A CIRCULAR.

We the undersigned beg leave to inform the La-dies and gentlemen of Wilmington and its vicinity, that our Spring and Summer Stock of Goods are now open for inspection: consisting of the latest styles of FANCY DRESS GOODS, directly imported from Europese markets. The greatest va-riety of SILKS, SUARFS, EMBROIDERIES, LACES, LINENS, BAREGES, CAMBRICKS, &c. &c. &c., too numerous to mention.

We do not hesitute in saying that our Stock is equal to any other in the southern market, in the election, as well as in prices. We would further add, that one of our firm is continually in the European markets, thus enabling us to have always on hand the latest fashions which may appear. We therefore most earnestly solicit a call before purchasing elsewhere. We tender our sincers thanks for your kind and liberal patronage heretofore, and hope you will continue the same. N. B. Gentlemens' stock of Ready Made Clothing, Boots, Shoes, Hats and Caps, are equal to the above. H. & J. MAYER. April 24.

TIS WELL TO HAVE A MERRY HEART 'Tis well to have a merry heart,

However short we stay; There's wisdom in a merry heart, Whate'er the world may say! Philosophy may lift its head, And find out many a flaw, But give me that philosophy

That's happy with a straw to the sale of If life but brings us happiness-It brings us, we are told, What's hard to buy, though rich ones try With all their heaps of gold! Then laugh away-let others say Whate'er they will of mirth; Who laughs the most may sruly say He's got the wealth of earth.

There's beauty in a merry laugh, A moral beauty too It shows the heart an honest heart, That's paid each man his due. And lent a share of what's to spare, Despite of wisdom's fears, And made the cheek less sorrow speak, The eye weep fewer tears,

The sun may shrowd itself in cloud, The tempest wrath begin; It finds a spark to cheer the dark,
Its sunlight is within! Then laugh away, let others say Whate'er they will of mirth; Who laughs the most may truly boast He's got the wealth of earth !

THE DOG OF BRUSSELS.

The following native (says Chambers) I The following native (says Chambers) I became acquainted with during a visit with my wife to Brussels, in the year 1837.

After visiting many of the interesting objects the pleasant capital, Brussels, offers to the notice of strangers, my companion and I turned our steps towards the Chamber of Deputies. This building is extensive, and occupies three sides of a square, the fourth being open towards the parks. There is a large smooth court in front which forms a pleasant promenade; but, in one corner of pleasant promenade; but, in one cut of the scene, I noticed a common little en dog-kennel, which I supposed to be to a watch-dog. Hembia as one this tenement, it was connected with an incomment of which I had the following history from several days after the battle, the ground was red with French and Belgian blood. Just then a shaggy-looking dog, somewhat resembling a large terrier, but, as I thought, an ugly specimen of his race, walked slowly towards us. He looked good-natured, and I stopped to pat him. Ah ! said the old wostopped to pat him. An I said the old wo-nian, 'he may be caressed now with safety, as he is not on the spot.' 'What spot?' I inquired; and, in reply, she told me the following anecdote: In the revolutionary army that assembled to oppose the Dutch who invaded our city in the month of September, 1830, was a young French officer, who, wherever he went, was followed by the dog you see. The poor lad was in the thickest of the fighting, on the fatal 21st, and felf. covered with wounds, on a spot which I shall you see him now. grawing savagely, and attacking any one who tried to dislosge him.—Some of the people about beat him with sticks, and drove him hway; the next day he returned, but was again cruelly bunted off. When he came back the third time he was worn to a skeleton from latague and looked as if he would never rise again from his master's death-place. My husband and I had gone nway for a white or we would JEST received, from the North, an elegant and extensive assortment of fine Jewelry. Gold and Silver Watches, Clocks, Plated Ware and Musical Roxes to which we would call the attention of Ladies and citizens of Wilmington and surrounding Country. We will continue to sell goods in the above line at prices that will not fail to merif the continuance of the patronage we have received since our commencement in business, and having now procured a competent assistant, we will in future be able to despatch, at the shortest notice, every description of repairing requisite to adjust and accurately time.—

However, they know very well that, ulthough he is as gentle as a lamb while he is walking up and down, they must never attempt to touch him when lying on his chosen spot from which, indeed, he never stirs in any direction farther than a hundred yards. Many of his young friends have tried to entice him to a greater distance: CRACKERS.
