After being beaten by her husband and told her 21-month-old daughter would be taken from her, Mrs. Lucille Haack, 29 Uniontown, Pa., drank poison and gave it to her child. The mother denies she forced her little daughter to drink the poison. She says the child drank it after saying she would rather die than be taken from her mother. The child died, but Mrs. Haack survived and will be tried for the baby's murder.

Thrill Killers Thriving On Their Life In Prison

Loeb and Leopold After Year of Confinement Show No Strain of Punishment and No Signs of Mental Breakdown Which Psychiatrists Predicted

By OWEN L. SCOTT
(Copyright, 1925, by The Advance)
Chicago, Sept. 14.—One year of prison and Loeb and Leopold, thrill killers already find themselves in a favored position. When those precious and pampered slayers of young Bobby Franks were spared from hanging and sent instead to prison for life, there were those who thought confinement of the youth would prove as severe an example as imposition of the death penalty would have done.

But it begins to appear that from Virginia Beach, where she spent a few weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. J. Trafton, at the Atlantic Cottage.
Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Woodley, Sr., and daughter, Miss Esther Woodley, have returned from an automobile trip to Black Mountain and Asheville.
E. F. Morgan of Shawboro was in the city Saturday on business.
Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Welch and daughter, Miss Fannie Welch, of Stockton Farm near Hertford, were in the city Saturday.

Herbert Peole spent Monday at Wake Forest with his brother, Edward Peole, who matriculates at Wake Forest College this year.

these two murderers can thrive on a prison life, as prison life goes in these days of modern methods. Leopold on his first prison anniversary has graduated from the work bench in the shoe factory to which he was assigned when incarcerated, and now he is doing clerical work in the department. As one of the favored prisoners he has been moved from the old prison to the new model structure at Stateville—said to be the most pleasant penitentiary building in this country.
Loeb, who had many convinced that he had gone crazy after he had gone into tantrums a while back, is now well. He has graduated into the straw boss class and with all his 29 years is bossing other prisoners engaged in cleaning the prison yard. He still is at the old penitentiary at Joliet.
Neither of the young killers, who once ranked as among the

Judge Labors

J. W. Woodruff, judge of the U. S. district court at Omaha, is spending his vacation by working as a common laborer on a public garage he is building as an investment. Labor union rules prevent him from doing skilled work, so he carries mortar and bricks and does other kinds of common labor. Before starting out in overalls at 7 a. m. he plays a round of golf on the links of the fashionable Lakoma club.

HICKORY BUILDS
Hickory, Sept. 14.—A survey of building activities here shows that at this time approximately a million dollars' worth of building is now being done within the corporate limits of Hickory.
Two of the larger buildings that are going up here are the buildings being erected by the Hickory Chair Company, to cost about $150,000, and the new hotel, which is expected to involve an output of $300,000.

most brilliant of young Chicago students, shows any strain of punishment after the first year. Whether the coming years will tell on them is a different matter. Leopold is considered a model prisoner and may expect favored treatment. Loeb doesn't fit in so well but is receiving good care. Both of their minds are said to be functioning in good shape, in spite of dire predictions of psychiatrists a year ago.

TEACHERS REBEL AT TIME CLOCK

Chicago Educators Want to Preserve Dignity and Get More Money

By O. L. SCOTT
(Copyright, 1925, by The Advance)
Chicago, Sept. 14.—The half million kids in Chicago schools are not the only ones who have it in for education as it works here. Several thousand teachers now add their hullabaloo to give the school system a somewhat discordant tenor.
The immediate point of complaint seems to be an order by Superintendent William McAndrews, placing teachers on a time-clock basis. "Punching a clock" doesn't fit in with the professional status in which teachers classify themselves. But the department of education came to the conclusion that teachers' feelings

Fastest Stenog

Martin J. Duprau, a New York youth of 19, won the world's champion speed test for shorthand reporters at Omaha. He upset all the predictions by defeating the veteran, Charles L. Swann, stenographer to President Wilson during the war. Duprau set a new record by taking 76 words a minute. The old mark was 254 words.

were less important than the thousands of dollars which they felt could be saved through preventing abuse of absence privilege.

Another thorn in the side of the militant instructors is an order of the superintendent requiring that meetings of teacher's councils be held out of school hours. More thousands of dollars can thus be saved, the superintendent argues. The teachers have threatened dire things unless they can hold their meetings on school time.

Further, it is the idea of the school superintendent that the platoon system of teaching, alternating instruction and practice, best serves Chicago's purpose. He is pushing the plan as rapidly as possible as a ing in buildings and funds as well as a more efficient means of instruction. It involves more work on the part of teachers and they are fighting it tooth and nail. To cap the climax, just as the superintendent thinks he has found numerous ways to save money, the teachers come through with a demand for more money. They want a pay increase, and the Chicago principals' club joins them in asking for it.

The board of education is trying to raise a flag of truce until it can find a way out of the maze of conflicts. The teachers through
