NEED LEAGUE OF COTTON NATIONS

Declares W. Irving Bullard Of Boston Before Cotton Conference at New Orleans

New Orleans, Oct. 15.—A League of Cotton Nations was advocated here today by W. Irving Bullard, of the Merchants National Bank of Boston, speaking to the World Cotton Conference.

Urging the necessity of a world cotton federation, Mr. Bullard declared that the world's need of harmony and understanding was no less economic than as an insurance of political peace and progress. The need cries aloud over a war-shaken world, he said, for a spirit of cooperation and mutual service in cotton.

America's task and problem, the speaker pointed out, is primarily the raising of cotton. The spinning of cotton concerns such nations as England, but the world supply of cotton, of machinery, of yarns and fabrics is a world affair. By a world federation benefits would result to both the consumer and the producer.

Although the Peace Treaty safeguards the Allies from German control of aniline dyes still the fear of German domination in the field remains and the need of a federation is here apparent, he asserted. Individual credit standings in all countries could be kept track of by a federation acting as a general servant and safeguard.

A world federation could do much to better the international handling of cotton, he continued. Better warehouses could be provided, transportation facilitated, and, by a co-ordinated system regulating the flow of cotton, warehouse receipts would be much stronger collateral.

All the continued help that science can give is needed by the cotton industry, Mr. Bullard said. By means of a federation the progress made in every country would be at the service of each one. Commercial intelligence could be raised to a higher degree of efficiency by utilizing the various consular services, departments of commerce and trade commissions.

Need of common watchfulness or defense of common interests against policies or agitations may arise at any time, the speaker concluded, and while men of the cotton world join in wanting justice and equity, there may be need to guard against economic injustice. Here, he said, is where cotton can do its part toward the federation of the world and the brotherhood of man.

IS GUIDING STAR OF COTTON GROWER

Formed Less Than A Year Ago American Cotton Association Has Done Great Work.

Raleigh, Oct. 18—The American Cotton Association is in receipt of a letter from one of the leading editors in the South, president of the largest agricultural papers in Louisiana and Mississippi. He gives a true description of the cotton situation and tells it in a way that is interesting to even those who claim to "know it all." Also he praises the American Cotton Association and compliments it upon its rapid progress. Here is what he wrote. Read it and tell it to others:

"The American Cotton Association was formed less than a year ago, but it is already becoming the guiding star of the cotton grower. It is showing him that he produces the fibre that clothes all the civilized world, a produce that all mankind must have and must take on whatever terms he names if he is prepared to enforce them. It is seeking to liberate his wife from the slavery of the cotton field, that she may make her home a happier abode for her husband and children.

"It is convincing him that the never ending toll of his children in the cotton fields without even the hope of compensation beyond a bare living should cease, and that the one room school running only five months must give way to a better education purpose, and the boys and girls on the cotton farm are entitled technical and professional training at a given age as are the sons and daughters of men engaged in any industry.

The cotton farmers are now organizing for the mutual protection of their interest and the co-operative marketing of their product. They have the financial backing and hearty support of the business men in their several communities and they are going to succeed. There is such a deep interesting human side to the cotton growing industry, which is among the aims of the Association.

Concluding this editor said: "If the organization of cotton growers does nothing more than to take the innocent children of the south from the cotton fields where they have toiled without hope of adequate reward and place them in school where they can at least secure an elementary education, it will be worth all it will cost in money and sacrifice, a thousand times over."

JOINT MEETING ST. KATHERINE'S AND LADIES' GUILDS

A joint meeting of St. Katherine's and the Ladies' guilds of Christ church was held in the rectory Tuesday afternoon. The organizations in Christ church parish are getting in line for the nation wide campaign which the Episcopal Church in America will inaugurate as soon as the General Convention at Detroit has adjourned. The two guilds undertake the canvassing of the parish for the purpose of endeavoring to place a weekly church paper in every home in the parish, and to make a personal appeal to every member of the church to attend the services faithfully and regularly.

LITTLE FELLOWS DID BIG STUNTS

And Y. Gynnasium Exhibit and Social Was Most Enjoyable Affair Friday Night

The number attending the Y. GYM. Exhibit and Social Friday night was not as large as it might have been, or should have been.

But the stay-at-homes were the only losers thereby, for those present thoroughly enjoyed the evening and forgot their years in the joy of watching the little fellows do big stunts.

It was the class of young boys that went through the paces. After their setting up exercises they turned somersaults of every known variety, including double barreled ones; they ran, they hopped, they jumped, they climbed all over Secretary Gilmore, stood on his shoulders and jumped down again. Then they played a curious sort of game blindfolded with a tin cup in one hand and a boxing glove on the other.

But chiefly it was how they did it all. The ease, the naturalness, the good nature of the boys and instructor, coupled with the skill and the exercise, were such as would be pleasing to the parents of any boy who is appreciative of the value of the co-ordination of mind and body.

Following are the names of those who took part.

Chas. Carnate, Billy Houtz, Claude Becknell, Paul Simpson, Fred Becknell, Chas. Hollowell, William Winston, Chas. Doby, Eddy Simpson, Chas. Ward, Robert Helms, Tadpole Johnson, Gilbert Doby, Ray Newby, David Spence, Joe Ferchoe, Ray Newbern, Earl Sutton, Oscar Williams, Maynard Raper.

Mr. Brewerton who is here for a short stay, representing the Burroughs Adding Machine, did real professional work on the trapeze and Secretary Gilmore did splendid action on the horizontal bar.

After the Gynnasium exhibit, the crowd enjoyed delicious hot chocolate and waters in the reception hall and library, and the general sentiment was something like "Three cheers for the Y and Secretary Gilmore," though the grownups lacked the nerve to come out with it in united chorus.

This affair is just the beginning of such.

Some night soon the Business Men's Gynnasium class is going to give an exhibit, and those who have seen their graceful attempts at practice swear that it's going to be "some show."

LEON W. MARSHALL GIVES GRAND OPERA BURLESQUE

All the Old Operas Represented in Charming Afterpiece of Show

One of the timely burlesques of the day is the take-off on grand opera, naturalized and brought down to the times with its music and comedy, presented by Leon W. Marshall's Minstrels. The Forge in the Forest, "Chimes of Normandy," "Carmen," "Minnehaha," the Oriental scene and many other musical comedy additions from a combination that is unusual in a minstrel show.

The comedy touches on prohibition, finances, peace of nations, all blended, a port-pourri of fast flowing hilarity rounding out an evening of unalloyed fun.

In all the years of the Leon W. Marshall Minstrels, nothing in the way of an afterpiece has met with the success attending this musical burlesque. The voices make it a musical gem. The comedy is equally entertaining.

FLASHED LIGHT ON COON WAS SHOT BY COMRADE

News reached here Saturday of a strange accident near Powells Point Thursday night in which Lucas Nix, a young man of twenty-four years was killed.

Nix and three comrades were out coon hunting. Nix had gone up the tree after the coon. Turning his flashlight quickly on the coon, he called out for the other boys to shoot. One of them fired and shot at the flashlight instead of at the coon and Nix was killed instantly. The shot was fired by Edward K. Eckeridge, son of R. Etheridge, a well known merchant at Newbern's Landing.

The body of the young man killed lodged in the tree and it was necessary to go for help and to saw off branches of nearby trees in order to get it down.

Nix was from Holland and had only been in America for two years. He had made many friends in the Powells Point community, and the tragedy is greatly deplored.
