

Tuesday Is Election Day In North Carolina, Too

Judging From Their Actions Many People Right In Elizabeth City and Pasquotank County Have Not Realized It Yet—Republicans Are More Active Than Democrats.

Tuesday, November 7, is election day.

The foregoing statement would appear to be superfluous, with all that's been in the daily newspaper for the last month about the probable outcome in the doubtful states.

But though everybody in these parts knows it's election day in New Jersey and New York, it does seem to be true—that, judging from their actions, a great many Elizabeth City and Pasquotank County folks have not realized that it's election day in North Carolina.

As a rule in an off year, the Republicans are showing more activity than the Democrats. The only political advertising that has appeared in The Daily Advance, an uncompromisingly Democratic newspaper, has been put in it by Republicans.

Two Republican candidates who are advertising their candidacy as Republicans are C. E. Kramer, Hallet S. Ward's opponent for Congress, and J. W. Johnson, who is out against F. F. Cohoon for Representative. Johnson is said to have the active support not only of the Pasquotank Republican party but of a few prominent Democrats.

Pasquotank County is normally Democratic by an overwhelming majority and even in an off year such as this Democratic nominees should be elected by a majority not less than one thousand. However, it is manifest that such a majority can be piled up unless Democrats get out to the polls and vote.

In addition to the activity of Republicans there are other reasons why all good Democrats should go to the polls and vote this year.

In the first place, the County's prestige and influence at conventions and such political gatherings is largely determined by the size of its Democratic majority.

In the second place, North Carolina's Democratic majority, upon which depends in like manner much of the State's prestige at national party conventions, is made up of the majorities of the various counties, and Pasquotank desires to add as nearly as possible its full quota to this majority.

In the third place, results of the elections in all the states will be closely scrutinized by Republican leaders looking for signs of falling Democratic strength. Two years ago North Carolina went Democratic by the most overwhelming majority in its history. That was a Republican year; but since that time in the country as a whole there has set in an unmistakable Democratic drift. North Carolina Democrats do not wish to give comfort to the enemy this year by giving them ground to believe, through a shrinking of the Democratic majority in this State, that North Carolina has not felt the sweep of the Democratic tide.

Finally, the stronghold of North Carolina Democracy is in the East just as the West is the stronghold of North Carolina Republicans. It is upon the East, then, that Democracy is most largely depending for the size of the Democratic majority.

Claude Kitchin, in the Second District, and Alfred P. Bulwinkle in the Ninth, are the only Democratic Congressmen in the field for election or re-election without opposition.

In the Third, C. L. Abernethy is opposed by Thomas Hood.

In the Fourth, Congressman Poirer is opposed by Eugene Hester.

In the Fifth, Congressman Stedman is opposed by Mrs. Lucy B. Patterson.

In the Sixth, Homer L. Lyon is opposed by William J. McDonald.

In the Seventh, William C. Hammer is opposed by W. B. Love.

In the Eighth, Robert L. Doughton is opposed by Dr. J. Ike Campbell.

In the Tenth, Zebulon Weaver is opposed by Ralph R. Flaisher.

In addition to Congressmen, North Carolina elects this year a member of the Corporation Commission, for which the Democratic nominee is W. T. Lee, the incumbent, and an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court, for which W. J. Adams is the nominee. Mr. Lee is opposed by Charles M. Hoover and Judge Adams is opposed by W. W. Timberlake.

An amendment to the State Constitution raising the rate of pay for members of the State Legislature from four to ten dollars a day will also be voted on at this election. The present rate of pay has been in

SUNDAY WAS NOT OF BLUE VARIETY

Good Weather And Hydroplane Make Cheerful Sunday Crowds Along The Waterfront

There was nothing blue about Sunday except the sky. At least, if anybody felt that way, they didn't let the world know about it because such a mood wasn't stylish on Sunday.

The weather was perfect to begin with, so kiddies and grownups, too, wanted to stay outdoors. And then there was something to do and to see. Most people hate to just wander about without no particular goal. It doesn't seem to get them anywhere.

But Sunday afternoon the hydroplane owned by Roy French of Annapolis, Md., and Franklin O. Tompkins of Lake Charles, La., was the center of attraction. Everybody could walk down by the waterfront and see it at close range, then walk on and watch it from time to time as it flew overhead.

The fortunate ones could go up in the air, and a great many did, so many that the aviators kept busy until dark taking up passengers. Those who made the trip and who know about aviation declared that they had not seen such careful and skillful piloting anywhere and they felt as safe with Mr. French as they did on land.

SUPERIOR COURT IN SESSION HERE

Because the train, due in Elizabeth City at 6:30 a. m., did not arrive until 10 o'clock Monday morning the November term of Superior Court did not convene until 10:30.

After drawing the grand jury Judge Kerr presented his charge, a masterpiece of logic and sound advice.

The theme of Judge Kerr's address was unselfishness and he explained carefully how a community could expect to grow only under a spirit of universal unselfishness. He told them this applied to serving on the grand jury as well as to donating to a charity.

Before recess was taken the petit jury was drawn so that nothing would stand in the way of the quick dispatch of the court's business. The criminal docket is small, only 18 cases being up for trial and these involve only 12 defendants, six of the charges being against one defendant.

Following is the grand jury: J. B. Williams, foreman; F. F. Garrett, E. R. Ferrill, J. E. Evans, A. S. Mann, P. F. White, S. D. Cooper, J. C. Wood, H. A. Willey, R. M. Sawyer, H. G. Kramer, R. E. Spruill, R. R. Keaton, C. S. Armstrong, C. J. Ward, J. E. Lane, J. B. Fearing, S. W. Hastings.

What Will Women Do In This Election

Women's Vote Big Factor In Many Campaigns, Congressional, Gubernatorial And Local

Washington, Nov. 6 (By The Associated Press)—"What will the women do?" now is the question on the lips of innumerable political candidates and managers, and most of them admit that the answer will not be known until after the votes on November 7 are counted.

The "women's vote" is a big factor in many campaigns, congressional and gubernatorial as well as local in the present campaign, and veteran political leaders, of the male persuasion at least, declare it remains an unknown factor in most cases. In many campaigns the women, it is said, hold the balance of power and the election will swing as the feminine votes fall. "Dry" candidates, for the most part, are relying heavily upon feminine support while in some congested centers the "wets" are claiming a share or majority of the woman vote.

Women have secured the ballot generally so recently that the male politician, according to information here, have not yet "gotten a line" accurately on feminine action at the polls.
