QUAKE DESTROYS 21 BUILDINGS

Inglewood California, and Other Towns of That State Suffered Considerable Damage Last Night

Los Angeles, June 21—A survey of the damage from the earthquake last night indicates that Inglewood, ten miles southwest of here, suffered more severely than was first reported.

Twenty-one business buildings in Inglewood were practically destroyed; the town was deprived of lights and gas; and scores of dwellings were seriously damaged.

San Pedro, Long Beach, Santa Monica, and Venice report minor damage.

Another slight earthquake shock was felt in the Inglewood district at five o'clock this morning but no additional damage was done.

SNEAK THIEF ROBS MASTON'S STORE

The ice cream store of U. J. Maston on South Poindecker street was entered Monday afternoon about five o'clock by a sneak thief, who got away with $25.00 in quarters and half dollars, which he took from the cash drawer.

Mrs. Maston was waiting on a customer in the back part of the store, when she happened to glance toward the cash drawer and saw a strange negro creeping down with his hand in the drawer. She raised the alarm and the negro dashed out of the store and succeeded in getting away.

Police officer Twiddy, E. T. Maston, and a number of other men immediately set out for the home designated, and there found the thief, who in the meantime had gotten rid of all the cash except about $3.00 in halves and quarters.

Judge Sawyer sentenced him under the name of Lucius Cartwright, to 18 months on the county roads on the first charge, and to six months on the roads on the second.

NEGRO BOY DROWNED WHILE IN BATHING

A negro boy named George Spencer was drowned while in bathing near the coal dock at Foreman-Blades mill Monday afternoon.

Spencer was alone in the water when the accident happened. At first he was contented to swim around in the shallow water near the shore, but later not heeding the warnings of his comrades on the shore he ventured out into the deep water off the dock, and soon those on the shore heard a cry and saw the boy turn over on his back and sink.

The barge was carrying a load of 500 barrels of potatoes and the weight proved too heavy.

Spencer was about fourteen years old, and was a visitor in this city, his home being in Washington, D. C.

Rome, June 22—Serious fighting between Albanian insurgents and Italian troops near Drascovizza, is reported by an Avlona dispatch which says that the Albanians were forced to retire.

NEWBOLD-PERRY

Beautiful Wedding Solemnized at Blackwell Memorial This Afternoon

A beautiful marriage took place at Blackwell Memorial Baptist Church Tuesday afternoon at two-fifteen o'clock when Miss Ocella Dorothy Perry of this city became the bride of Mr. Henry Clay Newbold of Sanford.

The church was artistically decorated in a color scheme of white and green, carried out in ferns and potted plants, magnolias and hydrangeas.

Dr. G. W. Clarke read the marriage service, the beautiful ring ceremony being used. Miss Bessie Cobb sang "At Dawning," and Mrs. P. G. Sawyer played the wedding music.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, who gave her away. She wore a handsome traveling gown of midnight-blue tulle, with black hat and accessories, and carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and sweet peas.

Mr. A. Verne Perry, sister of the bride wore a lovely gown of flesh-colored georgette with picture hat to match, and carried an arm bouquet of yellow Killarney roses and sweet peas.

The groom's best man was his brother, Mr. James B. Newbold of Norfolk and the ushers were Mr. Herbert L. Newbold of High Point and Mr. J. Henry Newbold of Hertford.

Mrs. Newbold is the attractive daughter of Mr. J. C. Perry, a prominent business man of this city. She is a graduate of Meredith College and was for several years a teacher in the Elizabeth City High School, resigning that position to enter business as a bank keeper for C. H. Robinson & Co.

Mr. Newbold is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Newbold of this city, and was an infant cashier of the Citizens Bank prior to his entry in the service. He resigned this position in September, 1917 and was over-seer as First Sergeant of Company D, 317 Machine Gun Battalion of the 81st Division and participated in the last great drive just before the armistice was signed. Mr. Newbold is now the cashier of the Peoples Bank of Sanford. Both Mr. and Mrs. Newbold have a host of friends in this city.

Bather Drowned Near Swansboro

News was received at the Coast Guard office here Monday morning that a bather was drowned at Station 192 near Swansboro Sunday morning. His body had not been discovered when the telegram was received and the name of the unfortunate man was unknown. He was presumably one of a party from Swansboro or Beaufort who had gone over to the beach to enjoy the surf.

BARGE OF POTATOES SINKS IN CREEK

A barge belonging to M. G. Wright of this city, loaded with potatoes consigned to Brock & Scott and to C. H. Robinson sank at the mouth of Newbegun Creek Saturday morning on the way from Weeksville to this city.

The barge was carrying a load of 500 barrels of potatoes and the weight proved too heavy. Half of the boat's load was recovered Sunday and brought to the city Monday morning, their soaked condition considerably affecting the sale price.

She says she likes her American clothing a bit better than the oriental costume of her native country and she isn't homesick for the colorful kimono she once wore.

PROBLEMS STILL ARE UNSETTLED

Supreme Council Adjourns Without Finding Solution to Pressing Problems — Meets in Brussels July 6

Boulogne, June 22 (By The Associated Press)—The Supreme Council of the Allies adjourned today to meet in Brussels on July 2nd, leaving most of the questions of the program undecided.

The German reparations problem was referred to experts who will meet in Paris in an endeavor to conciliate the viewpoints of the Allies regarding the division of the sum Germany must pay.

CUBS WINNERS IN 7TH INNING

League Leaders Drop a Real Thriller By Score of Nine To Ten

In a game of ups and downs, with the Y and the Cubs alternately in the lead, the latter yesterday won by the score of ten to nine.

C. Davis pitched the entire seven innings for the Y, but was less effective than usual, while Dixon, Cooper and J. Davis consecutively served in the box for the Cubs. Many and costly errors by both teams helped to pile up the total of runs scored, while the fans present reached a higher pitch of enthusiasm than in any previous game of the season.

With nobody on first base in the Cub half of the first, it looked bad for the cellar champions when Armstrong went to second on a Cub error, and scored on another in the Y half of the first. The Cubs, however, bunched hits in the second for a couple of runs, Caddy and Perry both safe on singles, coming home on Cooper's grounder just inside the third base line. In the Y session at bat in the second, Ferrell was safe on an error, Ferrell and Perry were out on a double play, and Woodley, safe on first, scored on Roger's single tying the score.

The Cub half of the third was a very brief affair, but T. Twiddy, taking full advantage of Y errors, was able to score, putting the Cubs again temporarily ahead. The feature of the last half of the third was a particularly difficult catch of a foul near the grand stand wire by Higgins, catcher for the Cubs. In the fourth the Y added three runs, putting them ahead of the Cubs on a lone Ferrell, Rogers and C. Davis scoring on errors after Ferrell had singled to center.

With the Y in the lead in the fourth, C. Davis pulled him off out of a bad hole when with C. Johnson, Norris and Higgins on base, J. Davis and T. Twiddy were retired on easy outs. In the first half of the sixth the Cubs again went ahead of the Y when Johnson and Norris came in on Higgins' one base hit, and Higgins crossed the plate on T. Twiddy's single to right. The Y, however, outdistanced the Cubs in the last half of the sixth when Woodley singled to center, Perry to right, and C. Davis to center, the latter scoring Woodley and Perry, after which Armstrong was safe on an error, and Lowry hit out a single to center, bringing in Davis and Armstrong and giving the Y a three run lead.

When the Cubs went to bat in the seventh, they worked with the energy of desperation. Caddy commenced the drive for victory with a one base hit to right, stole second and advanced to third on a balk. Perry and J. Davis received free passes to first, filling the bases. Caddy scored on an error, and Perry and J. Davis came in on Norris' single. C. Davis came in on Norris' single. J. Davis walked, again placing three cubs on base, and Johnson stole home with the run that won the game. J. Davis held the Y scoreless in the last half of the seventh, and the game of many fluctuations came to a final close.

Government Watching Switchmen's Strike

Washington, June 22—The switchmen's strikes which began in Philadelphia and Baltimore several days ago and spread to other railroad centers are being watched by the government.

So far as is learned, however, no steps to combat the spreading of the walkouts here have been decided on. Officials rely on the recognized union heads to bring about a return of the strikers.
