ANNUAL DINNER MUCH ENJOYED

Accomplishments of the Past Are Recounted and Church Loyalty Is Stressed in After Dinner Speeches.

More than 200 enjoyed the annual church dinner of the First Methodist church in the banquet hall of the church Thursday night. Several short talks were on the program and musical numbers by the orchestra and soloists were given.

The tables were attractively decorated with green carnations in bowls the shape of green Irish hats. Fayors of shamrock were found at each place and the Saint Patrick idea was carried out everywhere. A splendid turkey dinner with ice cream and cake dessert was served by the ladies.

S. B. Parker, toastmaster of the evening, Introduced the speakers and the musicians, adding much to the world waiting for them, and if they break one of my laws—and with propriety be hurled through the ether?

This is the controversial religious subject that Federal Radio Inspectors Bean will be called upon to decide Friday when a group of Chicatom Methodists, led by the Rev. Dr. C. J. Williams, appear before him to make formal protest against the six of decency and disclosures of Wilbur Clent City. The ministers contend that Vollavians and the musicians, adding much to the world waiting for them, and if they break one of my laws—and food has made these laws through me—there will be 32,000 prisoners in our jail."

There were others that would curl telegraph wire, even if they wouldn't harm the ether, so they wouldn't harm the ether, so they as utterrances go beyond all bounds of decency and decorum, while Volva—well.

the musicians, adding much to the pleasure of the evening with his own timely remarks.

J. B. Leigh, the first speaker on the subject of the annual dinner, brought out as most important the good fellowship and friendly relations engendered at these affairs. He urged that the spirit of the annual dinner be taken out into everyday life and that those present look upon their neighbors as brothers and friends helping those in need and friends helping those in need and the subject of the annual dinner be taken out into everyday life and that those present look upon their neighbors as brothers and friends helping those in need and the subject of the annual dinner be taken out into everyday life and that those present look upon their neighbors as brothers and friends helping those in need and the subject of the annual dinner be taken of the subject of the annual dinner be taken of the subject of the annual dinner between the subject of the annual dinner, brought out as most important the good fellowship and friends helping the subject of the annual dinner, brought out as most important the good fellowship and friendly relative the subject of the annual dinner, brought out as most important the good fellowship and friendly relative that the spirit of the annual dinner between the subject of the missing t friends helping those in nee bringing cheer to the afflicted. need and

A tenor solo was next rendered by Harold Foreman which was so highly enjoyed that the listeners were not satisfied with one encore and were restrained by the tonatmaster from calling the singer back for a third number.

There followed a series of one minute talks by Miles Jennings on the Sunday School, D. M. Pugh on the Prayer meetings, Mrs. S. D. Bagley on the power and benefits of prayer; and Raymond Sheely on the choir and the organ.

J. A. Hooper gave an interesting resume of the accomplishments of the school, the officers and teachers alone number 63 while the annual collections average $1,570 and the attendance each Sunday averages 425. Among the accomplishments of the Sunday School according to the speaker, have been the establishment of the Friday night moving pictures and the library. All this money is being spent and all this work done by the Sunday School teachers and officers without pay for the benefit of the church in the next generation, Mr. Hooper declared. There is no other would be forced, in a short time, to close its doors. Mr. Hooper alone Market them. Here are some of the things said:

"All young people who live elsewhere than Zion City are headed for world today. Why, if I saw a young maker than Zion City are headed for world today. Why, if I saw a young make the chair of the girl he was sitting with at my church, I would them out the door."

"There is too much petting in the world today. Why, if I saw a young maker than Zion City are headed for world today. Why, if I saw a young maker than Zion City are headed for world today. A saxophone solo by Roscoe Foreman, Jr., and a violin duet by Bobby Fearing and Joseph Kramer were next on the program. Mrs. Wesley Foreman accompanied both on the plano and encores were evidence of the enjoyment of every one present. Church loyalty was the theme of a talk by Roscoe Foreman who announced that it had been decided to pay the balance due on the church organ immediately. The organ cost $10,000 he said and when $800 allowed on the old organ is subtracted the interest on the remainder amounts to $552 a year. It was suggested by the speaker that the entire amounts to $552 a year. It was suggested by the speaker that the entire amount he subscribed and paid by March 20 and that the fund in the treasury for interest be used in another way. Mr. Foreman mentioned the fact that more members should attend church and urged that they do so as an evidence of their church loyalty.

Benson Ferebee, a member of Ghent Methodist Church, Norfolk, a visitor at the meeting, was intro-duced as "a resident of one of the thriving suburbs of Elizabeth City." He responded with a very interest-ing talk complimenting the gather-ing on its spirit and illustrating his remarks with a number of anec-

The dinner meeting was opened by an invocation by Rev. C. B. Culbreth, presiding elder of the district, and was closed by singing one verse of 'Blest Be The Tie That Binds' and the benediction of Rev. N. H. D. Wilson, paster of the church.
