VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL TO OPEN SESSION MONDAY

All Children in City, Regardless of Denomination, Invited to Attend Classes

STANDARD COURSES

Three Departments Organized, With Capable Instructors; No Charge Made for Attending

Coupling spiritual instruction with pleasing summertime recreation, a daily vacation Bible school will begin at Blackwell Memorial Baptist Church Monday morning, to continue until Friday, July 16.

All children in the city and vicinity have been invited to attend, regardless of denomination. The school is free.

The work in the Bible school will be departmentalized. Those in the beginners' department will attend classes from 9 to 11:30 o'clock each morning, and those in the primary and junior departments will be on class from 9 o'clock to noon.

The work will include Bible stories, habit and character stories, music, Bible memory work, and hand work. There will be supervised play also, and at least three outings during the month, according to Dr. James H. Thayer, pastor of Blackwell Memorial Church, who will be principal of the school as a whole, and superintendent of the junior department.

Enrollment for the school will be conducted at the church annex Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock. When attending the first day's classes, all children in the primary and junior departments have been asked to bring scissors, a drinking cup, a Bible and a box of crayons.

Mrs. J. H. Thayer, wife of the pastor, will be in charge of the primary department. She will be assisted by Mrs. Noah Bright, Mrs. John Paul Sawyer, Mrs. C. D. Gallop, Mrs. R. H. Pritchard and a group of young girls.

The beginners' department will be conducted by a group of young female church workers, including Misses Helen Bright, Ruth Jones, Catherine Davis and Mary Owens. Miss Marion Williams will be one of several story tellers in the junior department.

Mrs. E. F. Aydtel, Sr., will serve as general secretary of the school. She will be assisted by Misses Evelyn Rogers, Evelyn Pritchard, Eva Sexton and Clarine Bunch. Mrs. Cecil Bell will help in the hand work in all departments, and the staff of pianists will include Mrs. Noah Bright and Misses Lillian Wilkins, Katherine Davis and Helen Wilkins.

The first daily vacation Bible school here was conducted at Blackwell Memorial Church last summer, under the direction of Dr. Thayer, running for a period of three weeks only. Though one of about 500 schools of the kind in the Southern Baptist Convention, it was accorded highly complimentary mention in the church publications. This year the school will run for a stand term of four weeks, and will be standardized thoroughly in other respects, according to Dr. Thayer.

The average attendance daily at last year's school was 138. Dr. Thayer states, explaining that the value of the instruction and recreation afforded was shown so conclusively that there was an insistent demand that a similar school be conducted this summer. The enrollment included children from families representing practically every denomination in the city.

THOSE WHO BET ON OVERMAN MAY BEGIN COLLECT

Raleigh, June 15.—Now that election bet on how large a majority Senator Lee S. Overman rolled up in his contest with Robert R. Reynolds can be settled, bettors may begin to collect.

Of course no one is supposed to know until tomorrow when the State Board of Elections meets to canvass the returns, just what the actual figures are, but The Advance correspondent has "unofficially" learned that Senator Overman's majority is within only a few votes of being 50,000, with complete returns from some four or five counties yet to be included.

So those who bet that Overman would win by a majority of 50,000 or less—and maybe more, can collect right now without waiting until tomorrow.
