Highlands Summer Resident Named To High Church Post

The Rt. Rev. John E. Hines, a long-time summer resident of Highlands who owns a home on Satulah Mountain, has been named to the highest post in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

The following article from a Jacksonville, Fla., newspaper gives a detailed account of his election to the office.

St. LOUIS, Oct. 17 (AP)—Rt. Rev. John Elbridge Hines, the dynamic Episcopal bishop of Texas, today was elected presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

In that office, he becomes the top administrator and chief spiritual guide of a church of 3.5 million members across the nation. His election at the denomination's triennial general convention touched off a prolonged ovation and the singing of "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

The 54-year-old prelate, a quick-minded and articulate man, is known for his powerful preaching, and his concern with contemporary social problems and the movement for Christian unity.

Asks Support

Presented to the convention following the dramatic election process behind closed locked doors, he asked the "help, support and prayers not only of every one present here, but of every one throughout the church."

Bishop Hines became the 22nd presiding bishop in the church's 180-year history and is eligible to hold the office until his retirement in 15 years.

As metropolitan of the American division of the worldwide Anglican Communion, his post is comparable in this country to that of the archbishop of Canterbury in England. He has been bishop of Texas for nine years, with headquarters in Houston.

Bishop Hines succeeds Rt. Rev. Arthur Lichtenberger, who is resigning after six years because of an illness, Parkinson's disease.

S. C. Native

Born and reared in Seneca, S. C., Bishop Hines has spent most of his ministry in the South. At a news conference following his election, he said he saw improved race relationships as one of the crucial challenges facing the church.

He also cited as prime importance a newly projected plan to align the American church in closer, working partnership with the other 18 national Anglican branches and all Christian churches. He formerly was president of the interdenominational Greater Houston Council of Churches.

A medium-built, relaxed man with a easy smile and ready wit, Bishop Hines served in St. Louis, Hannibal, Mo., Augusta, Ga., and Houston before being consecrated bishop coadjutor of Texas 16 years ago. He became bishop in 1955.

Picked on 6th Ballot

The church's 152-member House of Bishops picked him for the new post from a field of five nominees on the sixth ballot. Their decision was approved by the House of Deputies, the lay and clerical branch of the church's bicameral legislative congress.

"You're looking at a very frightened man," he told the convention and then voted his thanks for the church's confidence.

Married and the father of four sons and a daughter, Bishop Hines grew up in a large family of nine children. His father was Presbyterian, his mother Episcopalian.

In his new duties, his official residence will be at Dover House, Greenville, Conn., and at the church's national center in New York City.

Bishop Lichtenberger has resigned "at the pleasure of my successor." Which means that Bishop Hines will take over when ever he wishes. He expressed hope for continued help from Bishop Lichtenberger, who has accepted a teaching post at Episcopal Theological Seminary, Cambridge, Mass.

Tar Heels Go To Polls Next Tuesday To Elect Nation And State Leaders

School Construction Bond Issue To Be Voted On

Next Tuesday, November 3, Highlanders will have their small say in determining who will lead the nation for the next four years, as well as who will lead their own state of North Carolina.

Major figures in the election are of course President Lyndon B. Johnson, Democratic candidate for the presidency, and Republican candidate Sen. Barry Goldwater. Their running mates for the vice-presidency are Democrat Hubert Humphrey and Republican William Miller.

In North Carolina, the race for governor between Democratic candidate Dan K. Moore and Republican Robert Gavin will draw top interest. Candidates for the office of lieutenant governor are Robert W. (Bob) Scott, Democrat, and Clifford Lee Bell, Republican.

Voters will also vote on candidates for Department of State offices, for U. S. Congressmen, and for Representatives to the State Legislature.

In Highlands and Macon County, local interest centers around Republican candidate J. Horner Stockton and Democratic candidate Bill Ziegler for Representative to the N. C. General Assembly.

Of much importance in this area, also, is either the reelection of Congressman

Ray A. Taylor for another term, or the election of his opponent, Republican Clyde M. Roberts. They are candidates for the 11th District.

The School Construction Bond Issue is for providing more classroom space for North Carolina school children. Voters will say yes or no on this issue also.

In the Highlands Precinct, polls open at 6:30 Tuesday morning at City Hall.

A spokesman for the Hospital reported this week that a proposed addition of beds for long-term-patient care is under going study, and that the Hospital Board is optimistic that this will culminate in a successful expansion.

Special Services Canceled

The revival services scheduled at the First Presbyterian Church for October 25-27 were cancelled because of the unavailability of the guest minister to come as planned. A death in the church family of Rev. Corbet Cooper, Pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, which led to the scheduling of a funeral on October 26th, made it impossible for Rev. Cooper to be in Highlands to preach.

An attempt was made to reschedule the services for the period, November 1-2, but a number of conflicts made it impossible.

"We are keenly disappointed to have to give up these services," commented Pastor McCall. "Our people had been looking forward to these worship experiences with a great deal of expectation. Rev. Cooper was received with much appreciation during our revival a year ago, and we felt that his ministry among us was very meaningful."

The Men-of-the-Church supper scheduled to precede the Monday evening service was cancelled, also.

He also cited as prime importance a newly projected plan to align the American church in closer, working partnership with the other 18 national Anglican branches and all Christian churches. He formerly was president of the interdenominational Greater Houston Council of Churches.

A medium-built, relaxed man with a easy smile and ready wit, Bishop Hines served in St. Louis, Hannibal, Mo., Augusta, Ga., and Houston before being consecrated bishop coadjutor of Texas 16 years ago. He became bishop in 1955.

Firemen Snuff Burning Car

The split-second response of Highlands Volunteer Firemen last Thursday morning saved the '55 Olds 88 belonging to Charles and Peggy Zachary from going up in flames and possibly prevented the spread of fire to near-by buildings.

Firemen with their "fire Jeps" were on their way before the siren stopped blowing and arrived at Talley's Sandwich Shop, where the automobile was parked, in about two minutes.

Powdered chemicals sprayed under the hood smothered the fire quickly.

The car had begun smoking just as it was driven into the parking area by Peggy. A leak in the gas line was reported as the cause.

Methodists To Re-Roof

Members of the Highlands Methodist Church voted to install a new roof on the entire church building this fall at a congregational meeting on Wednesday night of last week.

"This is one of those things that has to be done regardless of our limited budget," a member of the Official Board said, "as further delay could well result in extensive damage to the interior from winter storms."

The roof will be applied on top of the present roof, and cost will be an approximate $1800.

Trustees were instructed to negotiate a contract with Barnes Building Improvements of Clemson, S. C., and work is expected to begin in the immediate future.

Record Attendance

Mrs. Mildred Wilson and Mrs. Sarah Crunkleton, members of the local Home Demonstration Club, have each chalked up seven years of perfect attendance at meetings of the Highlands Club.

The outstanding attendance record was announced at the Achievement Day meeting of Macon County's 20 clubs held at Iotla Baptist Church on Thursday of last week.

It was also reported that half of the members of the Highlands club had perfect attendance for the past year.

Going down from Highlands for the Achievement Day program were Mrs. Edna Bryson, Mrs. Elberta Christain, Mrs. J. D. Burnett, and the two aforementioned members.

Mrs. Bryson is first vice-president of the County Council.

Postmaster Has Word On New P.O.

Postmaster Louis Potts reported Tuesday that a letter from the Atlanta Regional Office of the U. S. Post Office Department had the following to say about the new post office in Highlands:

"As soon as the lessor submits working drawings that are acceptable to the Chief of the Engineering Branch he will be authorized to start construction. It will probably be at least 90 days before the building will be ready for occupancy."

The lessor is assumed to mean Olmson Lumber Company. Mr. Potts said, as there has been no official notice to the contrary.

Olmson Lumber Company was the successful bidder on the project, and has purchased the announced post office site from the property owner, Mrs. Jack Brockway.

Free Wheeling

By BILL CROWELL

There are two and a quarter million motor vehicles in North Carolina. And, from five to fifteen per cent of them have no business on the roads.

Accident figures on unsafe cars and trucks are hard to come by. But, there is reliable evidence from the Department of Motor Vehicles that up to one-sixth of our injury and death-dealing highway mishaps come from vehicle defects. And the total number of accidents over a year is substantial—72,000 in 1963 alone.

The case for the periodic inspection of motor vehicles has been fully documented over the years. States which have such programs consistently report one out of five vehicles defective in one way or the other. Which makes it pretty clear that the most settled and common-sense driver simply cannot afford to ignore the

Mr. Goehring has served on the Board since 1963.
