And Secretary Job Seized Opportunity Advertise Albemarle District Fair

The Department of Agriculture at Washington is sending through this section a motion picture entertainment and lecturer. They are visiting each community and are, without cost, presenting to the farmer the tried and scientific side of the cultivation of the soil.

Friday night the outfit was in Shiloh, where an attendance of between four and five hundred people packed the school house to the doors with an overflow of one-fourth that number outside.

The pictures were clear, up-to-date and thoroughly enjoyable. The agricultural treatises were concise and instructive.

The one question in the mind of the lecturer seems to be, will the people make an attempt to be benefited by the instruction they are receiving from this source?

Among other things he said, "Against your will you will learn that the cotton crop is a thing of the past. The boll weevil is at your door. You cannot sidestep this fact and you may as well accept it now and prepare for it, as later."

E. S. Pickering, the lecturer, is from Texas, formerly the largest cotton state in the country. He is an experienced farmer, and fully qualified for the position he fills.

At this meeting and in behalf of the Albemarle District Fair Association, appeared R. C. Job, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, who tendered the farmer an invitation to the Fair in a very neat little speech. Among other things Mr. Job said, "Bear in mind that this is even more your Fair than it is Elizabeth City's, because it is an agricultural Fair. Have no fear of the road," he continued, "because we have the pledge of Mr. McNutt that the road shall be in passable condition by the first day of the Fair."

Cooperating with the Albemarle District Fair Association, the Chamber of Commerce is sending Secretary Job into Camden and Currituck for the next two weeks, during which time Mr. Job will address the rural audiences attending the free motion pictures exhibited at the public school houses in the two counties.

The itinerary of the free motion picture exhibits was published in this newspaper Thursday.

It is stated that the hosiery and cotton mills of the city will close for Labor Day in order to allow their employes to make this trip to the seashore and as this will be the last excursion of the year a large crowd will undoubtedly make the best of it. ## Trip To Bestcity All For Nothing

Norfolk Shipping Board Team Negotiated Camden Road Only To Arrive Too Late For Game

"We got on the wrong road and were held up behind a car that was stuck in the mud," asserted the manager of the Shipping Board baseball team of Norfolk Friday when they arrived at the West Main street baseball diamond at ten minutes past six in the evening. Significant glances were exchanged by bystanders and for a long moment there was silence. After a while, one man bolder than the rest volunteered the information that they had been on the right and only "almost" accessible road to Elizabeth City from Norfolk.

"You don't mean to tell me," exclaimed the manager, excitedly, "that we must go back to Norfolk over that same route." He was told that it was necessary that he should. His answer is unprintable. Anyone who has been on that road lately will have no trouble in formulating the answer for himself. However, that is why there was no baseball game in Elizabeth City Friday.

More than 150 fans had assembled at the baseball grounds to see the last game of the season between the Elizabeth City and Shipping Board teams. Patiently they waited from 4:45 until 6. At 5:30 it was opened by a few that it would be a good idea to procure picks, shovels and chains and repair to the ferry road with the intention of digging up the visitors. At 5:45 these enthusiastic souls had reached the conclusion that the visitors had sunk out of sight, and instead of hand tools, a steam shovel would perhaps be required. Nothing was done in this line, however, and at one minute past six, occupants of the grandstand and bleachers arose as one man and with faces depicting the keenest disappointment, they left the grounds. Five minutes afterwards, the visiting team arrived. Scared by the marks of battle and caked with the Camden county clay, they found they had no one to play with or for. The Elizabeth City team had left the grounds and its members had dispersed in their various directions homeward.

One member of the visiting team, a little muddier than the rest, if such a thing were possible, inquired "Must we come over this entire blanket, blank road and return again over the same road without a game at this end?" He was told that a game could hardly be played with no one to play with and that the Elizabeth City team could not be re-assembled for any game at that time.

"The Elizabeth City All-Stars," says Manager Snowden, "apologize to our visitors for a condition over which, apparently, no one has control and assures the world that some day it is hoped to have an entrance to the city from Camden County."

New York Journalist Has Boat Built Here

Vice President Of Tribune Now In City To Witness Speed Tests Of Craft Built By T. B. Hayman

There has just been completed here for Vernon B. Rodgers, vice president of the New York Tribune, a vessel that is an innovation in the semi-speed type.

The boat was built by T. B. Hayman, whose plant for the building of pleasure boats is one in which the city may take just pride and from which big things are expected in the future.

"Without torturing you with technical detail," Mr. Hayman said to an Advance reporter today, "I want to make the prediction that this type of boat will mark a new era in marine high speed construction."

The boat is constructed on the tunnel-stern principle, which had its birth in Elizabeth City but which is now used in almost all high speed shallow displacement boats made in this country.

Mr. Hayman, however, holds the basic patents on tunnel stern construction and speed boats built in the North embodying the principle have never achieved the finesse of lines displayed in Mr. Hayman's creations.

Mr. Rodgers, the New York newspaper man for whom the boat was built, has been in the city this week to see how the vessel measures up to his expectations in its first speed tests.

"Father And Son" A Great Success

Kiwanian Event Full Of Good Fellowship And Lots Of Fun For All

Fathers and sons and visitors packed the Southern Hotel dining room Friday evening at the Kiwanis Father and Son Banquet, which was one of the most enjoyable occasions yet pulled off by local Kiwanians.

Everybody seemed to have a son and a father. Even Cam Melick, ordinarily known as the father of four golden-haired girls, was accompanied by a handsome son dressed in the fashion of little Lord Fauntleroy. Cam introduced his son, Billie, as one of the four reasons he has for being a Kiwanian, and this charming reason quite captivated the crowd.

Another stunt pulled off by Cam Melick was a motion to excommunicate Clarence Pugh, because of many grouches and grumblings and failures to attend the meetings. Some of the banqueters began to get nervous. They thought it was real, but it turned out to be no more serious than the time when Pat Williams was searched for bootleg liquor at a Kiwanis banquet and found guilty, all in jest.

There were many other jolly stunts, and the banquet was up to the Tom Nelson standard, while the spirit of the occasion was true Kiwanian from start to finish.

President Myers made the address of welcome, speaking on "The Challenge of Youth"; Prof. S. L. Sheep spoke on "Character Building"; Dr. C. B. Williams' subject was "What I Would Like My Son to Be," while little James Stallings took the other side of the question, "What Kind of Dad I want My Dad to Be." Robert Cotter and Walter Wood made humorous talks, and the Father and Son quartet, composed of Larry Skinner, Senior and Junior, and W. W. Woodley, Senior and Junior, rendered musical selections. The singing by the crowd was led by L. E. Skinner, Sr.

What was pronounced the best speech of the evening was that of L. W. Norman of Hertford. His subject was "A Voice From Neighbors," and he spoke for the delegation from Hertford who attended the banquet.

Notice Is Being Served On The Railway Employes

Government Acts Swiftly Following Temporary Injunction Obtained Friday — B. M. Jewell, Acknowledged Leader Of The Shopmen's Strike, Cannot Be Found, However

Chicago, Sept. 2 (By The Associated Press)—The Government acted swiftly upon the heels of the injunction action yesterday in which the United States Attorney General obtained a temporary injunction which prohibits strikers from interfering in any way with the operation of the railroads.

Notice of the order and pending hearing were served upon John Scott, secretary-treasurer of the Railway Employes Department of the American Federation of Labor, but B. M. Jewell, acknowledged leader of the strike, could not be found by the deputy marshals.

Some fifty-five hundred deputy marshals throughout the country are ready to receive and serve subpoenas on local federation officers and individuals named in the suit.

Chicago, Sept. 2 (By The Associated Press)—Under restrictions placed upon them by the Federal Government by means of the most drastic and far reaching temporary injunction ever issued in an industrial crisis, railway shopmen who walked out July 1st in protest against conditions prescribed by the Labor Board, today entered upon a new era of the nationwide rail strike.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor prepared to meet September 9th. Samuel Gompers said that communications from labor organizations requesting the federation to sponsor a general strike in sympathy with the shopmen would be placed before the council "as a matter of routine business."

CARMINE IS GIVEN HANDSOME WATCH

Gift From Public Officials Of County, Token Of Esteem And Good Will

Retiring County Auditor Charles Carmine was presented with a handsome gold watch by his associates in office, the public officials of Pasquotank County, as a mark of their esteem, confidence and good will on Thursday, August 31, the day before his resignation from the office became effective.

The speech of presentation was made by Trial Justice George J. Spence, and the gift, coming as a complete surprise to Mr. Carmine, deeply affected him.

Charles Carmine assumed the duties of County Auditor of Pasquotank in 1917 totally without experience for the work. But he had the good judgment to hire efficient help until he learned the ropes and when he retired was regarded as one of the best accountants in the County. He had no opposition when he was renominated in the last Democratic primary, having by his unflinching courtesy and willingness at all times to oblige those having business at his office made himself as popular as he was efficient.

Mr. Carmine leaves Monday for Pinehurst, where he has accepted a position with Pinehurst, Incorporated. He is greatly endeared to his work here and to his town, but leaves to benefit Mrs. Carmine's health, which he hopes will greatly improve in the sandhills.

PERRY NOTES APPEAL

L. B. Perry, automobile dealer of this city, was taxed with the costs in police court Saturday for operating a private car with a dealer's license. Mr. Perry noting an appeal. More than usual interest attaches to the case, as there seems to be some confusion as to the application of the law in the matter.

Joe Ferohee, colored, sentenced some days ago to three months on the roads for larceny of a watch, was let off Saturday with a fine, when it appeared to the court that the watch had since been paid for and that there were further extenuating circumstances in the case.
