

It's Almost a Habit Now

Honest, this picture is of the LAST spill taken by the Prince of Wales. Such pictures are getting so common we thought you might think this one of the old ones. Notice the blood on his face. This time his horse, "Little Favourite," kicked him just above the beizer as he rolled over. All of which happened in the army point-to-point at Abbotsford, England.

N. C. LEADS IN ACTIVE SPINDLES

Massachusetts Has Greatest Number - But on Basis of Spindle Hours Run Yields to Carolina.

Raleigh, April 3—North Carolina passed all states in the Union in the number of active spindles hours for the month of February, according to a statement issued here tonight by Frank Parker, agricultural statistician of the State. This distinction—according to Mr. Parker's statement—came after the State had been recognized as having the greatest number of cotton mills and the largest yield of lint cotton per acre of the primary cotton states. In obtaining a record of the greatest activity of the spindles the State in February passed Massachusetts and South Carolina.

"Massachusetts has long been recognized as having the largest number of cotton spindles," read the statement issued by the State statistician. "These amount to 11,980,580 in place March 1, 1924, while North Carolina had but 5,723,041. While practically all of North Carolina's were active only 8,708,160 were active during February in Massachusetts. The average active spindle hours in February showed 277 for South Carolina, 266 for North Carolina and 122 hours per spindle for Massachusetts. This gives North Carolina 1,520,824,733 total active spindle hours for February while Massachusetts had a total of 1,459,283,256 hours and South Carolina 1,436,633,830 hours. These three states distinctly lead all others in active spindles.

"The total for the United States shows that the active spindles during February were less than for many months and considerably less than February a year ago. There are 1,288 cotton mills in the United States. North Carolina has 383 of this number. The State also has 142 knitting mills, 3 cordage mills, 3 silk mills and 7 woolen mills.

Interest by northern mill manufacturers in the Southern territory is distinctly active and it is known that the increase in the number of spindles in the South is far more rapid than it is in the New England states. That this is well based is also true of the fact that in Massachusetts the average hour per spindle is less than half of what it is in North Carolina; also that far more spindles are idle in the northern territory than in the South. In fact the cotton growing states have less than 90 per cent of the number of spindles that the New England states have. The active spindles during February showed the South with ten per cent more than in the North. The average hour per spindle in the South was 262, while in New England it was only 136."

TENTILE TRADE DULL - Fall River, Mass., April 3—(By The Consolidated Press)—The sales of cotton goods last week totalled only 49,000 pieces, compared with 300,000 normal. The closing of several Rhode Island mills has intensified the textile depression felt in New England.

SHATTERED NERVES

Lady Says She Was In a Desperate Condition, But "Now In Splendid Health" After Taking Cardui.

Dale, Ind.—"About three years ago," says Mrs. Flora Roberts, of this place, "I had the 'flu,' which left me in a desperate condition. I had a bad cough. I went down in weight to little over one hundred pounds. I took different medicines—did everything, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I hurt so badly in the chest at times I would have to go to the door to get my breath.

"I would have the headache and ... was so weak I felt like I would just have to sink down and stay there. "My nerves were shattered. I looked for something awful to happen—I would tremble and shake at a noise. "My mother said, 'Do try Cardui,' and my husband insisted till I began its use. I used two bottles of Cardui ... and noted a big improvement in my condition. I kept up the Cardui and weigh 180 pounds. I am now in splendid health—sure am a firm believer in Cardui, for I'm satisfied it did the work."

After a weakening illness a tonic is needed to help regain lost strength. Many thousands of women have found Cardui exactly what they needed for this purpose. It may be just what you need. Try it. All druggists'.
