QUIPS 'N QUOTES: Sort of lost touch on local "happenings" after a long weekend away from the beloved "adopted home town". So, this week's column will be made up of quips and quotes.

Rear Clear-Vision Windows Offered

Electrically heated rear windows for de-fogging assuring clear rear vision, will be offered in some 1969 model automobiles according to the manufacturer, Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass Company.

The de-fogging capabilities are created by a grid-like pattern of very fine lines affixed to the inside surface of the glass. The lines are composed of a ceramic frit with metallic content which conducts electric current.

The grid is applied by a silk-screen technique similar to a stenciling process, and then is fire-fused onto the glass surface. The grid lines are less than 1/32 inch in width, and are spaced 1 1/8 inches apart.

"He who lives at high tension usually blows a fuse."—Harold S. May, The Florence (Ala.) Herald.

"There's nothing wrong with having nothing to say—but don't say it aloud."—Bryce Van Horn, The Fillmore (Calif.) Herald.

"A lot of people dislike television so much that they sit up half the night glaring at it."—Ray Savage, Thermopolis (Wyo.) Independent Record.

"I remember when college students would go to the administration building to be kicked out of school. But now things have changed and students go there to kick out the president."—Duane C. Griggs, The New London (Iowa) Journal.

"When the day ever comes that editors of America are muzzled then that will be the day that freedom dies."—Sid R. Harris, Times Post, Houston, Miss.

"The most highly inflammable kind of wood is the chip on the shoulder."

One way to prevent becoming overwhelmed by a mountain of small jobs is to list the day's tasks, go over them in your mind, then do them in the order of importance. Productive people even save time, and make one minute do the work of two, by doing two things at once, when possible.

GOOD TO BE BACK: It's always good to come back to our beautiful mountains after spending a few days in the flatlands. Of course we all know that "home is where the heart is", and "my heart belongs to Highlands!"

Year-Round Head Start

We have operating in our county 6 Head Start Full Year Centers: 1 in Highlands, 1 in Nantahala, 1 in Cartoogechaye, 1 in Cowee, 1 in West Franklin area and 1 in Union-Otto areas. The Union-Otto center serves 30 children, half a day-15 in the morning and 15 in the afternoon. The other centers operate with 15 to 20 children in an all day enrichment program.

Each center has a cook, a head teacher and a teacher aide. Each center encourages parent and community participation and involvement in the total program.

At this time the staff is busy doing a variety of things in an interim period... visiting families and finding new children is number one on the list. Several children will be carried over and new ones will be picked up. The children's ages range from 3 - 5. Priority is given to the 5 year olds. Our new session or school year started September 3.

Other things going on at the Centers at this time are: repairs and painting, a floor to ceiling clean-up, exchanging and obtaining supplies, program planning, moving the Union-Otto Center from the Jake Addington place to the Rainbow Skating Rink building -- with the added space inside and out it may be possible to run a full day program there for 30 children, and participating in the training program offered in Asheville, etc.

Senator Brumby States Position

A statement by Mary Faye Brumby, State Senator from the 33rd District.

Recently I was asked by a newspaper to list the most urgent needs in the district which I represent. In my answer I said that I gave top priority to better roads.

Since that time Scott Harvey, Republican nominee for Congress from the 11th District, has sought to crucify Democratic Congressman Roy A. Taylor who represents the 11th District, State Highway Chairman Joe Hunt and myself. Harvey was also asked to list the most urgent needs, and he never even mentioned the need for better roads or any other concrete program. He spoke only in generalities.

He reminds me of an arm-chair quarterback who sits on the sidelines and plays a wonderful game, but who wouldn't know what to do if put on the team.

Those who have followed my political career know that I have always worked for better roads and had them as the dominant plank in my platform. My reason for this is that I know good roads are basic to economic, industrial, educational and cultural growth.

We live in a mountainous area where the construction of a mile of road costs from six to ten times as much as in flat land. This, coupled with the fact that the region is more sparsely settled than the rest of the State has held our road program back.

The State has only the tax money collected from gasoline and licenses for road building. In addition to roads, the State must maintain the Highway Patrol System, the Driver Education Program, Wildlife Roads and Utility Roads. The State of North Carolina attempts to maintain seventy three thousand miles of roads which is more than any other State in the Union so I am told. Many states do not make any effort to maintain county roads.

I, as Cherokee County Representative in 1965, worked hard for the passage of the 300 Million Dollar Road Bond Act. After the bill passed the legislature, I returned to Cherokee County and headed the drive for these road bonds as they required the approval of the

Search For Boy Not Tragic

With the memory of little Cenda Schweers and also 15-year-old Christopher Molk-Hansen fresh in their minds, Highlanders experienced several hours of anxiety last Wednesday afternoon when it was learned that a search had begun for another lost youth. Fortunately, there was no tragic ending in this case.

As the story was told to us, Carl Turner, between 11 and 12 years old, lagged behind his companions while on a hike to Highlands Falls with two younger boys and two of the counselors from the Lee's Inn Youth Program. The rest of the group called to him and found he was climbing a rock embankment along the trail. He told them to go on (it was reported) and that he would meet them further along the trail. When he failed to show up, his companions went back to look for him but he was not to be found. They searched from around 11:30 to 1, when they called on the Forest Service for help.

Ranger James Brown dispatched several men to the area, but when they failed to find any trace of the boy by 2 p.m., Ranger Brown asked for the alarm to be sounded at Town Hall, bringing firemen and additional men to join in the search.

Meanwhile, Ranger Brown had sent for a bloodhound from Asheville, which is available through the Forest Service in any such need, and had been informed that the bloodhound and its handler were on the way.

Around 4 p.m. as several men awaited the arrival of the bloodhound near Pinkerton's Pool, a car was driven up and a very "shook up" youngster was safely turned over to Carter Talley, who brought him back to town. Mr. Talley said he did not catch the name of the persons in the car, but they said the boy had come to their home in the vicinity of Wildcat Cliffs Golf Course trying to find his way.

contracts let before the actual construction. It takes as long to do these things as it does to build the road. All these problems are compounded by the mountains, but work is going on in every county in the 33rd. Senatorial District as well as in the other counties in the Fourteenth Division of Highlands which includes ten counties in the West. To give two examples of what is being done, 18 miles of the Appalachian Corridor (four lanes) are under contract in Cherokee County at a cost of nine to ten million dollars. The sum of twenty-five million dollars is to be spent in Macon and Clay Counties; and numerous other highway projects are underway in all other counties. Later I will have a breakdown on each one.

Let me repeat, I challenge anyone to show where the road building program has left any county out, or is not doing everything possible for better roads with the money available.

New Boys Camp Nine Miles From Town

Grading and lake building have begun on some 300 acres of land in the Norton area, with plans for Swiss Chalet type units to comprise Camp Alpine For Boys.

The director of the camp will be Thomas A. McMullen of Key Biscayne, Florida and Highlands.

Mr. McMullen reports that every detail, in location of lodges, activity areas, sports' fields, the special Red Cross approved design swim lake and assembly areas have been planned by a number of experienced camp directors.

Mr. McMullen states that the location of Camp Alpine is deemed as "the most perfect setting" for a camp. It is located 9 miles northeast of Highlands in a place where the boys can view Whiteside Mountain from their lodge doors.

Lake Thorpe, called Glenville Lake by many, is only one-half mile away from the camp, and offers canoeing and water skiing.

As plans stand now, Camp Alpine will open in the summer of 1969 with modern camp facilities.

The camp will offer basic skills of individual and group athletics, nature and crafts, and rewarding trips involving hiking, horseback riding and canoeing.
