THE MEDITATIONS OF THE EMPEROR MARCUS AURELIUS ANTONINUS, Translated by George Long; A Dolphin Reprint, Doubleday & Company, Inc., N. Y.; 152 pages, $4.95 (paperbound). Marcus Aurelius at the age of forty became Emperor of the Roman Empire, the last of the great line of Antonine emperors. He was educated by tutors in the usual curriculum of rhetoric and poetry, but was attracted to Stoicism, and at twenty-five he abandoned literary training to study philosophy and law. Of all the Roman Emperors, Marcus Aurelius, who lived during the second century (121-180), perhaps comes closest to the Stoic ideal of the philosopher-king. He was Emperor, warrior, administrator, reformer and moralist. After becoming Emperor, SEE NO. 1, PAGE 3
