Religious services will be held at Old Fort Raleigh each Sunday at 11 A. M., conducted by outstanding leaders in different denominations. "THE LOST COLONY" Choir (Westminster School singers), will render appropriate musical numbers at each of the services.

One cannot see Lost Colony without experiencing a great inspiration and appreciation of the fact that he is an American. Its entire theme carries a spirit of religion and patriotism.

The 352nd Anniversary of the birth of English civilization in America will be fittingly celebrated at the Nation's Birthplace—at Old Fort Raleigh on Roanoke Island—the actual site where members of "THE LOST COLONY" built their homes and lived until their tragic and mysterious disappearance; where Virginia Dare was born and where the friendly Indian Chief, Manteo, was baptized.

WE WANT YOU TO KNOW ALL DARE COUNTY

When you visit Lost Colony you will then understand better why you should stay and learn the entire Dare County area. The great Cape Hatteras National Seashore region, with its lighthouses, Coast Guard Stations, and its interesting stories of shipwreck and adventure, and its helpful and hospitable people, is bringing thousands to the county each year. It is famous for its good fishing and hunting; and good hotels, boarding houses and stores serve natives and visitors well.

The Beaches of Nags Head, Kill Devil Hill and Kitty Hawk, with many new hotels assure the visitor ample comforts and excellent food. Here will be found fishing and hunting, and here may be seen the birthplace of Aviation, and many interesting things.

On the mainland will be found most excellent inland fishing. Here too are many of the section's greatest commercial fisheries. In winter, the bear and deer hunting rivals the splendid fishing in summer.

At all these places will be found good guides, for either hunters or fisherman, and splendid accommodations. You will not find a more complete place for a vacation, no matter what your inclinations may be, than will be found in the various communities of Dare County.
