Students who expect to enter for the first time should complete their arrangements as early as possible.

The Shakespeare Club held an interesting meeting this week with Mrs. George Ward. Eleven members were present with Mrs. Allen of Petersburg and Mrs. Tappan of Arkansas as visitors.

The current events were good—a blending of pathos, humor and history. Mrs. Sprain's paper on Shylock was charming; and Mrs. Cam W. Melick read a paper on "The Merchant of Venice" which was enjoyed very greatly.

After the close of the program the social hour was given over to a discussion of Horticulture and Agriculture and "Little Gardens". Enthusiasm ran high as plants and plans were discussed by the members.

Delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

CALL COLUMBUS IF YOU WANT SERVICE

NEW YORK, May 5.—Columbus 1492 Night, that was when the sailor discovered America. But "Columbus 1492" is the number you call now in New York when you want to discover a way to serve America.

When the U. S. Junior Naval Reserve opened new headquarters at 231 West Fifty-eighth Street the boys who are being trained in merchant marine and naval affairs, at a telephone number of some 2311 use so they asked for one in memory of the first seaman to come to this country. request was quickly granted. Next the boys wanted a telephone number of some like name, and advertised for one. They got him, too. He's George Dewey West's Dressed as In Admiral, he is now distributed publicly to visitors. Join the Junior Reserve here. Over 1,000 cadets are expected at Camp Dewey this summer, and the boys of the Junior Reserve may win scholarships to that camp. Marine equipment must be doubled to take care of the crush at Camp Dewey.

Helps Farmers To Meet Present Need For Big Food Crop

Simple Jobson Method and Remarkable New Plow Being Used to do Late Plowing and Prepare Land Better for Emergency.

That the farmers of the South and Middle West are taking full advantage of the hurry up call for more food crops is perfectly apparent to the close observer. On all sides we see ground being broken for corn, potatoes and the like that was not intended for cultivation this year, and thousands of farmers are planting second crops, soy beans, turnips, late corn, etc., in answer to the appeal of American leaders and the undeniable evidence not only of enormously better prices, but also of the national need and necessity for every man to do his duty.

Late spring conditions and wet lands have added to the difficulties, but these are being met in many localities by the adoption of a newer and simpler method of preparing land that fits the demand of the hour so completely that its introduction at this time appears almost providential. We refer to the Jobson System of deep tillage and the remarkable "Common Sense" plow that turns top soil and subsoil at one and the same time, and does not bring the clay or sand up to the top to impede the land or give it the usual temporary setback in fertility at this time when we can ill afford to sacrifice a present bushel even to a future cart load.

The Jobson plow is just the thing for this late preparation of the soil, both now and throughout the summer months; for it will be a long time before it is too late to plant some kind of food to mature before late fall. This plow is simple and "Common Sense" in construction and use and can be operated without any previous experience. The cost is very small, compared to the big advantage, and it is undoubtedly something that every farmer in the United States ought to have right now.

A booklet written on this subject by Major John W. Norwood of Fulton county, Ga., is entitled "The Common Sense of Deep Plowing and Bigger Profits on the Farm." This work is being read and discussed by thousands of farmers and agriculturists all over the south. The editors of The Southern Ruralist, The Southern Cultivator, The Fancier Farmer and other leading writers and officials have approved of it heartily, and Hon. J. D. Price, former commissioner of agriculture, said of it: "I wish every farmer in my state could read it."

This booklet is now being mailed free. A request on a penny post card will bring it to you. Address: The Jobson Plow Co., Raleigh, N. C.

Jobson Agencies, established with the best and most progressive hardware and general stores everywhere, are always glad to give out literature concerning the System and to do everything they can to spread it's benefits in their communities.
