FRIDAY, JANUARY 11, 1924.

This January weather is as fickle as April.

Whether the college girl is bad or not, there seems to be no doubt that she's painted, and badly painted at that, in more senses than one.

Probably all wisdom is in neither the Garner nor the Mellon tax plan. Either plan might borrow a bit from the other and be the gainer.

Weather man says we are in for more cold weather tonight and tomorrow. Better watch out for your water pipes, automobiles, geraniums and sich. It's better to be safe than sorry.

Fellow who was boy prodigy in 1909 is now making $23 a week as statistical clerk in New York City. Makes us plain dads of regular boys glad that we have no boy prodigies today.

The Advance supposes that the New Hope boy who ran into an automobile will hardly be likely to try the same trick again. He was a lucky youngster in the car he picked to run into.

Instead of having Federal prohibition agents scratching their heads the state of Louisiana ought to have the jurors who drank up the evidence in a liquor case and then brought in a verdict of acquittal scratching a rock pile with a pick.

With the new road to South Mills now open, why should not South Mills have a star mail route from Elizabeth City such as that now in operation between Elizabeth City and Weeksville? Has the Chamber of Commerce investigated the feasibility of circulating a petition in South Mills to that end?

The Advance hopes that before selection of a site for the new municipal building there will be a conference between the site committee and the newly created City Planning Commission. If we are going to make a start in the direction of new municipal buildings, the new commission was created in the nick of time.

The Advance is happy in that it is daily adding to its list of correspondents in the Albemarle counties and believes that at the present rate it will have its entire territory covered before the passing of 1924. We have been looking for these correspondents ever since this newspaper was established, but had little luck in obtaining them until we tried regular and persistent use of Advance classified advertising. We now add our own to the testimony of others who have tried them and found that these little ads produce big results.

Speaks At New Hope for Parent-Teachers

Durants Neck, Jan. 11.—Miss Catherine Albertson, field secretary of the Parent-Teachers' Association of North Carolina, came down to New Hope on January 8 and helped perfect an organization for that community. Miss Albertson delivered a thrilling address and convinced all present that the time was ripe for just such an organization as she represented.

Southern lumber producers asked for substantial general reductions because competition from the Pacific coast was becoming more and more serious.

NEWS FROM JARVISBURG

Jarvisburg, January 11.—The sportsmen were unable to gun on Monday and Tuesday as there was too much ice in the sound for the boats to get out.

W. O. Newbold, and Mr. Taylor of Washington, D. C., returned today after spending Sunday, Monday and Tuesday with Mr. Newbold's sister, Mrs. C. A. Wright.

Saturday night the ladies of the Christian church gave an entertainment at the school house. The most enjoyable feature was a cake walk and quite a number took part in it. The proceeds were for the church.

Miss Alleen Aydlett of Elizabeth City returned home Sunday after visiting friends here during the holidays.

B. F. Wright of Birmingham Ala., is here visiting his sons, the Wright Brothers.

Curtis Baum of Elizabeth City was in the city Tuesday.

Charlie McCotter and son have returned home after spending the holidays with here parents, Mr. and W. H. Gallop of this place.

Why Are Drugs Standardized?
They are standardized in order to bring about uniform therapeutic efficiency to the patient whenever required. This efficiency is most needed in the sick room—not merely in the laboratory.
What is true of drugs must be true of foods. Purity and efficiency in the can is only part of the problem—purity and efficiency in the kitchen is the true test.
The law requires that baking powder contain 12% leavening gas at the time of sale to the consumer. This measure insures uniform leavening efficiency and protects the health of the public.
In order to comply with this fixed standard for baking powder, manufacturers must produce and pack their product so as to avoid the deterioration which may result from absorption of atmospheric moisture.
Baking Powder manufacturers to avoid violation of the law, also spend thousands of dollars yearly in testing grocers' stocks and removing "spent" goods from his shelves, in spite of the fact that every possible precaution had previously been taken against deterioration.
With the exception of Texas, the pure food laws are not applied to baking powder mixed with flour at the mill and sold in bags as "Self Rising Flour." There is no penalty on the manufacturers if this fails to "self rise"—the consumer is the "goat"—he is the one that pays the penalty through indigestion and ill health that comes from eating bakings that are not properly raised. The standardization of baking powder is a protection to both the consumer and the manufacturer—who welcomes such laws and co-operates in every way possible. But!
Not so with the self rising flour manufacturer—he resents such laws and fights such legislation. Why? Because a standardization of self rising flour would require moisture-proof containers instead of cheap sacks—because low grade "clears" could no longer be sold as "fancy patent flour." It would also mean he must maintain expert chemical control such as is now maintained by baking powder manufacturers.
Calumet Baking Powder contains only such ingredients as have been officially approved by the U.S. Food Authorities.
