Mothers Club Meets

Ten little healthy babies were weighed at the weekly meeting of the Mother's Club Wednesday afternoon and all but one showed gain. Making cookies was interestingly demonstrated by Miss Marcie Albertson, who made enough to serve with hot chocolate to the club members and visitors. The sick committee reported 11 visits made during the week and a dollar was collected for current expenses. The meeting was closed with a reading from the scriptures and with prayer. The visitors were Mesdames Ben Goodwin, S. C. Newbold, Maggie Blount, Blanche Lamb, L. E. Thorpe and R. T. Venters.

Alathea Class Meets

The Alathea Class of the First Baptist Sunday School held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday evening in one of the parlors of the church. After the devotional exercises and business meeting, delicious refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Ida Steger and Mrs. Martha Harrison. Those present were: Mesdames S. E. Leigh, Ida Steger, S. B. Jackson, J. J. White, J. H. LeRoy, Martha Harrison, Claudia Lamb, A. D. Bray, S. B. Harris, Anna Lewis, E. W. Cherry, C. H. Jennings, W. H. Hedrick, Miss Eliza Pritchard and Dr. Samuel H. Templeman.

Younger Set Dance

The younger set enjoyed a delightful dance Thursday evening from 9 to 2 in the Robinson Hall. Music was furnished by Slick's orchestra and the decorations were suggestive of St. Patrick's Day.

Hessler-Forbes

Mrs. Polly Forbes and Mr. Griffin E. Hessler both of Portsmouth were married Thursday by Rev. F. H. Scattergood at his home on Ellicott street. Mr. and Mrs. Hessler are spending several days in this city on their honeymoon.

RIVERSIDE B. Y. P. U.

HELPS THE ARMENIANS
The B. Y. P. U. of Riverside Baptist church has raised $25 for Armenian relief. Has your B. Y. P. U. done this? We invite the public to visit our B. Y. P. U. each Sunday evening at 7:30, for we believe we have a real organization."

"I Don't Want to Go Back!"

Olga Yosipovitch, pretty Serbian girl, was sent to this country by the Serbian International Educational Association to gain knowledge and then return and do welfare work. But she married a professor of Yale University while here and now, of course, doesn't want to return.

Fashion News Notes

Copyright, 1924, by The Advance

Paris, March 7--The veil is the chief part of many a little hat these times. A crown tulle veil of voluminous proportions, trimmed with a wide band of nasturtium velvet, adorns one hat of tan horsehair.

Paris, March 7--There is a vogue just now for short necklaces. The beads are as big as marbles; indeed some of them are as big as robin's eggs, in variety of colors, sometimes strung without definite pattern.

London, March 7-- Negligees are more and more sumptuous. One, in old rose satin, seen here today has a cape and ruffles in alternate bands of knife plaited turquoise chiffon and orchid silk lace. Its edges are rimmed with old rose marabout.

London, March 7--A new type of bracelet on display here is a thick arc of onyx or jade, with gold filigree patterns all over it, and delicate strings of onyx or jade beads hanging about six inches.

New York, March 7--Long, pointed streamers of gauze, fastened to the under side of a wide cuff, decorate one afternoon gown observed here today. The streamers are in different spring like shades, the frock being green crepe.
