

Ed Wise Mann Writes Of His Teaching Days In The Coast Country

Beloved Teacher Who Served for 20 Years, Now Employed at the Great Elks National Home at Bedford, Virginia, Writes us of Yesterday and Today

Hundreds of people in Dare County remember with delight Ed. Wise Mann, beloved teacher and native of Manns Harbor who has been away from the county for some 20 years.

His memory was stirred recently by a picture in the Dare County Times of a group of teachers of a quarter century ago who worked in Dare. So he takes occasion to write us from his new job, and to tell us of the long ago days, and his present location. He says:

As a rule I get The Dare County Times Sunday mornings, and always enjoy reading the home news. Although I've been away near 30 years, yet I claim Dare County as my dear old home, and try my best to keep in close touch with the people, and all the news.

After dinner and as the sun had gone behind the western hills, I came on over to my quarters and settled down in my nice cozy room to rest from the many cares of the day, to read and write.

As I opened the paper the first thing I saw was the picture of a little group of the few and faithful Dare County Teachers of a quarter century ago, and I am glad to be in that number, for I think teaching and training the young is one of the noblest and highest callings.

As the boys and girls of today are men and women of tomorrow, and as they gather around us in the school room who can foretell the outcome or possibilities in each of them. No one knows for God in His goodness only reveals a step at a time. No one knows today what tomorrow will bring forth, yet we all know time is fleeting and that they will all soon be in line for promotion to leadership.

And we, as teachers, should realize the harvest truly is great and pray for guidance to help train them and start them out in the right direction.

I am a true believer to be guided by your conscience in all things we do, and practice what we teach. I could never mark any of my pupils tardy, if I as their leader were ever late.

And then my motto was "on time," and to stress that motto. Neither could I speak to them about the evils of smoking and drinking, if they could ever smell such on my breath. Then we as leaders have to live the life of a leader and guide. Then surely we can never betray the trust played in our care. It is indeed a grand work, and I love and am interested in it.

I thoroughly enjoyed the picture and readily recognized each one's face and they brought pleasant and happy memories of the long ago.

At that time I was rather thin and frail, weighed 118 pounds, then younger and trying to look older as a leader and guide.

Now older and trying to look younger as nature takes away. Yet I do realize that I've aged considerably, but I do really feel younger and now weigh 155 pounds.

I taught 21 years in succession, and during that time taught three summer schools, making those three years twelve months to the year.

During the 21 years teaching I attended 12 summer schools and one of those 12 summers attended 6 weeks at the University of N. C. and one week after I got back home attended a two week teachers institute and never missed a roll call in either.

I have taught in three states. One year in Charleston County S. C., three years in Princess Anne County Va., and 17 years in dear old North Carolina.

I now hold an Elementary Life Certificate of North Carolina, and a First grade of S. C. in the year 1913 and 1914, and first grade of Va. at the time I taught there.

At summer schools I took training, and taught as follows: Ten years primary teaching, five years a one teacher school with all seven grades. Two years Principal of two teacher school and had 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th grades. Four years principal of a three teacher school and had only the 6th and 7th grades, and enjoyed all my work.

I gave up teaching for government work. I worked at the U. S. Marine Hospital six years, had charge of the Linen Department; had a nice place there and enjoyed my work there.

But the depression got me, as the personnel had to be cut and that took some from every Department. 32 lost their jobs at one time.

Now for the past three years I have been here in the Blue Ridge Mountain section, a very beautiful country, as housekeeper at the Elks National Home, Bedford, Va., and Bedford is a very wealthy and beautiful little town; population four thousand. Bedford is known as the "no tax" town, and that is correct.

This home is just as nice and beautiful as money can build, there are nine cottages here, with 426 bed rooms. Every room has running water both hot and cold, a nice large clothes closet and furnished as well as the finest hotels, not only furnished nice but nicely kept; cleaned thoroughly and clean linen every day. Every building is strictly fire proof, all modern conveniences.

Have a well furnished hospital 35 bed capacity, operating room, dressing room, X-ray and all modern machinery—one doctor—one chief nurse, two men nurses and four orderlies.

A well equipped laundry, bake shop, a two chair barber shop, dairy and herd of forty-two cows, and we raise our own meat.

The barn is a large and beautiful building with all modern conveniences and during the trustees meeting every May we have a big barn dance.

Two mails in this home every day, Sundays and all holidays the same.

Every amusement wisher for: golf course, pool rooms, card rooms, library, parlors, lodge rooms reception halls, music lobby, flower gardens, fish ponds, swimming pool, awnings and chairs all out on lawn.

In the main lobby most all assemble there at noon to get the news flashes over the loud speaker, and look on the bulletin board and we all call that place Broadway. Think of three or four hundred people in one home as one family all the time the same old faces and I see all their complaints and troubles.

I am on duty all the time, never a day off, every Saturday, Sunday and holiday just the same. It's the year around job, one week a year vacation.

I have eighteen servants to do the work, sixteen maids and two men servants; 426 bed rooms and during my spring and fall house cleaning I have to hire extra help. Washing windows and cleaning curtains. Over a thousand windows to wash and curtains. I made new curtains year before last and it took some over 24 hundred yards of material. Last year I sawed up over 750 yards of table linen into table cloths.

I have two large store rooms for my supplies. When one gets a new mattress they all want one, and the same about everything, all are old men.

As this is a National Home every state in the union is represented here, all classes, all old crippled of all kinds, blind, aged and feeble minded. Some can't find their way to their rooms, some sad sights to see. They die out very fast at times, yet the ones that are sent here are very frail when they reach here.

This is a Charity Institution, a home for the aged and infirm, and when you have all that crowd down behind you, and eighteen servants to keep working you have plenty to keep you going.

I love my nice room, work, and the mountains are beautiful, yet the dear old sea shore and level country is by far more attractive to me.

Now dear friends I was so glad to see the picture of the teachers of a quarter a century ago, it brought such pleasant memories and appreciated so much in the editor that I felt I should let him know it in this way, trusting the ones that read this will also let the editor hear from them.

In thinking of my school experience it brings pleasant memories and I very often wish to be back in the great work. So dear teachers never grow weary in well doing, with my best wishes to all.

Sincerely
E. W. Mann
