MATHIAS ERZBERGER SENDS NOTE TO PRES. CLEMENCEAU OF CONFERENCE

Asks Immediate Admission to League of Nations, Limitation Of Indemnity and that Ex-emperor Be Let Alone

Berlin, June 21.—Mathias Erzberger, mentioned as the probable head of the new German peace delegation, is reported to have sent a note to Clemenceau as President of the Peace Conference, asking whether the Allies will agree to the immediate admission of Germany to the League of Nations, consent to the limitation of Germany's indemnity to a hundred billion marks in gold, and renounce the effort to have former Emperor William surrender.

The note does not say whether Germany will sign the treaty but the inference seems clear that she will accept the treaty if these concessions are made.

YOU CAN LEARN A LOT FROM ADVERTISING

The main thing an advertiser wants to do is to tell you plainly just how and why his goods are worthy of your consideration. You can learn a great deal from that alone, because many things you see advertised are the things you buy and use in your regular daily life. By reading the advertisements, you can learn the names and read descriptions of the things that are best and most satisfactory.

But advertising teaches even more than that. All advertisers try to make their advertisements themselves valuable to you.

A good many people have learned a whole lot about good music, good books, good food, good clothes, ways to keep healthy, ways to live comfortably, ways to keep the house and grounds looking well—they have learned all these things and many other things just by reading advertisements.

Read the advertisements right along, and you will learn a great deal that will be helpful and valuable to you as you go through life.

PREPARING FOR GLORIOUS 4TH.

A telephone message from Secretary Case at Norfolk received at The Advance office at one o'clock said:

"We've got two hydroplanes from the Naval Air Station for the Elizabeth City Fourth of July celebration.

"The planes will arrive at about eleven o'clock that morning, will give exhibit flights over and about the city and land where everybody can see them well.

"We're going to have a big day."

Mr. John Long, an expert in the staging of celebrations, is in the city. He was sent here by the War Camp Community Service for the purpose of assisting the Chamber of Commerce in Elizabeth City's big fourth of July demonstration.

Mr. Long can be seen at the Chamber of Commerce offices, where he will be 'till after the celebration. Citizens of this community are invited to call and meet him.

Mr. Long, and L. D. Case, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce left for Norfolk this morning, for the purpose of securing a hydroplane as one of the attractions for the Fourth. An effort will be made to get several machines. The War Camp Community Service is co-operating.

FRATERNAL ORDERS ORGANIZING W. S. S.

Washington, D. C., June 19.—More than 1,600 lodges of fraternal orders in the Fifth Federal Reserve District have endorsed the thrift movement of the United States Treasury Department and are organizing war savings societies. These lodges, according to figures given out today by the War Loan Organization of the district have more than 136,000 members. Not only are the members joining war savings societies but the lodges are investing their treasury funds in War Savings Stamps.

In Maryland societies are being organized in some 300 lodges with a membership exceeding 34,000, among the orders represented being the Knights of Pythias, Shield of Honor, Maccabees, Red Men, Knights of the Golden Eagle, Woodmen of the World and Knights of Columbus.

Woodmen of America in Virginia are heartily co-operating in the thrift movement. The 210 lodges are organizing war savings societies among their 7,435 members, while in North Carolina nearly 700 lodges are actively supporting the campaign. Those lodges have a total membership of about 69,000; representing the Sons and Daughters of Liberty, the Independent Order of Odd Fellows and the Junior Order of United American Mechanics.

South Carolina Knights of Pythias the Red Men and the Odd Fellows are lending valuable aid. These orders have more than 300 lodges in the Palmetto State with a membership running well in excess of 12,000.

Plans are now being made by the Fifth District War Loan Organization to seek the co-operation of many other lodges. It is particularly desired to have the fraternal orders behind the savings movement for the reason that many of the most prominent and influential men in every community are lodge members and their support of the United States Treasury's campaign not only helps the government and benefits the lodges but is especially beneficial to the members of the war savings societies individually. Their example is expected to stimulate thrifty habits on the part of the rest of the population.

NEW DEPARTMENT ROAD ENGINEERING

West Raleigh, N. C., June 19.—To meet the great and growing demand for competent highway engineers in North Carolina, the State College has created a new department of highway engineering. The present demand for such a course is emphasized by the fact that all of this year's graduates in civil engineering are going into state highway work. Captain Harry Tucker, 105th Engineers, who recently returned from France, will head the new department, as associate professor of highway engineering.

This department will be a subdivision of the civil engineering department. The first three years of the course will be practically identical with that of civil engineering, but in the senior year the subjects of least importance will be omitted or abridged and the resulting time devoted to specialized courses in highway engineering. These courses are to be such that the student who specializes in highway engineering will receive a well balanced training along the lines of general civil engineering at the same time.

The prospectus of the course includes engineering geology, with special reference to materials used in masonry and highway construction; manufacture, use, and properties of lime and Portland cement; methods and coats of constructing foundations, dams, retaining walls, arches, piers, and the masonry structures of road building; study of road materials found in North Carolina; study of methods and materials used for the construction of country roads and city pavements; maintenance of roads and pavements; economics of highway location and construction; surveys, plans, and estimates for a section of country roads; study of the road laws of Europe, National road laws, and the road laws of North Carolina; taxation and methods of financing roadwork; relation of good roads to the economic and social welfare of the people; specifications, business law and the law of contracts; reconnaissance, preliminary and location survey for a section of road, which is cross-sectioned and the earthwork computed, and complete plans and estimates prepared, including a mass diagram; location of highways and special problems in highway engineering; and the testing of materials used in road building, including sand, clay, cement, and bituminous materials.

Special students, who have the proper foundation, will be permitted to take the work in highway engineering in one year, supplementing it with some of the other courses in civil engineering. This permission will be granted only to those having the proper training to form the groundwork for the special course.

WATCHWORD NOW PREPAREDNESS

Recent developments along Border Change Attitude of Watchful Waiting

(By Associated Press)

Washington, June 21.—Recent developments along the border and within Mexico, it was learned officially today, has brought radical change in the attitude of the United States toward Mexico.

CHILDREN SAVE MANY THOUSANDS

Washington, D. C., June 19.—More than 16,000 school children in the District of Columbia have joined war savings societies and are busy turning loose change into Thrift and War Savings Stamps, according to a report just filed with the War Loan Organization for the Fifth Federal Reserve District by Miss Margaret E. Whitzell, field director of the Educational Division for the District of Columbia.

More than 700 societies have been formed, and their savings invested in Thrift and War Savings Stamps exceed $13,600. This is considered an unusually fine record and lends material encouragement to the 1919 savings movement. Miss Whitzell reports that the Wilson Normal School, where the District of Columbia teachers are trained, is doing exceptionally good work in developing and furthering the thrift principles. The Minor Normal School where colored student-teachers are trained, is also making its influence felt, Miss Whitzell says.

One of the great aids to the savings plan in the lower grades of the public schools appears to be the Penny Savings Book. This is given to the pupils and for every cent saved and deposited toward the purchase of a Thrift Stamp a little picture of Benjamin Franklin is stamped in the book. In the Washington schools immediately after the books were introduced the savings in the schools practically doubled. So well is the savings program underway in the National Capital that a plan is now being worked out by which school buildings as stamp centers will be kept open during the summer.
