Road Body Split Still Leading Topic

Bundy Now Talks Of Reconsidering His Decision To Resign, But Re Was Sizzling When He Came Out Of Meeting Of Pasquotank Highway Commission Monday At Noon

News of the second split in the Pasquotank Highway Commission created something of a sensation in Elizabeth City Tuesday afternoon, and was still the chief topic of conversation here Wednesday morning despite the imminence of World Series baseball news.

The sensation created, however, could not vie in intensity with the acrimony of the debate that raged in the meeting itself between Foreman, Morris and Higgs on the one hand and Cohoon and Bundy on the other.

Bundy was still sizzling when he came out on the street following the adjournment of the Commission at noon. "Have further part with them in their dealings after the way they have permitted Higgs to walk off with all that railroad iron for Perquimans County without a word to any member of the Commission about it!" he exclaimed. "I couldn't think of such a thing!" However, at the insistence of friends, he says today, that he is disposed to reconsider his decision to resign.

For more than three hours the auditor's office at the court house, where the Pasquotank Road Commissioners met, was the scene on Tuesday of a comedy of errors in which scathing remarks and mutual vituperation passed the lips of Engineer T. L. Higgs and Commissioner O. L. Bundy, each shouting recriminations at the other with such gusto that those that passed the court house stopped to listen, and in listening shook their heads sadly as though regretting that what should be a body of austere men bent on the County's business was proving itself little more than a debating society from which the lid of culture and refinement had been lifted while the subject of the debate was the taxpayer's money.

The argument rising to white heat carried with it language that this paper cannot print.

When the question was asked the Board that if they conscientiously believed that Mr. Higgs could justly serve both counties, Mr. Morris, the chairman of the Board, answered, "Yes, he can," whereupon Mr. Bundy asserted that Morris was answering for himself and not for the Board, and when Morris had finished speaking, Bundy arose and said in part, "It is my opinion that Mr. Higgs cannot hold the two positions that he does hold with credit to both of them and I move that a committee composed of Meares, Cohoon and Foreman be appointed to secure a man to replace Higgs." Higgs inquired here if he, Bundy, thought this was a good time to make a change. Bundy answered, "The sooner the better." Bundy here went on to state that owing to his close proximity to the Mt. Hermon road, he has been in a position to notice the progress of the work on the road and he stated that the waste of time and money, owing to bad management of the absence of the engineer, was nothing short of appalling. He mentioned several concrete instances that had come under his observation and he was interrupted here by Mr. Higgs, who said, "It is very strange that you should wait for this late day to make an outcry about the waste that you have seen, as you say for some time past. Why did you not say anything about it when the County had money to spend and not wait until we had no money to make this statement." Mr. Higgs also stated that if the Board would trace back they would ascertain that he had resigned previous to June 6th and had been hired back by the Board again.

Mr. Bundy asked for the reading of the minutes of June 6th and the minutes stated that A. E. Jones and

This Year The Band Is Going To Perform

Challenge Is Out To Man, Woman Or Child Who Can Keep Feet Still

Strains of vibrant music are wafted inland from the river front as the J. H. Zeigler Band practices nightly for the coming Fair. Year before last this same band "blew" at the Fair; last year they "played" but this year they are going to "perform." With a repertoire of the jazziest of the latest jazzes, waltzest of the latest waltzes and the most tuneful of the latest chamber music, L. D. Waldorf, director, says: "Oh, Boy! we are going to knock 'em cold!"

The performance of the organization shows up in practice in a way to indicate the fulfillment of Waldorf's prediction, and there is a challenge already out to any man, woman or child who can keep his or her feet still when the band plays California or Yoo-hoo.

The band is small and many expressions of surprise have been heard that Elizabeth City does not have a band of more than 12 or 14 pieces.

Waldorf, a musical genius himself, has all the love for music that a genius usually has for his line. In speaking of the band that he directs, he says:

"We have not enough members to call it either a concert or a military band. All efforts that we put forth are entirely personal, through our love for the art."

"Why," he continued, "if we played as well as Sousa or Conway we'd have no place to play, because there isn't even a band stand in the town."

"However, we hold the organization together so that we may have a nucleus for a larger band when the time comes that Elizabeth City learns that the soul of man should be fed with music and that it is as necessary for his uplift and happiness to do so, as it is to feed his body with food."

"Nobody has seemed to pay much attention to man's musical nature in Elizabeth City. The time will come when this city will learn, as a majority of other cities in the country have already learned, that there is something to a man besides brain, digestive apparatus and a pocket-book and when they do learn it and begin to feed this other nature that is in reality a nature nearest the Almighty, they will have a band if they have to import one."

Hoped To Prevent Further Bloodshed

Dublin, Oct. 4 (By The Associated Press)—It was in the hope of restoring peace without further bloodshed that the Irish government offered full amnesty to all offenders who surrender arms by October 15th, says a proclamation today.

Constantinople, Oct. 4 (By The Associated Press)—Russia loomed on the horizon for the first time as likely to prove an important figure in the settlement of the Turkish problem.

Mudania negotiations have brought out the fact that Mustafa Kemal Pasha's advisers are urging him to obtain from the Allies pledges of eventual fulfillment of the conditions of the so-called National Pact, including control of the straits and modification or annulment of capitulations.

Constantinople, Oct. 4 (By The Associated Press)—Turkish Nationalists have accepted the principle of the allied note regarding the Near Eastern settlement, it was announced here today. The communique issued by General Harrington, British commander, regarding the Mudania conference, which he is attending, says the proceedings are satisfactory and that the Nationalists' representative has issued orders to troops to avoid all contact with the British.

A French official communique says "The preliminary meeting of allied generals held at Mudania ended with a draft of the protocol. Thanks to the conciliatory disposition of both sides, there was no difficulty in reaching an agreement on the majority clauses as a basis for the peace conference."

London, Oct. 4 (By The Associated Press)—An agreement has been concluded between the allied generals and Ismet Pasha, Turkish Nationalist representative, who have been in consultation at Mudania, on the question of the armistice, says an Exchange Telegraph message from Constantinople. It is expected that the protocol will be signed today.
