 BEGET NEW!
 CHALLENGE LESSONS

We've never yet heard anybody complain 'cause they didn't have enough sense. In these uncertain days when all of us take chances th' only absolutely safe thing I know of would be challenge 'Pres. Coolidge' a debate.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Alcohol was distilled first in Arabia, so maybe that's why Arabian nights were so wonderful.

Being a rugged character is all right, but you are liable to wear your teeth out snapping them together.

Practically all misunderstandings are caused by people who don't understand they don't understand.

Compare The Advance of yesterday with a morning paper to-day and you'll get what we mean when we tell you that The Advance prints today's news today.

Prepare now for muddy roads, urges a local advertiser. Sticks us, that's like urging preparedness when battle has already been joined in the front line trenches.

State Veterinarian William Moore had known the attitude of the Pasquotank Board of County Commissioners toward any proposal coming from him as well as The Advance does, he would have saved time and stamps.

Not the subscription price but the amount of advertising determines the size of The Daily Advance. When inventory days are done with Elizabeth City merchants, we are hoping that we'll be able to put out six pages daily again.

What The Advance doesn't know about power rates would fill libraries, but it would certainly be a fine thing to know that Elizabeth City was hooked up with a concern that could supply practically unlimited power here at short notice.

If we were a millionaire we'd run a bus line to Point Harbor and when the Chowan River bridge is completed operate a belt line bus from Elizabeth City through Gates, Hertford and Bertie, returning by way of Windsor, Edenton and Hertford. But maybe that's why we are so far from being a millionaire.

DAUNTLESS HEROISM

Milton tried to go ashore on it, but it wouldn't quite keep him out of the water. He hit the channel, and the water went over his hip boots. Then he came back to the boat.

Bit Out O' Heads
 "On Monday, something like a film came over my eyes, and I couldn't see very good. I couldn't hardly use my feet, at all. We imagined we saw boats coming, but they never came. I guess we were a little bit out of our heads. "We hadn't had anything to eat the whole time, but that didn't bother us so much. Looking around in the boat, we found a quart bottle of water I had put in there last summer. It was partly frozen, but it tasted lukewarm—and mighty good. That was all the water we had. Our throats got swollen and our tongues and jaws stiff. Milton said he felt like he had lockjaw.

"Monday afternoon we heard a boat. We managed to climb on top of the cabin, and waded to it. I could hardly stand up, on account of my feet. It came nearer, and I recognized my brother, Sam. He got us on his boat, and carried us to Hatteras."

Both boys are enthusiastic in their praise of the sympathy shown them and the assistance given by the people of Hatteras village. Due to the terrific cold, the harbor was frozen up, and both remained through the week awaiting a thaw. They left yesterday morning, with ice still crusted along the shore there.

Stowe is being treated at the home of his sister, Mrs. Lassiter, by Dr. H. D. Walker, who holds forth hope that his feet will be saved. He has been employed by the Savings Bank & Trust Company here for several years. Hasket runs a small store on Green street. He is none the worse for the trip.

accomplished a vital reform. Senator Norris of Nebraska is ready to press for an inquiry in Congress. If E. P. Costigan of Colorado, Republican, were named chairman, or if some more appointments were made and assurances given that the Commission would actually take up cases and proclaim a few reductions where the facts justify it, Mr. Coolidge might appease the discontent in Congress. There is grave doubt, however, whether even that will stem the tide of criticism as the tariff problem has been linked up with agricultural bloc's activities in Congress.

THAT I will sell a bunch of tenant houses on small installments, brought in, instead of renting, and save the worry of collecting. It is far better for the other fellow, too, for many have said to me: "I have paid out enough rent to buy me a home." Opportunity now knocks at the door.

to relieve City Manager Ferebee of the burden of attending to the dirt streets here, which by general consent were acclaimed the worst in any city of like size in the country. The Council took the stand that little could be done to improve them during the winter months, and the employment of a street commissioner would add materially to the expense of running the municipality, without helping matters much.

The Council passed along to the street commissioner for investigation and report a claim from Secretary Job, of the Chamber of Commerce, for $15 damages resulting from the stalling of his automobile in a hole in the street near his home on Christmas Eve. In the absence of City Auditor Snowden, clerk of the Council, City Manager Ferebee served as acting clerk.

Mr. Joseph F. Glus of Brooklyn, N. Y., writes "In the past 20 years I have been constantly troubled with constipation. Every remedy I tried would work O. K. for a while—but soon failed.
