

SENATORS EVEN UP WORLD SERIES

Senators	0	0	3	0	2	0	0	2	0	7	13	3
Giants	1	0	0	0	1	0	1	0	1	4	6	1

Harris Keeps Pledge to Fans

Polo Grounds, Oct. 7.—When Buck Harris left the National Capital he promised the Washington fans that they should have another chance to witness the season's annual classic.

He made good on that promise today by defeating the New York Giants in the fourth game of the series 7 to 4 and evening up the series. The series now stands two to two, and even though the Giants should take tomorrow's game, the series would have to be played out in Washington.

A home run by Goslin in the third inning with two on bases, when the Giants had not away to a one-run lead in the first frame, started the Washingtons on the highway to victory. New York never got in sight of victory after that frame, for the Senator added two more tallies in the fifth before the Giants got their second run, and piling on upon Pellion, added two more in the eighth before New York scored its third and its final tally.

New York used three pitchers in a vain effort to stay the march of the victorious Senators, Baldwin replacing Barnes in the sixth and Dean replacing Baldwin in the eighth.

Mogridge went to the showers when he grew wild in the eighth. He was completely filled before noon, while the upper stands were rapidly absorbing their human cargoes.

Bucky Harris, youthful manager of the Washington Senators, sent his leading portlander, George Mogridge, to the mound to turn the tide of the World Series battle which stood before today's game, two games to one for the Giants.

New York's veteran leader, John J. McGraw, rolled on Virgil Barnes to pitch the National League to another victory.

The lineup follows:

Umpires—Quigley, at home plate; Conroy, first base; Klein, second base; Dineen, third base.
Batteries: Mogridge, Marberry and Ruel for Washington; Barnes, Baldwin, Dean and Gowdy for New York.

MAYOR MORE THAN EVER IS CONVINCED

Bills Coming in for Legal Battles Confirm His Opinion Monday

"I feel more strongly than ever that we did the right thing in ending litigation and coming to terms with the utility corporations," said Mayor W. Ben Goodwin Monday night when the City Council in regular session found among the monthly bills one from each of the two legal firms representing the city in this litigation representing an aggregate in round numbers of $15,000.

"Aren't you about ready to change your vote?" the Mayor inquired of Councilman Foreman, who occupied a seat immediately to the Mayor's right. Mr. Foreman was one of the three voting last week against the $70,000 bill which is now before the utility corporations.

Councilman Gordon recited the fact that the law firms had been retained without any stipulation as to fee and that the bill would have to be paid. To get it before the Council somebody moved to pay the bill and the motion was seconded. On vote, however, this motion was lost. Then came a motion to ask the chairman of the finance committee, Councilman Gordon, to represent to the law firms that the Council considered the bills excessive and to ask if they could not agree to reduce them to some extent at least. Mr. Gordon was not keen for the job but it was thrust upon him.

The law firms representing the city in this litigation have been Thompson & Wilson and McMillan & LeRoy. Their first bill was rendered June 1923, when, at the termination in the city's favor of the first action instituted, they asked for $1,500 each. At that time the firms had been in the employ of the city for a year and the matter had been in the courts since December 15. On this basis the Council found the bills rendered last night fully twice as large as members had expected.

Ham Here And Will Preach His First Sermon Tonight

Evangelist M. F. Ham is in the city and will preach his first sermon tonight.

"Do as the people did at Henderson and fill this tabernacle the first night that he is here," W. J. Ramsay said Monday night at the close of his sermon, when he announced that a telegram had been received from Mr. Ham stating that he would arrive in Elizabeth City on the evening train from Norfolk.

"Before this meeting is closed," Mr. Ramsay said, "people will be standing in every available spot inside this building, people will stand on the outside and listen, people will climb to the top of this tabernacle and peep in through those windows to hear Evangelist M. F. Ham as he preaches the everlasting Gospel of Jesus Christ."

MRS. BICKETT IS WELFARE OFFICER

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Mrs. Thomas Bickett, widow of Governor Bickett, was yesterday appointed superintendent of public welfare in Wake county.

WAYNE COUNTY IS FLOOD SUFFERER

Goldsboro, Oct. 7.—The waters of the Neuse and Little Rivers pooling have left damage estimated at half a million in Wayne county to crops, roads and railroads.

WILMINGTON FIRE DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Wilmington, Oct. 7.—Fire here early today caused damage of $25,000 to an auto place, a restaurant and a store.

BANK OF MANTON CLOSES ITS DOORS

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Following a run on the Bank of Manton yesterday, the bank was closed.

Coolidge Seems Have Edge On LaFollette In Nebraska

Chance Democrats to Win Depends on Strength of Tide of German Votes to LaFollette but Signs of Such a Drift Not Encouraging

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 6.—President Coolidge has the edge in Nebraska. This will be disputed most vigorously at the moment by the LaFollette forces, who feel, not without some foundation, that they have an even chance to win; but the factors which make a Coolidge victory probable are calculable, and here they are:

First, Senator Norris, who like Senator LaFollette, voted against American entry into the war and who is just as much a member of the insurgent group as is Brookhart of Iowa, is not attacking Coolidge.

It is true that he is not out campaigning for the President but just the same a true rivalry between him and the regulars to such an extent that the Republican management is perfectly content with the status quo. Senator Howell, who has a following among the regulars, is openly campaigning for LaFollette.

Second, the regular Republican vote in 1920 was 217,108 and the Democratic total was 119,000. Coolidge could afford to lose 40 per cent of the Harding vote which would give him a total of 118,190 votes and still carry the state, because if this election were held to LaFollette, nearly 25,000 votes, and if the third party candidate also draws 10 per cent of the Democratic vote of 1920, the total would be 158,142. This would mean a plurality for LaFollette of less than 2,000 votes.

The result may be an edge as that here, but is more likely to be a 15,000 plurality.

Now, with the foregoing figures as a basis, no Democratic leader with whom the writer talked would admit for a moment that it would be a close thing. The vote of 1920 would go to LaFollette. On the contrary, the presence of Governor Bryan on the national ticket is confidently expected to hold the Democratic vote if indeed no gains are made.

No Republican with whom the writer talked privately conceded a 40 per cent loss and many well informed men were canvassed in Lincoln as well as Omaha, who honestly tried to assess the situation.

The big uncertain factor in Nebraska, of course, is the German vote. If all the men with whom this correspondent discussed the problem could have agreed on one essential fact, namely: How did the Germans vote before the war, the issue arose, then there would be no difficulty in coming to a conclusion on what is going to happen.

The Republicans who believe the German vote has always been Democratic because the Germans used to be "wet," and most of the Germans voted "wet," are not worrying about the drift of the German vote to LaFollette.

The Democrats who insist that Germans have recently been Republicans think the loss to Coolidge will be so great when the Germans vote for LaFollette that Davis will come to the front with a small plurality and capture Nebraska's electoral vote.

Parade Starts Crowds In Direction District Fair

Gets Off in Fine Style With Mounted Marshals, Higgins' Band, Coast Guard, Fire Department, and Quite a Variety of Attractive Floats

The District Fair parade got off Tuesday morning practically on time and in fine style. No parade in recent years if ever has ever moved so smoothly down the streets and held together as an entire unit as completely.

The parade was led by the following mounted marshals: Chief Henry Letroy, Jr., Edward W. Wathery, Curtis Baum, Graham Bell, William Dawson, William Guther, Leslie Belanga, John Selby, Hubert Toy, Jr., John Bell, Evans Blades, Emmett Winston of Hertford, Worth Gard of Comstock, Robert Collier, Andrew McLean, Marion Love, and Miles Clark.

Next came three decorated automobiles, the first carrying the city officials, Mayor W. Ben Goodwin, Chief of Police Gregory, and City Manager John Bray. The second was the officers of the Albemarle District Fair, President N. Howard Smith, Vice Presidents J. W. Foreman and J. T. McCabe, Treasurer W. P. Duff, Secretaries Grover Falls and Dr. H. E. Nixon.

Following came Uncle Sam's sailors from the revenue cutter of the Coast Guard, the band of the Higgins Band then swung into line, its members gaily attired in white flannel trousers and red coats, playing a merry tune that put the Fair spirit into the line of march and bystanders as well.

Next came the life saving boat used in the rescue of the crew of the tanker Mirlo, manned with courageous Coast Guard men.

MACDONALD GIVES FARTIES WARNING

London, Oct. 7.—Prime Minister MacDonald addressing the annual conference of the Labor party today confirmed the overcast indications that the government purposes resisting both the vote of censure advanced by Conservatives and the Liberal amendment proposing an inquiry into circumstances under which seditious charges against a Communist editor recently were abandoned.

MacDonald indicated that the government would not shrink from dissolution and election if put to the test and declared the responsibility for an election would not be the Labor party's.

HIGGER POLICE FORCE NEED, SAYS GREGORY

The "monstrous dissatisfaction" with the work of the Elizabeth City police department in the matter of law enforcement, especially as related to prohibition, burst into flame Monday night when Councilman P. C. Colborn, who at the last regular meeting directed the attention of the Council to the relatively few brought before the court, called for re-organization of the police department.

Mr. Colborn, when asked to state what he meant by reorganization, expressed the opinion that liquor is being sold more freely, more openly, and more flagrantly in Elizabeth City than ever before and that something must be done to cope with the evil. He was willing to give Chief Gregory a chance with a bigger police force, if necessary; but, that failing, he wanted a new chief of police.

The matter was referred to the police committee after Chief Gregory said that he was hampered by not having a sufficient force to adequately police the town.

"I need five or six more men," said the chief. The police force and the committee will meet at an early date to thresh things out.

Mayor Goodwin's action in employing detectives to aid the police, at a cost of $18.00, which ended in a fiasco when the fact that the detectives were here leaked out immediately upon their arrival, was approved by the Council in its special session of last Wednesday.

FINED $75 AND COSTS

Ernest Morse, Perquimans County, before Trial Justice Spence, Tuesday on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and assault with deadly weapon, was defendant in the most serious case of the day's session of the recorder's court. He was found guilty of carrying a concealed weapon and of simple assault, and was fined $50 and costs on the former and $25 and costs on the latter charge.

Of even more interest was the case against Winifred Owens, charged, for an offense committed a year ago, with carrying a concealed weapon and with larceny of a pistol. The defendant left town before he could be brought into court to answer these charges, and the evidence disclosed that he has since made good in the Coast Guard. Trial Justice Spence, accordingly, finding him guilty of trespass instead of larceny, let him off with a fine of $15 and costs on the trespass charge, and with $5 and costs on the simple drunk charge.

Bernie White for speeding at the crossing of intersecting highways was let off with the costs. Stanley Perkins on a simple drunk charge was fined $5 and costs.

Hornes Gregory, an old offender, was fined $5 and costs for exceeding the speed limit at the crossing of intersecting highways. Braxton Barber, colored, generally known as Rabbit, was let off with costs for the same offense.

and there was every indication for the best Fair ever held in the district.
