Highlands Community Theatre Proudly Presents Collin Wilcox

HOSPITAL BAZAAR NEXT WEEK IS ANNUAL COMMUNITY EVENT

The Hospital Bazaar, set for next Friday and Saturday (July 26-27) in the Brown Store Building, is a once-a-year occasion made possible by the cooperative participation of most all of the community's organizations.

Under the sponsorship of the Woman's Hospital Auxiliary, churches, civic groups, merchants, and individuals have lent their combined efforts in this particular fund-raising project for the hospital over a period of several years.

Each church or other group selects the type of contribution it wishes to make. Consequently there is offered, during bazaar days, anything from a lemon meringue pie to a potted petunia, and ranging in between is a wide variety of articles that are practical and pretty, decorative and unique, and some whose imaginative originality immediately catches the shopper's fancy.

This year, one of the "fancy-catching" articles is hand-painted toilet soap. Pre-bazaar orders have kept Hospital Auxiliary "artists" working overtime to have enough left for display at the bazaar.

The Presbyterian Church will make a contribution of money this year, raised by the Women of the Church by several food sales. The Catholic Church will also make a contribution of money.

The Baptist, Methodist, and Episcopal churches will each have booths at the bazaar. Baptists will offer home-made foods for sale, Methodists will have a miscellaneous table, and Episcopalians will offer various hand-made and other articles, including a beautiful afghan.

The Satulah Club will have a "white elephant" booth (they can still use more donations of articles in this category) the Eastern Star, food. Although the Home Demonstration Club will not have a booth, the stunning dresses, coats, blouses, and skirts which will be available at the bazaar are the products of the Home Demonstration women's busy fingers last winter.

The Garden Club will have potted plants and cut flowers for sale, and the merchants booth will offer various types of items.

The Shortoff Women have contributed two twin-size hand-made quilts, that will be won by a "lucky number" holder. Chances on the two quilts, as well as on an 18-pound ham contributed by Potts SuperMarket are being sold outside the super market each day. Another beautiful quilt, made by Mrs. Robert Ramsey, is on display at Highlands Furniture Shop. Chances may be purchased there, and are going in a hurry.

There will be a special "Omnie Hirsig" booth, because of the large number of attractive articles Mrs. Hirsig has made for the bazaar.

Mr. Richard Harrison has made his contribution to the bazaar in the form of a hand-carved wooden bread tray and a magazine table, products of his well-known talents with wood.

Betty Holt, as she has done for the past few years, will sell tinned confections, with profits going to the bazaar.

The Auxiliary itself will have a variety of hand-made articles, including baby pillows, hot pad covers, felt school satchels and other items.

Dr. O. C. Skinner of Horse Cove has kindly made the posters for the bazaar this year.

Preparations for the event are already being made in the Brown Store Building.

Show windows now offer a preview of some of the things to be offered for sale.

SYMPHONY CONCERT HERE JULY 29

The Brevard Music Center Symphony and artists hold the first of two concerts scheduled here this summer on July 29th in the Highlands School auditorium.

Coming here under the auspices of the Highlands Chamber of Commerce, the well-known orchestra, under the direction of Dr. James C. Pfohl, will be a special treat to music lovers of the area.

Performances by soprano Jeanette Pecorello, tenor Eugen Tulley-Schmidt, and harpist Edward Vito will highlight the concert.

Tickets are $2 each, and are now on sale at the Chamber of Commerce office across from the bank, at the Stone Lantern Gift Shop, The Highlander newspaper office, and at other places in town.

The concert begins at 8:30 p.m.

Preaching Mission In Cashiers

The summer preaching mission at Cashiers Methodist Church will begin on Monday evening, July 29, and continue through August 1.

Services will be at 7:45 each evening, and will feature informal singing of the old favorite hymns of the faith. Special music also will be provided.

The guest preacher will be Dr. Cecil Myers, pastor of Atlanta's Grace Methodist Church. Dr. Myers' sermons were warmly received last year, and the congregation feels fortunate to have him as guest preacher.

Each evening after the service there will be an informal hour of fellowship in the educational building. All who will be invited to attend these services.

Summer Tournament Scheduled

Jim Charlesworth, Duke divinity student in charge of a college-youth recreation program in this area this summer, announced Tuesday that four basketball teams, composed of 30 boys in the Highlands - Cashiers - Sapphire area will stage a tournament with games beginning Tuesday night, July 23, at Glenville High School gym.

Games will be played each Tuesday night through August 13th, with final play on August 14. The first two games, one at 9 o'clock and one at 10:15 on the 23rd will match Highlands against the "Tourists" and Cashiers against Sapphire.

"Period Of Adjustment" Next Week To Feature Famed Local Actress And Film Star Geoffery Horne

Collin Wilcox has returned to her native Highlands, N. C., and will appear on the stage where she began her career at the age of nine, the Highlands Community Theatre, in "Period Of Adjustment" which will open July 23.

Miss Wilcox did the Williams play in London to rave reviews in the London

Times which called her "the funniest American export since Judy Holliday." She will be appearing with her husband, screen star Geoffery Horne, while they vacation here before going to California to continue in television and screen work.

The carrot-haired, green-eyed actress and her leading man commented on the Highlands theatre and the area—"Building a theatre is as important as building a post office," Collin said, "and Highlands should be fully aware of the advantage they have with the living art form that has operated here before going to television and screen work."

Geoffery Horne added that live theatre doesn't come solely out of New York. Summer stock theatres, community theatres are created out of the willingness of the people who work with them and they provide the opportunity to create in the universal sense. Horne continued, "You can't make a theatre, it must be created by the people who work with it and the people who attend."

Miss Wilcox grew up in Highlands and attended grammar school here, then attended the University of Tennessee where her father was a professor of economics. She worked with the Carousel Theatre there and then went to Goodman Memorial School of the Theatre in Chicago and Actor's Studio in New York and began appearing on television. She played in Member of The Wedding on television and continued to win recognition for her work on such programs as Dr. Kildare and The Eleventh Hour. Her first starring role on Broadway was appropriately enough, Look We've Come Through, directed by Jose Quintero of the Actor's Studio. She has appeared in several plays on and off Broadway: Crazy October with Tallulah Bankhead, The Day The Money Stopped, Season Of Choice, The Dragoon Slayer, and two other Williams plays, Camino Real and Suddenly Last Summer.

Acclaim in the big lights came after her role of Mayella in To Kill A Mocking Bird which ran at the Highlands movie theatre the week end she arrived in town. When she appeared on the stage to greet the movie audience she admitted she suffered stage fright she had seldom felt as she addressed her home town people.

It was through the Astor's Studio that she came to meet her actor husband Geoffery Horne. They were married on the stage of the Martin Beck Theatre in New York after the final performance of Strange Interlude. Collin replaced Jane Fonda in the play after she finished the Award winning To Kill A Mocking Bird in Hollywood. The Eugene O'Neill play closed on Broadway a few weeks after a highly successful run and the co-stars came to North Carolina on vacation. The cast of Intestade also starred Geraldine Page, Franckot Tone, Betty Field and Rip Torn.

Geoffery, born in Argentina, has had a very successful screen career for several years. He came to the states to study and earned a liberal arts degree at U.C.L.A. at Berkeley. He then went to New York to become an actor by studying with Lee Strasberg and Actor's Studio. He did an off-Broadway show before going into television. Full steam with the then new shows

Wildflower Lecture Scheduled

Mr. Charles Moore, of Brevard will present a koda-chrome - illustrated lecture on the vegetation of the escarpment gorges on July 25 at 8 p.m., in the Highlands Museum.

Mr. Moore is with the Duke Power Company, which owns most of the area, containing the Tomaway and Horsepasture river gorges. His position with the company has afforded him the opportunity of studying the plants of the gorges.

According to Dr. Theima Howell who made the announcement, one of the rarest finds made by Mr. Moore is a location for the filmy fern, Trichomanes Peteraki.

The lecture is open to the public. For non-members of the biological station a small admission fee is charged.

This lecture is the third in this summer's series of lectures presented each year by the Highlands Biological Station.

Dr. Howell also announced that recent arrivals at the biological station include Dr. and Mrs. Ronald H. Peterson, University of Buffalo; Dr. Walter Howatson, Washington University; and Mr. Harold H. Burdall, Jr., Cornell University.

Fund Drive Letters Out

Several hundred Hospital Fund Drive letters went into the mail this week for solicitation of funds to assure the continued operation of Highlands Community Hospital.

This will be the only appeal this year, as the customary person to person canvass of the Highlands-Cashiers area will not be made.

The Board of Trustees asks the cooperation of the communities with the hospital effort, and is hopeful that an equally good response will be made as has been made in the past by a personal campaign.

Those who would like to contribute but have not received letters may make checks payable to Highlands Community Hospital and direct to the hospital, Drawer 292, Highlands, N. C.

Auxiliary Food Sale Nets $111

The food sale held last Saturday by the Hospital Auxiliary netted the sum of $111 for the hospital bazaar fund, according to an announcement this week by Mrs. W. C. Cagy, who had charge of the sale.

"I want to thank all of those who contributed food for the sale, and the Holt family for the use of the building where it was held," Mrs. Cagy said. "It was the generosity of many people that made the success of the sale possible."

Aichel Suggests Projects

Mr. Louis Aichel of Jacksonville, Fla., and Highlands, suggested six projects as opportunities of community service in his talk to Rotarians Tuesday night.

As program speaker at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club in Hotel Edwards, Mr. Aichel listed a school band, a swimming pool, a play ground, a bowling alley, a town clean-up, and a hospital-aid project as a number of worthwhile things, any of which might be selected as an undertaking for Rotarians.

"The only way to accomplish anything is to get up on your feet and get going," Mr. Aichel advised.

Following the meeting, which was attended by 14 regular members and 18 visiting Rotarians, a Club Assembly was held for officers and directors to discuss plans for the Rotary year now beginning.

Next week the program will be given by Mr. Buzz Tennant of the Asheville Rotary Club who is a past president of Rotary International, and who organized the Highlands Club.

Announcement was made that on August 6th the local club will be visited by the District Governor, Mr. Arthur Stuford, of Hockory, N. C.

Dr. Harmon Urges Pre-School Treatment At Children's Clinic

The free children's clinic, held on the second and fourth Thursday of each month at Highlands Community Hospital has provided the examination and treatment of around 65 children of the area since it was begun early this spring. Children are reported to be responding well to treatment.

Dr. Doralea Harmon, who devotes a part of her "day off" to the clinic in her concern for children who would ordinarily not receive treatment is especially anxious that mothers who have children entering school this fall, and who have not been previously examined, bring their children in during the few remaining weeks before school starts.

Through the facilities of the clinic, Dr. Harmon has found a high incidence of anemia and parasites in the children examined, and other disorders, all of which can only be discovered by tests and examinations. Faulty vision has also been found in a number of the children.

The clinic provides polio shots and other inoculations, free vitamins and blood building medicines, and treatment for various other diseases. But it goes even further than that. The Clinic Council, made up of Dr. Harmon, Mrs. Ella B. Carter, Miss Ann Huston, and various members of the Hospital Auxiliary who are active in the clinic, are constantly seeking ways and means to assure treatment for those children who require specialized care which the clinic is not able to provide.

Mrs. Henry Whitmore, Mrs. Jack Wilcox, Mrs. John Burnette, Mrs. Frank Gardner, Miss Dolly Harrison, Mrs. Thomas Robinson, Mrs. E. E. Linn, Mrs. W. H. Cobb, Mrs. Lydia Harcombe, Mrs. Roy Phillips, Mrs. Leonard Register, Miss Betty Cole, Mrs. Alan Brown, Mrs. James Howe, and Mrs. Irving Gun-

Square Dance Festival Shaping Up

Dick Lee, heading the Chamber of Commerce committee in charge of square dance festival arrangements, announced this week that preparations are shaping up for the Chamber's biggest fund-raising event of the season.

The square dance festival this year is scheduled for the night of August 15 in the Highlands School gymnasium. There on the stage, before a seated audience, some of the best recognized square dance teams in the Southern Appalachians will compete for prizes.

Judges for the contest will be well-known names in Carolina areas including "Roaming the Mountains" John Parris, Asheville-Children staff writer; Dave Cooley, executive secretary of the Greenville (S.C.) Chamber of Commerce; Reid Wilson whose voice is a familiar one on Station WWNC, Asheville; Harold Coledge, long-time summer resident of Highlands from Atlanta, Ga., and others.

Other entertainers will also be engaged for performances.

Proceeds from the Festival will go to help finance a new brochure depicting in natural color some of the outstanding attractions of the Highlands area, to continue to interest new people in the "highest incorporated town east of the Rockies."

Car Wreck Injures 2

Mrs. Hester Keener and her three-months-old daughter, Renee, sustained severe cuts and bruises in an automobile accident on North Fourth Street Tuesday afternoon.

According to Police Chief Joe Batey, Mrs. Keener was going in the direction of Shortoff just past the Highlands Laundry when a car driven by Nedly Bryson entered a side street on her left. The car's front bumper hit the rear fender of Mrs. Keener's Volkswagen, throwing it out of control. It swerved to the left, went over an embankment and hit a light pole. Mrs. Keener and her child were hospitalized at Highlands Community Hospital.

Nedly Bryson, driving a Corvaik, was uninjured. He was charged with failure to yield right-of-way.

Meth. Supper Super-Success

Hungry Highlanders turned out in droves last Thursday night to enjoy turkey 'n' dressing or southern baked ham prepared by ladies of the Methodist Church to raise money for their varnagon fund.

In fact, attendance at the supper exceeded expectations to the extent that anxious moments were experienced

Notice To Baptist Women

On the first day of the Hospital Bazaar, July 26th, the women of the Highlands Baptist Church will have a food booth where they will

Sun Eclipse Due Saturday

A total eclipse of the sun, which will be only a partial eclipse viewed from North Carolina, is due to take place approximately between the hours of 3:47 p.m. and 5:55 p.m., on Saturday, July 20th.

Watch for it!
