Handkerchief Travels Back Hundred And Fifty Years

No Longer Article of Utility But of Adornment as It Was in the Days of the Fourteenth Louis of France When a Wave of the Mouchoir Sent Ladies to the Guillotine

New York, June 23—The handkerchief has traveled back 150 years. It is no longer an article of utility. It has become an article of adornment as it was in the day of the 14th Louis of France when a wave of the mouchoir sent ladies to the guillotine or the guillotine or rescued them from oblivion.

Summer has leaped in so suddenly that thousands of women have been caught unawares, and all last week girls were exchanging their spring cocoons for the healthy garb of summer. Chief features of the change have been the handkerchiefs. The summer girl of 1924 is adorned with handkerchiefs without restraint. They make lavish splashes of color on white costumes.

Her hat of Milan or bangkok straw has one or even two handkerchiefs of brilliant coloring woven around the brim or hanging from the edge. Another handkerchief she twines about her neck while a fourth is utilized as a sash about her waist.

She ties a colorful handkerchief around her waist to hide, and hold her powder puff and lipstick and mirror while her mascot doll, which has grown since last year, has a colored handkerchief around its neck also. Some sport dresses are trimmed with panels of handkerchiefs in squares.

And whisper. Her lingerie is as likely as not to be composed almost entirely of the linen handkerchiefs which match so beautifully the color schemes of her outer garments. Steps of butterfly design are far from uncommon and the more staid and conservative undergarments of rayon or chiffon are being replaced by fanciful linens of extraordinary designs combining beasts and birds of wood and stream never seen outside a nightmare or Ben Ali Hagen stage setting.

Lace has accompanied this fashion and has once more returned to popularity owing chiefly to the royal reception at the Court of St. James where the presentation of American princesses of wealth has established a renewed influence on the fashions of the world.

At the moment knitted clothes hold the attention of every well dressed woman. She has a dozen charming new styles from which she may select both in silk, rayon (as near silk as called) or silk and wool. Dark green with a knitted scarf of charreusse forms a charming combination exploited by one leader of what Ward McAllister would have called the four hundred.

Flowers form the basis of most of the designs of these knitted frocks, which carry with them the slip-ons which no American woman seems able to abandon. Most of the sweaters, however, are closed only at the extreme edge of the hip line although most have a contrasting middle which serves to remove even the most common place from mediocrity.

The designs provide a soft turnover collar which has been found suited to nearly every profile.

PLAN TOUR OF CAROLINA AND EASTERN TENNESSEE

Gastonia, June 23.—Efforts are being made to complete the party of 125 members of the Gastonia Chamber of Commerce to go on a boosters tour through the cities of Western North Carolina and Eastern Tennessee. It has been announced at the Chamber of Commerce here by Ben Douglas, chairman of the committee of conventions. The trip will last three days beginning on July 8 and continuing through July 10. The main cities to be visited are Knoxville, and Johnson City, Tennessee. The publishing plants at Kingsport will also be visited.

Johnson City a delegation to this city last year on a similar trip and it was said that they were favorably impressed with the outlook for the development of large business through closer relations with this section of the State. The resources of Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina, it was said, are such that would be most profitable for the closest of commercial relations.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Traenkle of Youngston, Ohio, motored to this city and are the guests of Mrs. Traenkle's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hedrick, 548 Cedar street.

FASHION NEWS NOTES

London, June 23—Pearls are much again in fashion. Though the earring is not worn nowadays except on formal occasions, the pearl drop is a favorite at these times. Pearls and aquamarines are often combined.

New York, June 23.—Though some women have gone back to the side saddle, and the riding skirt, white linen breeches and a sleeveless coat of brilliant flannel are still the popular riding costume today.

New York, June 23—Though the wide hat laden with chiffon, flowers, and fruit is still smart for warm weather, there is no diminution in the smartness of the smaller taffared hat. One of these shown here today in brown straw has a high, rounded crown of brown taffeta, with a severely tailored taffeta morning glory in brown, along outside of the brim.

New York, June 23—Roman stripes have invaded the glove counter. There are fetching gloves of beige silk with a long gauntlet striped in shades and sand brown. There are also black or white gloves with gauntlets striped in blue, red, green and yellow.

Mrs. D. S. Munden and little daughter, Carolyn, are spending a few days with Mrs. Munden's sister, Mrs. S. W. Hastings, at Portsmouth, Virginia.

NEEDN'T TRY ELSEWHERE IF CAN'T LIVE IN CURRITUCK

"Land that I have in potatoes would ordinarily yield 700 barrels. This year it looks as though I might get 1200 barrels."

So said former Sheriff R. L. Griggs of Harbinger, Currituck County, Saturday while in the city by way of illustration of a statement that he had just made to the effect that never had Currituck seen such a yield of potatoes as is being dug this week.

"Give us labor and transportation and our section of Currituck would be one of the richest farm areas in the State. Mr. Griggs went on to say. "With our fertile land bounded by the Albemarle Sound on one side and Currituck Sound on the other, the man who can't make a living in lower Currituck even as it is needn't try to do it anywhere else."

Has Dash

An enormous bow and long ends of black satin ribbon add a certain dash to what would regularly be only a very simple frock of black chiffon, embroidered in white. It is worn over a sheath slip of black satin and there is no extra fullness, or trimming to mar the silhouette Paris approves of so thoroughly. Almost any straightline frock can be given a festive touch by the clever use of a sash or a bow, and the ribbons of this season are so beautiful in themselves that they can make any costume.

You can get the most food value out of wheat by eating bakings that are made from good plain flour. A dependable baking powder must be employed or you do not get the full nutritious value of the wheat—nor will your bakings be as palatable and easily digested.

The same results cannot be had if you use Self Rising Flours, which are improperly packed in porous sacks or bags, thus allowing absorption of moisture from the air. Food authorities and physicians agree that bakings that do not raise properly are bad for health. Such foods are hard to digest and in time cause stomach trouble.

Mothers who are interested in the proper growth and health of their children (and all mothers are) should never use anything but a good brand of plain flour and a time-tested leavener such as Calumet—the economy Baking Powder.

Calumet has more than the ordinary leavening strength. It raises every baking to its height of nutritious value. It is pure and dependable—do not look for a substitute—there is none.

Use Calumet and be positive of wholesome nutritious and economical foods.
