain is provided to screen the chancel from the nave or body of the church.

A gallery is in the west end for the accommodation of colored people.

Besides Bishop Darst the following clergymen were present: Rev. L. L. Williams of Pocomoke City, Md.; Rev. C. S. Hutchinson of St. Clements, Philadelphia; Rev. F. Harrison of Camden, S. C.; Rev. Wm. R. Savage of Blowing Rock, and Dr. R. B. Drane who is temporarily in charge of the chapel.

There was formerly just such a chapel located not far from the site of the new building. This chapel was torn down about the year 1864 by the Federal Military Command to build cabins on Roanoke Island, nearby, to house the negroes who fled to them when that island had been captured.

Rev. L. L. Williams while rector of Christ Church in Elizabeth City made the first move toward recovering from the U. S. Government payment for the destruction of the property. After a number of years Congress made an appropriation and a bond $700 was paid to the trustees of the Diocese of East Carolina. In addition the Diocese had about $600 which had been raised by the Nags Head summer colony in the cottage services during a number of years.

Two lots were given for the church site by Mr. John Z. Lowe—"at the corner of 6th street and Roanoke Avenue"—according to Nags Head designation.

Many articles of furniture were also donated: the litany desk by Mrs. D. C. Winston in memory of her father, Col. R. B. Creevy; the bishop's chair by Mrs. Skinner in memory of her husband, Hon. Thomas G. Skinner; the lectern by Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. McMullan and Mrs. Little in memory of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Palfin; The Bible is the gift of Mrs. G. W. Ward the organ by Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Duff, and the altar by Dr. R. B. Drane.

The Bishop expects that visiting clergymen will conduct the services from time to time.

The church owns a desirable building lot on the ocean side where a church house may be built to serve a clergyman and to be a center of social service to do something of what a Girls Friendly Society does in some places. A Boy Scouts organization could be accommodated or a mother and child in need of rest.

"This is just the beginning," says Dr. Drane of Edenton who spends his summers at Nags Head and has worked with enthusiasm for the new chapel. "Nags Headers believe that there isn't anything too big to be worked for and for the future of Nags Head."

URGES DEMOCRATS TO GET BUSY

Democratic Strength In Every Precinct Should be Brought to The Polls in November Elections

(Special Correspondence.)
Raleigh, N. C., Aug. 7.—If there is any reliance at all to be placed in our old friend "Consensus of Opinion," Candidate Hughes is a considerably weaker aspirant for White House honors than he was before delivering his speech of acceptance—including that wave of the hand of Teddy play as he began his laborious job of attempted destruction of without a semblance of presenting something better for, the "Wilson policies," foreign and domestic.

I have talked to many men (of many minds on public affairs generally) and the great majority seems to be thoroughly agreed on the character of the political jurist's performance and its effect upon the country—and the opinion is anything but complimentary or encouraging to Mr. Hughes and his party. The impression left on many who expected something better (without any valid reason for expecting it, as far as they can analyze their thoughts at this time) is that the speech smacks more strongly of a banal old scold, bent on injuring his opponent regardless, than that of a full man-size constructive for presidential honors laying claim to ability as a constructive statesman. Sic transit gloria et seq.

POLLING THE VOTE BY PRECINCTS.

State Chairman Warren expresses the hope that the Democratic county chairmen in every county in the State will be especially zealous and jealous in attending to their business during the next three months—zealous in organizing and polling the full strength of the party in every county, and jealous of each other in the sense of not allowing one's self to be outdone in the exercise of vigilance and effective party work.

There has been more or less carelessness among some of the local party managers, precinct chairmen especially being "off the job" in some important respects. Chairman Warren regards this as a too risky, not to say dangerous, state of affairs, especially in a presidential election year, when the enemy is most active.

One of the most important steps which Mr. Warren will impress upon the county chairmen, and which he will unilaterally insist upon, is the work of properly polling the voters of each precinct, by precincts, in every county in North Carolina. "Get the precincts right and the county will get right. With the county and precinct organizations properly looked after and closely guarded, the State can't go wrong," declares the chairman.

"We will begin at the bottom and build up," he added, "instead of starting at the top. I think it much the more effective method. Of course we have nominally a safe majority of the voters in the Democratic party in North Carolina. But our people must realize that the strength of the party vote must be cast at the polls to insure continued good government and prevent the enemy from capturing the State and national governments."

United Press Correspondent At Berlin Says Allies Have Lost Hope Of Roumanian Aid

London, Aug. 7.—The important tide west of Martin which is now held firmly by the British.

Entrenched in their newly won heights the Australians overlook the slope rolling away toward the city of Rapahne, an immediate object of the British offensive now less than seven miles away.

GERMANS RESIST STUBBORNLY
The Germans have offered strong resistance to the British advance, apparently being determined that the positions just occupied must be held at all costs. The village of Courcellette was literally pulverized by the German artillery in the attempt to check the British advance.

The village of Martinpuich has been under systematic British fire since Saturday when their guns began to gather the German front along a three mile stretch with a continuous hail of flame.

The Teutons are desperately attempting to take the offensive in the region of Volhynia, Bukovina, Hindenberg is in supreme command of the new movement; but in the face of his desperate counters the Slavs have crossed the Sareth and have taken seven villages.

The outcome of the Austrian counter attacks is still in doubt.

The British repulse of the Turks attacking positions on the Suez canal was complete and the pursuit of the retreating foe has been pressed for a distance of eighteen miles.

Forty five Turkish officers and 3,000 men have been captured by the British in the Suez campaign.

At the same time the Germans are being pressed from their last colonial foothold in East Africa, late reports indicating that the last vestige of German resistance is crumbling.

VERDUN ATTACKS REPULSED
Paris, Aug. 7.—Two violent attacks northeast of Verdun have been checked and the Germans have been repulsed in the Thiaumont, Vaux and Chapitre sectors.

Intense artillery action is in progress on the Somme front, preparatory to further advances of the infantry.

Six German aeroplanes and two balloons have been brought down within the last twenty four hours.

GERMANS REGAIN POSITIONS
Berlin, Aug. 7.—In determined counter attacks the Germans have re-occupied portions of the trenches lost to the enemy at Pozieres.

The failure of the British to make any great headway in their offensive along the Somme is regarded in the light of an allied defeat in Roumania and has inspired diplomats and the people generally with fresh courage. Reports from Buchares and Vienna indicate that the Balkan situation is favorable for the Central Powers, and the allies are said to have given up, practically, their effort to bring Roumania into the war on their side.

THE HOSPITALITY HAIRCUT

(By United Press)
Houston, Tex., Aug. 7.—Houston today claims to the long distance hospitality championship.

A company of New York militia was passing a fire station during an exercise stroll while firemen were shearing a horse with electric clippers. One of the Guardsmen, whose head was hot beneath a heavy thatch, broke ranks and asked for a haircut. Not only was he accommodated but also was a score of his fellow militiamen—and it didn't cost 'em a cent.

BIG CAMPAIGN AGAINST CHOLERA

Mass Meeting to be Held to Interest Farmers and Gain Their Co-operation in Movement

The Federal Department of Agriculture, co-operating with state department of Agriculture, has for the past two years been conducting a campaign in an effort to assist the farmers to control the most costly of all animal diseases, hog cholera. This has been so successful that the Departments are now undertaking another and further campaign to actually eradicate this disease.

To that end, Dr. F. D. Owen, the Federal Government expert, has been permitted to concentrate his efforts to the six extreme eastern counties of the state, and the campaign will be started in Pasquotank county by a large mass meeting of the farmers at the court house on Friday, August 11th., at three p. m., and at which it is desired that every farmer in the county attend.

The plan in a general manner is to form a county wide hog growers' association and to combat the disease, not only with the anti-hog cholera serum, but to insist on a better observance of the various state sanitary laws, and to clean and disinfect the premises of those hog growers that may have been unfortunate enough to have lost animals from this disease.

Other matters that will be discussed at this time also are of immense importance to the farmers of this county, such as the matter of an all year around live hog market, and means of getting recognition of this section in such a market. Dr. Owen states that he has recently received assurances from one of the largest hog slaughterers in the world that a slaughter house will be built in a section that will be within easy shipping distance from this county, and that they will be prepared to handle about one thousand hogs per day, but that this section, although the largest hog raising section of the entire state, has no recognition at the present time in the live stock market because there has here before been no concerted effort to enter it.

All these matters are of intense interest to Pasquotank farmers and it is hoped that they will attend and give these government men an opportunity to show how the swine industry can be developed and how the loss of approximately $30,000 per year from hog cholera can be eventually stopped.

Friday, August 11th., at three p. m., is the time at the court house, Elizabeth City, N. C.
