Chief Holmes Issues Ultimatum That New Parking Ordinance Will Become Operative Monday

The ultimatum has gone forth, and the day of reckoning is at hand. Chief of Police Holmes and his force will begin strict enforcement of the new no-parking law on West Main street bright and early Monday morning.

Members of the Council are manifesting strong symptoms of "cold feet" over their action, and are talking strongly of repealing it.

"I wasn't at the meeting Wednesday night, and, of course, had nothing to do with the ordinance," Councilman D. Ray Kramer remarked Saturday morning.

Except for one raucous howl from a resident of the block, there has been no outward protest over the ordinance also passed Wednesday night, banning parking on the south side of Main street, between Road and Elliott, but permitting parallel parking on the north side.

FAMOUS BRITON COMING ABOARD CUTTER APACHE

Arrangements Completed for Bringing of Sir Esme Howard to Virginia Dare Celebration August 13

COAST GUARD TO AID

Request of Job and Warren Granted by Washington Officialdom; Interest Shown in This City

Arrangements to have the Coast Guard Cutter Apache detailed to bring Sir Esme Howard, British ambassador to the United States, to Roanoke Island for the home coming celebration at Old Fort Raleigh on Virginia Dare Day, August 18, have been completed.

While in Washington this week attending the annual convention of the United States Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Job took up the matter with Lindsay Warren, representative from the First North Carolina District, and together they conferred with Coast Guard officials, effecting arrangements for the cutter with the aid of Lieutenant Commander Stephen S. Yeandle, of the Coast Guard.

Besides the British ambassador, Governor McLean, Representative Warren and numerous other officials are expected to take part in the celebration, which is being sponsored by the Roanoke Colony Memorial Association.

The week in which Virginia Dare Day falls will be celebrated also with the biggest home coming festivities ever undertaken on Roanoke Island.

Mr. Job stated that Representatives Warren and Job for an appropriation of $2,500 for a monument to Virginia Dare had been reported favorably out of committee, and possibly would be passed at an early date.

On his trip to Washington, Mr. Job carried along a number of the recently published Chamber of Commerce folders advertising Elizabeth City, and left a number of them on a table in the United States Chamber of Commerce Building there.

Elizabeth City Man Ready To Adopt Horned Baby

The mysterious colored infant said to have been born in the kitchen of the off-again home of the Lower Regions, whose supposed arrival was chronicled in The Daily Advance on Thursday, is occasioning much discussion.

In substance, the story is that an agent stopped at the home of a colored woman in Crowell or Washington County, and tried to sell her a Bible.

At least one offer of adoption for the strange baby has been received by The Daily Advance thus far, it being predicated upon the assumption that the mother may not be especially averse to parting with so fearsome an offspring.

PUBLIC IS GIVING LITTLE CONCERN TO REGISTRATION

Less Than 25 Persons Enrolled for June Primaries, Though Books Have Been Open Three Weeks

MANY ARE ELIGIBLE

Next Saturday Will be the Closing Day; Second Registration to be Held Just Before Elections

Although only one week remains in which to register for the Democratic primaries to be held on Saturday, June 5, and the subsequent general election in November; and although the registration books have been open three weeks, the gentle public is manifesting a degree of unconcern over matters political that is little short of astonishing.

A casual visit to the four polling places in this city Saturday morning proved most revealing. In every instance, the registrars had the look of being "all dressed up and nowhere to go," and while time hanging heavily on their hands, in all, not more than 25 persons had registered in the entire city.

The Second Ward led the list by a handsome majority, with an estimated total of 15 having registered. The registration books are in the Cut Rate Drug Store, at Dyer and Parsonage streets, and J. B. Wadlow is the registrar.

The other three wards were running neck and neck, with the Fourth slightly in the lead. Four individuals having registered there. Victor Jenkins, registrar, estimated that there were not less than 75 to 80 persons in the ward who should do so, these having moved in since the last registration.

The books are at the polling places in the City Market. Two persons each had registered in the First and Third wards, according to the respective registrars, H. P. Smith and Gid L. Pendleton. Registration is conducted at Mr. Pendleton's home on West Fearing street, and at Mr. Smith's paint shop, on North Poindexter.

The registrars generally expressed the belief that many citizens who had registered for the election last May were under the erroneous impression that that counted for the County and State elections this year, and for that reason had paid no attention to the registration now going on.

Persons who should register include all who have moved from one voting precinct into another; those who will become 21 years old by the date of the elections, November 3; those who for one reason or another have not registered at all; and those who have recently become naturalized citizens of the United States.

Some former restrictions affecting registration and voting have been removed in recent years. For instance, it used to be that nobody could vote until he had paid his poll tax and could produce satisfactory evidence to that effect. That restriction has been taken off.

Party affiliation does not figure in the present registration. The books are open to Democrats and Republicans alike, although, of course, the Republicans will have no part in the June primaries.

A second registration will be held just before the November elections. Hence, the public is given a double opportunity to enroll, since those who do so now need not repeat the process in October.

The registrars are paid $3 a day for their full-time service on Saturdays, and five cents a name additional for all who enroll. None of them was giving any particular concern Saturday to the manner in which he could best invest such increment as would accrue to him from the three-cent fee per name.
