Father's Day Is Sunday; Dad To Be Hero At Last

Gifts of Every Kind, Kind Words, Smiles and Caresses Are Coming His Way on June 20th—Chance to Make Up for Previous Neglect

Ever since the popularity of Mothers' Day, poor Dad has suffered in silence, but at last he is receiving the recognition he deserves. Father's Day has been working its way into prominence for the past three years and each year it is renewed with greater intensity.

Celebrated the third Sunday in June. It will fall this year on the 20. Father's Day—and it took a woman, a mother—Mrs. John B. Doud, of Spokane, Wash., to originate and sponsor the idea. Thousands upon thousands of sons, daughters and wives are learning to remember what it signifies and to observe the day with fitting ceremonies.

With Dad, perhaps the most popular gift is neckwear, for of ties he can never have too many. And of course no one should know his taste better than his family. Following the trend of the times, he is probably less conservative than in days gone by, so one may choose easily from the season's offerings.

Plain crepes and willow-crepes will undoubtedly head the list. Foulards, chamois failles, reps, silks and knitted ties will come in for their share of favor. If Dad prefers bow-ties for summer, one can present him with a few of the latest butterfly bows in polka dots of different color combination.

Other little gifts from the haberdasher that Dad would appreciate on Father's Day include shirts, hose, handkerchiefs, belts, dressing gowns and smoking jackets.

Then again, if Dad likes a good smoke, there is the gift of cigars, cigarettes or tobacco, a handsome set of pipes for instance, or one of the numerous new lighters. Perhaps a cigaret or cigar holder, a tobacco pouch, or a cigaret case. There are any number of accessories for the smoker which Dad would appreciate. If he likes to read, there are books and magazines. Dad has been the goat at church, too. He pays the church dues for the family more or less. If he's a fairly good church member, folks call him a hypocrite. If he isn't he's an awful sinner. Either way, he's the target of criticism. Sunday, no doubt, he will receive kind words. Perhaps songs will be sung about him, that is, if any have been written for him.

At any rate, Sunday, June the twentieth, Father's Day, gives everybody a chance to make up for their previous neglect, and though Dad may be as silent as President Coolidge and show as little appreciation of being remembered as he has shown resentment of this long neglect—don't be misled. Dad has a heart. A few kind words, a bit of affection, and a surcease of that eternal asking Dad for money, will help to make the simple gifts worth millions to dear old Dad.

Harry and George Lee White, Miss Alden and Margaret White, Sam Green and Frank Whitehead of Okisko, spent the week end in Norfolk as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Will Nixon.

A CARD OF THANKS
We wish to express our heartfelt appreciation for the sympathy extended, in the flowers received, cars loaned and any other service rendered in our recent bereavement.

This Fore-Sighted Young Lady Shopped Early for Vacation

Her trunk is all packed and she is waiting for the train . . . day-greaming about the adorable clothes under the strapped lid.

In the lower left hand corner she visualizes herself dancing in the arms of a most distinguished gentleman (he was captivated by her simple little dancing frock, only $25.00).

Then thick and fast come visions of golf-jug, tennis, motoring in the sport frocks (such luck—only $10.98) posing in the cool-looking affair of the polka dots (never think it was only $16.95), and all the rest.

Just what she wanted and at so little cost . . . by shopping early at
