HYDE COUNTY DOCTOR SERVED ON BOMBED SHIP

r. Nathan Fitts Awarded Purple Heart Bar by Navy For Service While in Danger

Dr. Nathan F. Fitts of Swan Quarter sometime ago was awarded the Purple Heart Bar in recognition of his gallant services and injuries received in action while a member of the crew of the Liberty Ship S. S. Richard Olney, operated by the Marine Transport Lines.

Dr. Fitts, a native of Rocky Mount, who first entered the Army, was later discharged, because of toxic neuritis. He then "shipped out" on the transport and at the time of the action in which he received his wounds, the ship was doing shuttle work between man bases and Salerno in the Mediterranean.

While on one of these runs in the daytime, the Richard Olney was sighted by a German plane and attacked. She was about 15 miles off the coast of Cape Bon near Bizerte, however, and after being hit by bombs and later torpedoed by a German sub, the ship finally was beached and all hands on board, including about 400 soldiers, were rescued.

When the ship was torpedoed, said Dr. Fitts, three members of the crew who were in the engine room at the time were killed and about 30 injured.

The German submarine was "run down" a few days later by British naval units and captured.

Dr. Fitts was in coastwise service in 1941 and 1942. The letter informing him of the award was sent to him by W. N. Westerland, president of the Marine Transport Lines, and read as follows:

"Dear Dr. Fitts:

"As operators of the vessel on which you suffered injury in northwest African waters on September 22, 1943, it is our privilege to present you with the Purple Heart Bar. This award is made on behalf of the United States Navy under direction of the President of the United States or injuries received in action against the enemy.

"Commander F. J. Lowry, in charge of the amphibious forces in that area, has requested that we convey to you his heartiest congratulations for a job well done.

"This decoration is one that we hope you will wear with great pride in the knowledge that you have served your country so courageously in carrying on your duties faithfully in the face of great danger. It is an evidence that you have contributed to the combined effort of the men of the American Merchant Marine in their splendid exhibition of loyalty and steadfast allegiance to the noblest traditions of our great American heritage."

In an interview with Dr. Fitts we are able to give a rather interesting account of his experiences as follows:

"I entered the Merchant Marine twice in 1941. I made one trip in July and sustained a knee injury that kept me on the beach for several months. In February of 1942 I again sailed. We lost our first merchant ship on the U. S. coast Jan. 14, 1942. Every month after that the going got tougher and tougher. Having sailed in the Navy in the last war, it was my lot to go to Texas City, Texas on a tanker, and to tell the truth, I don't mind admitting that I was plenty scared. During the latter part of March and to the 21st of April of that trip, some 30 or more tankers went down just off our coast. We passed over miles and miles of great slits of oil. It was a common occurrence to see so many poor tankers that got it. I was scared—coming back we were loaded with 105 thousand barrels of high octane gasoline. Every mile seemed to be 15 or 20 miles.

"On the morning of Feb. 15th we got five S.O.S. calls within a few minutes My cabin was close to the steering gear and all of a sudden things got very quiet. I got used to sleeping with the noise, and I presume the quietness caused me to awake. Anyhow, the "Gulf Bell," who were trailing us (she was a brand new tanker with a 16 man gun crew. We had not as much as an air rifle on the Pan Delaware) disobeyed intelligence orders and also the warning from our skipper, Captain Larson. She passed us an got it. I could tell by the wake from the propeller that our ship was circling very slowly. Our captain sent word to us to (Continued on page four)

A BUZZARD FOR A PET IN BELHAVEN

Sounds Rather Unusual, But the Bird Became Friendly With Dogs, Cats and Chickens

By W. C. Allen in the State

When anything of a strange nature is published in a newspaper or magazine, people are prone to say: "I wonder if that could possibly be true?"

In many cases they demand proof before they are willing to accept the story as a fact.

I believe that that is exactly what will happen in connection with this little story. By way of proof I wish to state that the lady who told me about it—Mrs. H. R. Way, of Belhaven—is known in that section of the state as being absolutely dependable when it comes to veracity, and other things as well.

Listen to Mrs. Way's story:

"I was visiting my son. One evening we were sitting on the porch when an ugly, awkward-looking bird walked through the gate and came up to the porch. He didn't seem to be the least bit frightened and strolled along as though he were an old friend. After getting a drink of water from the poultry water-pan, he looked around and made a closer examination of his surroundings.

"We immediately recognized the bird as a buzzard. We watched the intruder, but soon it became dark and we went into the house.

Appreciated Music

"Much to the surprise of everybody, the bird came up on the porch, sat down, and listened to the music.

"When the lights were turned out, he followed the cats and dogs out into the darkness, and the next morning he was waiting like a tramp for a hand-out.

"We put out some cornbread and a pan of clabber for the cats and dogs. The bird promptly moved forward and proceeded to get his share. By this time we became as much interested in the buzzard as he seemed to be in his surroundings."

"Each day he seemed to become stronger and less wobbly on his feet, but he never tried to fly. He would sit around demurely when he was not exploring the hen-house and nests, or the dog-house, or making frequent visits to the pan of clabber. He seemed to take a peculiar satisfaction in sitting beside the old black settling-sten.

"It wasn't long before all of our neighbors and friends were as keenly interested in 'Buzzy' as we were. He would wander through the yard, turning over pots and pans, as if he expected to find something underneath them.

"One day we caught a tub of rain-water, and the old, ugly bird jumped into it and took a bath. Apparently he enjoyed the experience very much, because he certainly took his time about it.

"He became very friendly with us. He would untie our shoes and would also jump into the car every time it came into the yard, always perching on the back of the front seat.

Helping "Lady"

"The crowning event came when we discovered the bird picking fleas from our pet collie, Lady. And, I might add that Lady, like Barkis, was willing. As a matter of fact, she was very appreciative of the service which Buzzy was rendering.

"Some time later, something occurred that proved to be Buzzy's downfall. He went out in search of the WPA lunch counter one day at a nearby camp. There he did not receive the same pleasant reception that had been accorded him at my son's home and in the immediate family. I don't know whether he was killed, whether he was chased away—and thereby got his feelings hurt—or whether he decided that his contact with human beings had been of sufficient duration.

"Anyway, that was the last we saw of him."
