WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1922

Be There

Thursday, November 9, is an important day to Elizabeth City.

This, readers of this newspaper will remember, is the day set for the public hearing at the Chamber of Commerce rooms in the Community Building on the proposal to deepen and widen Elizabeth City's harbor.

Here is a proposal of interest enough, ordinarily, it would seem, to draw to the meeting every shipper, jobber, or business man in the city, and every citizen at all interested in the development of his town.

In the light of the proposal, now pending, to establish a State inland waterway port somewhere on the Carolina coast, the hearing takes an extraordinary interest.

The Advance hopes that the meeting will be well attended.

This newspaper, indeed, urges the attendance on the meeting of every single member of the Chamber of Commerce who can possibly attend it, and the attendance as well of non members of the Chamber who may be particularly interested in the development of the city's shipping facilities.

How Long, Gentlemen?

Twelve months ago today The Advance respectfully called the City Council's attention to the fact that the ordinance committee never seemed to have done any work or to have made any formal report. The need of redrafting the city's ordinances with a view to eliminating dead letter laws, reconciling conflicting ordinances, and clearing up the confusion resulting from an endless string of amendments of which no record had been kept other than in the clerk's minute book was even then evident enough in all conscience.

The situation today seems to be precisely the same as it was a year ago, only more so.

Is it the Council's idea to pass this tangle on to the next administration?

With the election on hand, The Advance could not find a way or make one to crowd in every little item of local news that should have appeared. Truth to tell, a four page paper never is big enough for us any more.

"The best news since the Armistice," said an Advance subscriber Tuesday when he read the news of the Democratic landslide throughout the country. The Advance is hoping it will prove so indeed.

This talk of growing Republican strength in this district seems to be a case of great cry and little wool, few votes but lots of bull.

SCARLET FEVER CLOSES SCHOOLS AT HERTFORD

Hertford, Nov. 6.—By reason of the report that six cases of scarlet fever had developed in Hertford since last Friday, a special meeting of the County Board of Health and the local school board was called at nine o'clock Sunday night in Dr. G. E. Newby's office. While the Board of Health did not consider that any serious epidemic was threatening at present, they took every precaution to avert one. An order was passed to close the Hertford schools, both white and colored, for one week and drastic restrictions made relative to children under eighteen years of age going on the streets or attending the moving pictures. They have also called off the Sunday school services for next Sunday and prevented children from attending the several church services. It is expected that the matter will be in hand by next Sunday so that the schools may resume operations next week. The cases so far reported appear to be of a very mild form. Since the first of September thirteen cases have been reported to the county physician, seven of which were scattered over the county.

T. M. Grant and T. J. Nixon, Jr., returned home last Saturday from a short hunting trip to Currituck County.

URGES PAVING BODY ROAD

The necessity of the early paving of Body Road to the city limits was urged by Superintendent Sheep of the city public schools at the meeting of the Council Monday night, in view of the proposed erection of a public school building for negroes on this street.

Superintendent Sheep urged that, if the city's finance would not permit the paving of the street at this time, at least a wide sidewalk should be laid on it. Otherwise, he said, the building would be of little use in wet weather.

IN SUPERIOR COURT

Charged with having a few wives too many Riley Fagin, alias Riley Woodhouse, alias William Woodhouse, colored, was tried in Superior Court Tuesday afternoon on a charge of bigamy. Riley did not attempt to dispute the fact that he married to excess but he did show that he was otherwise a law-abiding and hard working negro. It was decided by Judge Kerr, however, that Riley's predelection for dusky females other than his own, should be curbed before Riley had injured too many trusting hearts and he was given twelve months on the road, in which to ponder on the inadvisability of attempting to attach "too many rags to one bush."

In the case of Sarah King, Willie Raymond and Mary Eason, or Mason or Brosia or whatever her name is, all colored, charged with receiving stolen goods from Joe Smith, Sarah King was let off with the costs of the case, providing she leaves Elizabeth City immediately. Willie Raymond and the other woman each received eighteen months in the State's prison at hard labor.

A large part of Tuesday afternoon's session was consumed in impaneling a jury to hear the case of Henry McCleese, who is on trial for his life, charged with first degree murder.

SWEEP 'EM IN EVENING

"Sweep your sidewalks after business closes in the evening instead of in the morning," is City Manager Ferebee's request of all down town business houses. When Mr. Ferebee appeared before the City Council Monday night and explained that the street sweeper force must operate early in the morning and that sidewalks swept after business hours resulted in refuse in the streets all day, the Council armed Mr. Ferebee's request with the authority of an ordinance.

Handy Andy says—

Hunters are most successful in bagging the game, when they take good equipment along. The best kind of a marksman cannot hope to shoot right with a poor gun or ammunition, but you'll notice that good hunters come here for their fire arms, ammunition and other hunting requirements.

Go well prepared fellows, and you'll have no disappointing tales to tell when you get back. Come in and talk over with us, the trip you are planning. We will be glad to give you some helpful points and above all, we want to show you what a fine lot of Hunters' needs we have ready now.
