

SENATORS TAKE EDGE THIRD GAME SERIES

Pirates	0	1	0	1	0	1	0	0	0	3	8	2
Senators	0	0	1	0	0	1	2	0	0	4	10	1

PITTSBURGH GOT FIRST RUN OVER

Kept Lead On Washington Up To Seventh Inning When Two Runs Gave Game to Senators

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 10.—Overcoming a two run lead in the seventh inning the Washington Senators swept to triumphant victory in the first game on their home ground today by the score of 4 to 3.

Pittsburgh drew first blood with a score in the second inning. Washington came back with a score in her half of the third, tying the score, only to have the Pirates snatch the lead again in the fourth and to add another run to their margin of safety in the sixth. But Washington scored again in her half of the sixth, and then, gathering her forces by sea and land for a mighty effort in the seventh, put over the two runs that spelled victory.

Griffith Stadium, Washington, Oct. 10.—Kremer and Smith went to bat for the Pirates and Ferguson and Ruel for the Senators in the third game of the world series.

With the narrow margin of one run in Washington's favor and two more innings to play, Stanley Harris then sent Marberry to the mound and the famous relief pitcher lived up to his reputation by holding the Pirates scoreless for the remaining innings, though he had to have the help of Rice's wonderful catch in the eighth and had to pull himself out of a bad hole in the ninth in order to do it.

The game was cooled before President and Mrs. Coolidge and a crowd of 35,000 that shivered in the field. The victory gave the Senators a lead of two games to one.

The game by innings:
First Inning—Pittsburgh—Moore got base on balls. Carey was hit by pitched ball. Cuyler sent up high fly to Goslin who almost dropped the ball. It was hard to gauge in the high wind. Barnhardt hit into a double play, Peck to St. Harris to Judge. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Washington—Rice hit the first ball and was thrown out. Traynor to Grantham. Stanley Harris flied out to Carey. Goslin struck out and on a passed ball which Smith did not chase, ran clear to second base. The Pirates kicked vigorous but to no purpose. After a strike had been called on Judge four umpires had a conference at the plate and sent Goslin back to first and the strike on Judge was withdrawn. Judge then popped to Grantham. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Second Inning—Pittsburgh—Traynor got three base hit to right which got away from Harris who fell down. Traynor scored on Wright's sacrifice fly to Goslin. Peck made a remarkable catch of Grantham's pop fly and also took care of Smith's fly. One run, one hit, no errors.

Washington—Joe Harris was a strike out victim, swinging hard for his third strike. Meyer went out, Kremer to Moore to Grantham. Carey walked to first on his right and dropped Peck easy fly, Peck going to second, while Carey recovered the ball. It was the first Pirate error of the series. Ruel strolled to first on four balls. Ferguson fanned. No runs, no hits, one error.

Third Inning—Kremer took the third strike with his bat on his shoulder. Ruel took Moore's foul near the visor. Muddy also took Carey's bunt and threw him out at first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Washington—Rice singled over second. Stanley Harris sacrificed. Traynor to Grantham and Goslin flied out to Cuyler. Rice going to third on the catch. Rice scored on Judge's two-base hit along right field foul line. Wright took Harris's grounder and threw wild to first but Judge was out at the plating trying to score. Grantham to Smith. One run, two hits, one error.

Fourth Inning—Pittsburgh—Cuyler got a two-base hit to left center. Barnhardt singled into left and Cuyler scored on the throw in. Barnhardt raced to second. Traynor walked. Peck took Wright's grounder and threw him out at first—no sacrifice. Barnhardt went to third and Traynor to second. The Washington infield came in on the grass. Grantham popped to Judge. Smith was given base on balls. Kremer fanned and everybody howled in glee. One run, two hits, no errors.

Washington—Meyer got a base on balls and the Pirates kicked, but the umpires sent them back to their positions. Peck forced Ruel, Wright to Moore. The Senators tried the hit and run play but Ruel missed the ball and Peck went out. Smith to Wright. Barnhardt took in Ruel's fly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Fifth Inning—Pittsburgh—The weather grew colder as the game went on. Moore struck out, swinging futilely at a slider ball. Carey singled over second and then scratched it by fast running when Rice momentarily held the ball. Cuyler was thrown out by Meyer. Carey going to third. Barnhardt fouled to Judge. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Washington—Ferguson struck out for the second time. Rice beat out a runner to third for his second hit. Stanley Harris sent a liner right at Moore and Moore had no trouble doubling Rice, who was on his way to second. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Inning—Pittsburgh—Rice took Traynor's long fly as it was about to go into center field bleachers. Peck took Wright's grounder and threw wide to first for his fourth error of the series. Grantham swung for his third strike. Smith singled into right and Wright by fast running made third. Wright scored on Kremer's hit which took a mean hop past Harris. Smith stopped at second. Moore walked and the bases were filled with two out. Carey struck out and was thrown out at first. Ruel to Judge. One run, two hits, one error.

Washington—Goslin got a home run into right field stand. Judge sent up a fly to Carey. Joe Harris singled past Moore. Meyer struck out. Peck singled into left. Harris stopping at second. Traynor took Ruel's runner and touched third. One run, three hits, no errors.

Seventh Inning—Pittsburgh—Peck took Cuyler's grass cutter and threw him out. Goslin took Barnhardt's fly after a long run. Traynor sent up a fly to Stanley Harris. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Washington—Leibold, batting for Ferguson, walked on four balls and scored on Joe Harris's single to left. Barnhardt made a beautiful catch of Rice's seeming hit and McNelly scratched an infield hit toward third. It was his first error of the series. McNelly stopped at second. Goslin bunted safely, catching the Pirate infield fast asleep. McNelly scored on Judge's sacrifice fly to Carey. Stan Harris held second and scored on Joe Harris's single to left. Goslin stopped at second. Myers was out, hit by his own batted ball. Two runs, three hits, no errors.

Eighth Inning—Pittsburgh—McNelly went into center for Washington and Rice into right. Marberry now pitching for Washington. Wright struck out, missing a faceliner for the third strike. Grantham also struck out, missing a drop curve for the third one. Rice robbed Smith of a home run with a wonderful gloved hand catch just as the ball was about to go into the bleachers. It was one of the most remarkable catches ever seen in a world series game and duplicated Rice's brilliant catch of Harry Hooper in one of Boston Red Sox games in 1912. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Washington—Traynor made easy work of Peck's hopper, getting him at first. Ruel singled sharply over Wright's head. Marberry sacrificed. Smith to Grantham. Rice got an ovation. Mrs. Coolidge joining in the applause when he came up. He was thrown out by Wright at first. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Ninth Inning—Pittsburgh—Bigbee, batting for Kremer, flied out to McNelly. Moore got a single over Peck's head. Carey singled into right. Moore went to third. Cuyler was hit by a pitched ball and the bases were filled. Barnhardt popped to Ruel. Traynor had three and two on him when he flied to McNelly. No runs, no hits, no errors.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Fearing are both ill at their home on West Main street suffering with tonsillitis.

ORIGINAL ROUTE PEARTREE ROAD AGAIN ADOPTED

"Final" Action Once More Taken But This Time Understanding Seems to Have Been Reached

ELIMINATES CURVES

Commission Gives Up Idea of Pleasing Everybody and Adopts Routing Chosen First Place on Merit

Harmony unfurled her banners once again over the sessions of the Pasquotank Highway Commission Saturday when the Commission by an unanimous vote adopted the original routing of Peartree road, eliminating the S curve at the Overman farm and proceeding diagonally across the Ehringhaus & Small farm.

This motion was passed after a motion offered by N. S. Leary retaining the S curve had been defeated by the vote of Chairman Scott, with members of the commission voting three-three on the proposal. J. N. Williams, who had previously voted for the original routing and then went over to a routing retaining the Overman curve, returned to his original position Saturday, largely, apparently, on the ground that it put in the curves at this stage would involve an additional outlay of about $2,500.

Voting for Commissioner Leary's motion Saturday were Commissioners Leary, Perry and Lane. The same three who voted for it at the regular meeting of the Highway Commission last Tuesday. Voting against it were Commissioners Sample, Meads and Williams and Chairman Scott.

Prefacing all its proceedings Saturday morning with the passing of a motion rescinding all previous action taken as to the routing of Peartree road, it is believed that the final chapter of the controversy, so far as the Commission is concerned, has been settled.

The route now adopted is the one that commended itself to the best judgment of the Commission in the first place and it was adopted accordingly. The matter was later reopened, more or less irregularly, in an effort to satisfy certain objections of certain property owners along the route. Once the question of satisfying property owners was opened, however, the Commissioners found themselves confronted with an apparently endless stream of petitions, of which the return to the original routing Saturday morning is the final result.

Boreas Swoops Suddenly Down On Elizabeth City

Winter Overcoats Make Initial Appearance on Streets: Cold Snap Herded by Merchants as Harbinger of Better Fall Business

Changing swiftly late in the night on the heels of a couple of showers, the weather in these parts this morning was strongly suggestive of midwinter—at least, to those folks who still trustfully were wearing the sub rosa regalia of summertime. Old Boreas was doing his stuff to a fare ye well. The north wind, sweeping down such north and south streets as Road and Poindexter, sent pedestrians scurrying for the scanty shelter of nearby buildings.

It was cold. There was no doubt of that. The thermometer in front of the Standard Pharmacy registered 48 at 9 o'clock in the morning, and there were early risers who claimed to have seen it hovering affectionately around the 40 mark between 6:30 and 7 o'clock. Either figure set a new low record for the season thus far this year.

A few ultra thin blooded folk were seen on the streets in overcoats this morning, for the first time this season. Mostly they were little inclined to apologize for them, taking the attitude that the people who wore none were the ones who should register apology for lack of judgment. More than one flivver stood stubbornly in its tracks in the garage this morning, positively refusing to budge until the weather had come around to the figure that flivvers regard as suitable "starting" weather. All of which gave many a motorist an uncomfortable tendency to remember starting and other automobile troubles that follow in the wake of winter.

Of the people hastening to work this morning, the cheeriest, beyond question, were those who deal in firewood, coal, and other appurtenances of the winter season. There was every indication that business would pick up for them. The dealers in fall attire also showed symptoms of high satisfaction. There is no boost for business this time of the year like a sudden cold snap, and, falling on a Saturday morning, this one was especially welcome to them.

The feminine element of the downtown workers was wearing the same attire that had come in to fashion a few weeks earlier, Milady changes by the calendar, not the thermometer. Fall styles had been taken up by the girls and women sometime before, when the mercury was lingering around 90, and above. Fur trimmed coats were in evidence on the sultriest afternoons at the Fair grounds this week. A mere drop of 40 or 50 in the temperature means little or nothing to these ardent devotees of fashion. If they suffered, they suffered in silence.

SILVER CUPS ARE GIVEN AS PRIZES AT DISTRICT FAIR

Faculty and Student Body of Weeksville High School, 300 Strong, on Hand to Receive Award

WOMEN PRAISED

Camden Club Lauded for Enterprise in Capturing Handsome County Trophy; Other Awards Also

In a delegation three hundred strong, the student body and faculty of Weeksville High School were on hand at the Fair grounds yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to receive the silver cup awarded the school for the best community exhibit at this year's Great Albemarle District Fair. The throng from the school came aboard eleven of their large buses.

Presentation of this cup, and of six others given as premier awards in as many classifications, was by Dr. S. H. Templeman, pastor of the First Baptist Church. In a brief introductory address, Dr. Templeman congratulated the school and the other prize winners on their success in the fair competitions, and urged them to strenuous efforts to retain their trophies next year.

Little Miss Emma Louise Coppensmith, 6-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elisha Coppensmith, of the Bayside community, received the big silver cup on behalf of the school. The pupils had alighted from their buses, and were awarded in a solid phalanx in front of the grandstand, where the awards were made. Miss Coppensmith's picture was taken by Zoolter just after Dr. Templeman presented the cup to her.

Dr. Templeman presented the silver cup for the best fair exhibit to C. W. Ives, of Pasquotank County, and the cup for the best county display to Mrs. P. W. Stevens, president of the Camden Women's Club, which had sponsored preparation of Camden County's winning entry.

A cup for the champion bear at the fair was awarded to Milton Dail, of Hertford. In making the presentation, Dr. Templeman called attention to the circumstance that three of the seven cups were awarded to Mrs. P. W. Stevens, describing this as fortuitous since it offered proof that the Great Albemarle District was firmly welded together into a single large community, with like interests and ideals throughout.

The cup for the best beef bull, Dr. Templeman announced, went to the Foreman Stock Farms. No representative of the farms was present to receive it, however. That for the best 12 years of corn went to P. A. Pritchard, Route 5, Elizabeth City, and for the best dairy bull to E. M. Perry, Route 3, Hertford.

Two of the seven cups were awarded by the Buxton White Seed Company. The others were given by N. Howard Smith, president of the fair, who was present to receive it, however. Independent, Bright Jewelry Company, Duff Piano Company, and Marion C. Love.

Pasquotank County's exhibit is entered at the State Fair, in Raleigh next week was shipped yesterday. It includes many of the choicest products selected from the large exhibit of the County at the fair here, and the fair here, Falls is entertaining high hopes that it will take one of the major awards.

Illumination for the free acts given in front of the grandstand each night at 8 o'clock is furnished by two spotlights, equipped with storage batteries and supplied by the courtesy of the Auto and Gas Engine Works here.

Dismal Swamp Canal Breaks Barrier And Torrent Pours Away

Foundation of Spillway at South Mills Gives Way Under Strain, and Waters Cut Through Nearby Embankment Into Runway; Barges and Schooner are Stranded When Waters Recede

Bursting through the spillway at the locks near South Mills, the waters in the Dismal Swamp Canal were pouring in a turbulent black torrent into the runway to Pasquotank River Saturday, after having wreaked havoc estimated at $25,000 to $30,000 which will take months to repair, in the opinion of B. F. Forehand, superintendent at the locks.

Two barges belonging to the Foreman-Blades Lumber Company of this city, and the schooner George H. Mallison, of the Globe Fish Company, also of Elizabeth City, are stranded in the fast drying canal, near South Mills, together with a small gasboat. The tug Clay Foreman, which was towing the barges, managed to scurry to safety, cutting loose from her tows, shortly after the break occurred. She passed through the locks into the sea level canal stretch beyond, and thence into Pasquotank River. The stranded craft must remain where they are until the damage is repaired and the water in the canal is raised to its former level.

The break in the foundations of the spillway occurred Saturday morning at about 9:30 o'clock, according to Mr. Forehand, who stated that in 45 minutes the waters had burst through the dam at the south end of the spillway, cutting a channel 60 to 75 feet wide and unpropped a large sycamore tree which topped crosswise of the swirling torrent.

When the break first occurred, Mr. Forehand said, the waters quickly rose into the front yard of his home, some 20 feet from the spillway. Fearing that the house would be swept away, he hurriedly notified his family to get together what belongings they could and hasten to a place of safety. However, when the waters had cut their way through the bank at the end of the spillway, they were diverted from the vicinity of the house, and soon dropped many feet.

The disaster is attributed to the strain imposed on rotting timbers and piling in the foundation of the spillway, through the fact that the water on the outside of the locks was three feet below the level of the canal bottom. The weight of millions of gallons of water was more than the foundations of the structure would support.

The spillway itself is of concrete, and was built in 1916, but the foundation work had been installed some ten years before, according to Mr. Forehand, and was not replaced when the concrete superstructure was built. He stated the catastrophe was the worst which had befallen the canal within more than 20 years, and estimated that it would require until February to repair the damage and put the canal back into operation.

A stretch of 22 miles of the canal, from Deep Creek, Virginia, to South Mills, is left dry by the break. The only recent similar disaster to the waterway occurred in 1898, Mr. Forehand said, when the locks at Deep Creek were swept away.

The water continued to pour in a torrent from the canal Saturday afternoon, having reached a depth of about three feet in the middle of the waterway by 3 o'clock. Already the bottom was above water level near the sides, where the canal is shallower, and it was apparent that in a few more hours the waterway would require until after inspecting it.

The canal locks, which are about 300 feet south of the spillway, were not affected by the break. W. H. Taylor, of Norfolk, president of the Lake Drummond Canal Company, owners of the waterway, was summoned to South Mills Saturday morning, and left to make preparations to repair the havoc to the spillway after inspecting it.

Difficulty will be encountered in repairing the structure, Mr. Forehand explained, through the fact that the canal company's machinery for this type of work is floating machinery, and other equipment must be obtained which can be used on land.

There was little or no possibility of additional damage from the pouring waters, through the fact that they had diminished greatly in force and volume as the level of the roaring tide dropped.

Kills Husband

Mrs. Almita Dobson Stewart of Kansas City waited all night for her husband to come home, and then, armed with a revolver, started out to find him. When she discovered Stewart "breakfasting" in a cabaret with another woman at 8 a. m., she killed him.

COLE'S FATE IS WITH THE JURY

Judge Says Character Defendant's Daughter Extraneous Matter

Rockingham, Oct. 10.—Three subjects in the trial of W. B. Cole about which were centered the bitter argument are not issues in wealthy cotton manufacturer's trial for murder, Judge T. B. Finley charged the jury today.

The character of Miss Elizabeth Cole, the war record of W. W. Ormond, her former suitor, and the financial positions of the Cole and Ormond families are extraneous matters, Judge Finley said.

One of the four verdicts may be returned by the jury. Cole may be found guilty of first degree murder of second degree murder or manslaughter; or he may be declared not guilty.

After giving laws defining the jury's proper attitude toward the two defenses offered by Cole, self defense and insanity, he told the jury that if it found evidence that if it found evidence that the defendant entered in a fight willingly and that then the deceased started to get his pistol, then the defendant had reasonable grounds to believe that jury defense was necessary.

The jury took the case at 12:40.

The trial of W. B. Cole, wealthy cotton manufacturer charged with murder, approached its end today with the closing argument for the State. Solicitor Don Phillips, appealing for "evenhanded justice," declared that mothers of North Carolina were listening for the verdict.

Cole, who last August 15, shot and killed W. W. Ormond, formerly his daughter's sweetheart, heard the prosecutor's charge that "the unwritten law was painted in bold letters across a 'smoke-screen' of the defense.

Solicitor Phillips closed his argument at 10:20 o'clock and court declared a brief recess while Judge T. B. Finley conferred with the court stenographer about his charge. As the jury left the courtroom, a buzz of conversation bantered from wall to wall as the crowd waited for the formal close of the two weeks' trial.

McMILLAN EXPEDITION IS STORMBOUND TODAY

Monhegan Island, Maine, Oct. 10.—The MacMillan arctic expedition, just returning from a severe summer in the Arctic, found itself storm bound on the coast of Monhegan today less than 40 miles from the end of their journey home.
