Dollars saved now bear more than interest. For the time is at hand when dollars are going to increase in value. Prices have reached their peak—generally speaking.

The farmer, as The Advance knows him, puts in a good part of his time berating labor. And so The Advance can see no solid basis of common sentiment as a foundation for the so-called labor-farmer coalition in North Carolina.

We see by the papers that Superintendent Jennings is saving the County money on crayons, brooms, floor oil and other school supplies. Good work for the County Superintendent of Education!

HE WEARS WELL

Secretary Case of the Elizabeth City Chamber of Commerce spoke so well at the Bankers Meeting in Edenton Monday on "Business and the Business Man" that Elizabeth City people wanted to hear the speech, too. And so Mr. Case will deliver his address at the First Baptist, Church Sunday night. If you can arrange it, you'll want to hear him. He has a way of mixing up religion and business that is altogether wholesome and helpful. When first you hear Mr Case you are impressed immediately by the ease with which he speaks. But everafter you are impressed by the fact that he has thought out something to say on that particular subject and for that particular occasion. Consequently he has a definite message to deliver and he delivers it well. So if you've heard him before on another subject you need not be afraid that he will say the same thing. He doesn't do it.

BRILLIANT MINISTER

VICTIM OF INFLUENZA

Rev. Dudley B. Ashford, Noted Preacher and Lecturer, Well Known On Three Continents Was Ordered to Give Up Work.

Reverend Dudley B. Ashford is an extraordinary man. Although still on the sunny side of forty, he has crowded more service to humanity into a few years than most men accomplish in a life time.

Soon after his graduation from Harley College, London, England, he was ordained minister at the famous New Court Congregational church, London. A short time thereafter he was selected to present the cause of Congo Reform and African Missions before the people of Norway, and toured that land with such success that he was greeted by enormous crowds at every meeting.

In 1908, under the auspices of the Colonial Missionary Society, he was sent to New Zealand and for three years labored as a missionary among the Maoris, where his experiences were novel and thrilling.

In 1916 he returned to England and served for three years at Wood Street Congregational church, Cardiff, South Wales, the biggest Congregational church in the British Empire. It was while here that he fell one of the early victims of the great 1918 flu epidemic, an attack from which he had not fully recovered when he accepted a call to the Queen's Road Congregational church, St. John's Newfoundland, where his forceful preaching soon attracted record congregations.

The strain of this work upon his undermined constitution proved too severe and he suffered a nervous breakdown, from which now, however, he has completely recovered. Moved by a desire to serve his fellowmen he has recently written a letter that tells how he was restored to health and strength.

Moved By Gratitude

This letter, addressed to the Tanlac Co., Atlanta, Ga., is an eloquent expression of gratitude and is as follows:

"Gentlemen: Your medicine, known as 'Tanlac,' has been such an inestimable blessing to me that I feel constrained to write and tell you so. In October, 1918, while a minister of the Wood Street Congregational Church, Cardiff, South Wales, I had a severe attack of Spanish influenza, from the effects of which I never fully recovered. I lost twenty-eight pounds in weight and was unable to recover my usual energy.

"The, in February, 1919, I became the Minister of the Queen's Road Congregational church at St. John's Newfoundland. My ministry was attended with great success, but the strain proved too great for me and I had a serious breakdown. My nerves seemed to go all to pieces and my digestion became so deranged that I could eat scarcely anything. My heart gave me a lot of trouble; it was an effort to walk up stairs and at night I used to lie awake in continual dread lest my heart should stop beating altogether.

"Then as a result of exposure one winter's night in a small boat, while in the execution of my duties, I was seized with violent pain in the right shoulder and arm, which nearly drove me to distraction. I consulted doctors and specialists and underwent massage and electrical treatment, without getting much relief. I was ordered to give up all preaching and public work for at least three months and I began to fear that my health was permanently affected.

... He Had Been Skeptical ...

"I had always been rather skeptical of the testimonials concerning the merits of any medicine, but one day I read the statement of a man whose symptoms seemed to be identical with my own, and his praise of Tanlac rang so true that I decided to give it a trial myself. I bought a bottle and its effect was almost immediate. My nervous condition began to disappear and I began to sleep at night. My appetite so increased that I could scarcely satisfy it, and I found myself putting on rate rapidly. By the time I had taken the fourth bottle, the pains in my arm and shoulder disappeared and I am feeling better today than for a long time past.

"I feel that I should be guilty of base ingratitude if I did not write and tell you what a boon Tanlac has been to me, and I give you this unsolicited testimonial to use as you may think best, in the hope that others may find in your wonderful medicine the means to restored health and strength."
